Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

Senator Fulbright's criticism of the administration's foreign policy was probably prompted in part by the reaction of the British press to a recent order issued by our State Department cutting off aid to Britain because the British were trading with the Cubans. According to the Economist of London, the discontinued aid was an item of little value. It states:

"The tap has been turned off, and the last drop of aid worth $7,000, which was to have been supplied by the end of June apparently for technical training and spare parts, will not now trickle through. It would have been about enough, one would think, for one American instructor and his secondhand car".

It was not the sum involved that irked the Economist and other British publications but rather the manner in which the spanking was inflicted. The Economist expressed sincere appreciation for the generous assistance Britain had received from our country on various occasions, attributing British recovery largely to our generous help. But this last Rusk blunder was a costly error and further weakened our already deteriorated position in the field of international relations.

It probably was recognition of this fact that prompted Senator Fulbright to express himself so frankly, and what he said probably will prove helpful for us in recovering some of the respect that we have lost abroad. It is not good for us to be a nation without friends, even if we are strong as a military power.

No one will disagree with the following observations by the Christian Science Monitor on the increasing bitterness in the race struggle. Says the Monitor:

"Negro and white have to live together no matter what. And their chances of doing so with minimum decency could be badly shattered. When men allow terror and animality to possess them, they will only destroy the complex adjustments of human society and not build better ones. Above all in civil strife violence is self-defeating. The real quality of men and society shows when conflicts and provocations become great. This is the moment to understand that no one will win if the chains on madness are broken."

There should have been more of this kind of talk before this desegregation program, in its present form, received official support. We can attribute the mess largely to a sob-sister press and the fact that too many of the law makers, at the state and federal levels, are politicians rather than statesmen.

The main shortcoming of those who have spoken for us in high places on this problem has been their refusal to recognize the obvious fact that much progress has been made in a fairly orderly way. The fact that more progress is needed is recognized by all, but most reasonable people, I am sure, realize that the progress must continue to be gradual. As usual, it is the zealots, who believe that prejudices can be over come merely by passing laws, who are responsible for the present mess, which will become messier as the years pass.

Eventually the problem will solve itself. Nature will take care of that. In a few hundred years there will be no race problem in our country. We will be one people with an ancestry that is part European, part Asian and part African.

Unless civilization is destroyed in the meantime the race problem eventually will solve itself. If civilization does survive there still will be problems because there no doubt still will be zealots and a sob-sister press, and too many politicians and a regrettable shortage of statesmen.

President Johnson's War on Poverty will meet with general approval as a worthy objective. And a popular phrase has been a factor in the winning of many elections. But before we get lost in another wilderness of worthy objectives that are not based on sound principles, let's learn a little more about the formula that will be presented to create this new world of abundance for all.

Just what is poverty? From my observation what would be poverty for one person might be riches for another. Most of us who remember back to the turn of the century, as children in a family of immigrants, experienced what today would be considered poverty. I was the youngest of five children whose parents were industrious. As I recall it, my parents managed fairly well with my father's $45 a month earnings, with the help of a cow and a flock of chickens.

The family's financial status improved gradually and as the youngest of the flock I probably enjoyed advantages that had not been available to my older brother and sisters. We did not live in luxury, but I was never conscious of feeling that we were poor. By present standards I lived in poverty.

Possibly, if relief in various forms had been made available to my parents, they might not have been as industrious and as penny-pinching as they were. But I doubt that we would have had a better or a happier home. I am satisfied that my parents were better citizens because they had to and did struggle.

And so in this campaign-year war on poverty, let's check the records thoroughly to get a picture of what we already are doing, in our efforts to provide for the needy and in encouragement of the needy to help themselves. At the turn of the century the only relief for the impoverished was the Poor House. No reasonable person now would want to go back to that solution. But there is justification for reasonable people to reconsider this overall problem of poverty, with the view that we should still encourage people to help themselves and to provide for their needs in their declining years.

When the Welfare State develops to the point where the government relieves the individual of all responsibility for his obligations to his family and to society, that marks the bottom of the decline of Democracy and the start of another era of slavery.

Fitzsimons Notes Committee Action

Advisory Group Approves Support On Airline Issue

Rep. Richard Fitzsimons of Argyle attended the regular quarterly meeting of the Legislative Advisory Committee (LAC) in the office of Gov. Karl Rolvaag last Thursday. Main item of business on a heavy agenda was approval of a program of dairy research and dairy market research together with an expanded attack on milk barriers.

Among the numerous items that were given LAC approval was the authorization for the Minnesota Department of Aeronautics to hire an expert witness to appear at hearings before the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington, D. C. Such an expert witness was deemed necessary to plead the case for smaller communities in Minnesota which are threatened with the loss of commercial air service. Thief River Falls is one of the communities that appeared in support of this LAC approval for this expert witness authorization.

The dairy product research will concentrate on trying to develop new and different dairy products from those we know now in an effort to make a larger market for the dairy industry. Part of the product research will expand on current attempts to find and develop a process for canning milk that would open up a tremendous new field for the industry, Fitzsimons said.

The market research will explore current marketing of Minnesota milk and dairy products and will try to explore new methods and ideas for better, larger and more efficient marketing of Minnesota milk and dairy products.

Recommended expenditure for the program, which will largely be carried out at the Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, is $125,000 each year until the goal of the program is reached. The money for the dairy research program will come from the tax on colored margarine as authorized by the last session of the Legislature.

membership of all clubs in District 5M3 in 1963.

Officers of the visiting clubs presented gifts to the local group. President Ray Flom of Crookston conferred an unappreciated gift in the form of two live rabbits, Liz and Richard, and five of their progeny, and indicated that the mother is again expecting. Flom instructed Dr. Beich to care for the animals until they can be passed along to another club, which is expected to be done very quickly. Vice President Sandar of the East Grand Forks club gave a supply of rabbit food. Lion Amos Fikkan of Roseau gave the local group a check for $10.

Musical selections were supplied by 20 members of the local barbershop quartet singing society under the direction of Bryant Ulseth, their songs receiving hearty applause, as did three vocal selections by Mr. and Mrs. Ulseth, accompanied by Mrs. Kemble.

In his address, Mr. Roessler, who was introduced by District Governor Sannes, praised the local Lions club for its work in behalf of the blind and providing spectacles for children of needy families, and also commended James Parkins for his many years of service to Lionism.

Lions International, he said, is dedicated to promoting a spirit of mutual understanding throughout the world, based on what he called the four great lights—democracy, education, religion and brotherhood. He concluded by saying that to build a better world, we must start at home.

The Rev. Paul Beigner, pastor of St. John Lutheran church, offered the invocation and benediction, and dinner music was supplied by Wayne Thureson on the Cordovox.

Individual memberships will be sold at the meeting. The cost is one dollar for lifetime membership. Sustaining members pay $10 per year. This is for individuals and businesses who actually carry the financial load of the organization. The county has 24 sustaining members. All businesses are invited to join the association—as sustaining members so that RAD work may be conducted and the area developed to the maximum.

There are many epople who don't know that RAD is a study group which may activate projects for individuals, corporations or co-ops. It has no money. The Area Redevelopment Administration (ARA), however, does have funds which can be loaned to develop projects. These are two separate organizations. All area residents are urged to attend the annual RAD meeting to learn more about area development programs, Carpenter said.

Lake reservation and those downstream which have flood and water supply worries.

Others from this area speaking at the hearing were Robert Wurst, city attorney, and Donald L. Olson, chairman of the Pennington county board of commissioners.

Jack Tanner, Grand Forks, district manager for the American Crystal Sugar company, noted that water supply was important in plans for future beet processing expansion in this area. He said that the firm expects to contract for 167,500 acres of beets in 1965—double the acreage contracted 10 years ago.

The Ross Landowskis and family of Moorhead spent their Easter weekend with Mr. Landowski's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Landowski.

Squad of 30 Reports for Prowler Baseball

Although there is a foot of snow on the Fair Grounds diamond, and the termometer continues to flirt with the zero mark, coach Ralph Skay and his baseball Prowlers are preparing for the 1964 high school baseball season. The squad, about thirty strong, has begun early-season practice sessions in the National Guard armory.

Included in that group of thirty candidates are ten lettermen from last season's district championship squad, and the squad that gained a berth in the state tournament when the Bemidji Lumberjacks were disqualified. Lettermen reporting to coach Skay, and his assistant Jack Junker, are Rick Jensen, Mike Benke, Tommy Cummings, Jack Leedahl, Don Mathieu, Dave Ellingson, Wayne Smith, Dave Erickson, Buzz Olson and Pat Fischer.

From last season's club, which posted a record of fifteen wins and four losses (and this is taking into consideration the Region Eight tourney game which was lost to Bemidji, and then reversed to win for the Prowlers when the Jacks were disqualified), such boys as John Aune, Paul Klungness, Tony Poole, Jerry Erickson, and Dick Johnson have been graduated. The loss of these boys will undoubtedly be evident in the Prowlers' batting attack as Aune, Klungness, and Poole were the "power" hitters on last year's club. And defensively these boys—Aune as a catcher, Klungness as an outfielder, Erickson and Johnson as infielders, and Poole as a pitcher—were vital to Prowlers' success last season.

But coach Skay, in sophomore Wayne Smith and junior Buzz Olson, has a pair of talented receivers, and Smith can produce the long ball at the plate. The pitching staff, with Jack Leedahl, Rick Jensen, Tommy Cummings, and Pat Fischer, should be adequate. Leedahl and Jensen, righthanders, are seniors who saw a great deal of action last season. And Cummings, a loose-jointed sophomore, was impressive in junior baseball last year.

The Prowlers are slated to open their 1964 schedule on April 20, but coach Skay is pessimistic about playing a game on that date because of the recent snows and chilly temperatures.

UNWANTED gift, possibly inspired by the imminence of April Fools Day, was presented to Lions club president O. D. Beich at the club's 25th anniversary party Tuesday evening by President Ray Flom of the Crookston club. The gift consists of seven rabbits, one of which will shortly increase the population. The creatures are moving from club to club in the district, and the local Lions no doubt will pass them along as quickly as possible. Feeding them will be no problem, the East Grand Forks club having provided a two-weeks supply of rations.

The Way It Should Be

There are seven men's bowling leagues in competition on the Family Bowl lanes this season, and as their schedules move into the final week of bowling, six of the league titles are "up for grabs".

In only one league, the Thursday night Commercial league, is there a team holding more than a two-game spread over the runner-up squad. The Thief River Realty team—Carl Onkka, Dick and Harry Kling, Mel Scholin, Farrell Harris, John Drury, and Clarence Knutson—hold a 6½-point lead over the second place Northern Chevrolet. The standings, entering Thursday night's play, finds the Realty with a 75 and 33, while the Chevvies have a 68½ and 39½.

But the other six leagues are in nip-and-tuck races for the league championships trophies. In Monday night Service league play, and this includes games of this week, the KTRF squad has a 70 and 42 mark for first place. In second place is Joppru's with a 68½ and 43½, and in third place is the Farmers Union with 68 and 44. And the league schedule will conclude next Monday.

In the National league, which is also a Monday night league, the Rotary moved into first place and hold a one-game lead over the Tunberg Motors. The Rotary have a 69 and 43 record, while the Tunberg's, dropping three points to the Piggly Wiggly on Monday night, have a 68 and 44 mark. And the Land O'Lakes, with a record of 67½ and 44½, are within reach of first place.

The Tuesday night Business league has developed into a two-team battle between the Thief River Creamery and Inga's Cafe, with the buttermakers holding a one-half game lead. The Creamery, as of last week, had a mark of 64 and 44, while Inga's have a 63½ and 44½ record. The league title should be "on the line" when the two teams meet in a head-on match on Tuesday, April 7, the final series of the season.

And it's a three-team contest in the American league, with the Ranum's Cities Service team, leaders for the past number of weeks, holding a one-game margin over the Amundgaard's and Northwest Decorators. The Ranum's have a 70 and 38 mark, while the hard-pressing runners-up, the Amundgaard's and Decorators, have 69 and 39 records.

In the Thursday night Northern league, the Miller Ford team of Red Lake Falls and the St. Hilaire Elevator team are in a deadlock for first place, with each squad having 75 and 33 records.

And the Friday night City league, which has been a 2-team race for the past couple of months, the Western Oil & Fuel and the Hamm's Beer are in a duel that will carry into the final week of play. The Western Oil, with a mark of 82 and 26, holds a one-game lead over the Hamm's, who have an 81 and 27 record.

As far as individual high-average bowling is concerned it appears that Carl Onkka has clinched that honor. Carl, bowling with the Len's Tire Service team in Tuesday night's Business league, has a 190 average. Lloyd Samuelson, with the Inga's Cafe team, also in the Business league, has a 183 average. Bowling with the Thief River Realty team on Thursday night in the Commercial league, Carl has been rolling at a 187-pin average. Samuelson, with the Hartz Wholesale, is runner-up with a 184 average.

Mel Scholin picked up a pin in his high-average duel with Red Thyren for the T & S high-average trophy. Mel boosted his average to 174, while Red is at a 172.

This is the way league bowling should be, right down to the final week of competition before the championships are decided.

Over Another Hurdle

The Warroad Lakers closed out their best-of-three hockey series with the Flin Flon Warriors on Sunday afternoon by scoring a 4 to 3 win over the northern Manitoba squad in a game played at Warroad. The Lakers won the series by a two games to none, defeating the Flin Flon club on Saturday night, 7 to 5, and closing out the series, after two overtime periods, on Sunday afternoon.

The Lakers, playing in the Canadian Intermediate playdowns, will now make the long trek to North Battleford, Saskatchewan, for a best-of-five series against the Maidstone, Sask., squad. And if coach Dayton Grafstrom's Lakers are successful in sidelining the Maidstone team, the Warroad club will meet the British Columbia-Alberta winner in a best-of-five series for the Western Canada Intermediate hockey championship. This finals series will probably be played at Winnipeg.

The Lakers cleared a tough hurdle when they defeated the Flin Flon club, and now Warroad is only two series away from the big trophy.

Dr. Pollman New Conference Board Member of SDA

Delegates from the local Seventh-day Adventist church who attended the Constituencey meeting at Hutchinson, Minn. early this week were Dr. S. E. Pollman, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nelson, George Dailey and Pastor G. Schwarz. The delegates elected officers for the Minnesota Conference. Since Pres. C. H. Lauda accepted the call to the Washington, D. C. Conference as president, a call was extended to Pastor Murley of Tennessee to be the Minnesota Conference president. Other officers of the conference were re-elected for another term. Dr. S. E. Pollman was elected as a new member of the Minnesota Conference board.

Water Pollution to Be Hearing Topic Apr. 15

The Minnesota water pollution control commission will hold a public hearing on Wednesday, April 15, pertaining to regulation of liquid storage tank installations in the state. The proposed preliminary regulations were approved by the commission at its meeting February 27. The hearing will be held at 10:00 a.m. in Room B in the Veteran's Service Building, St. Paul. Copies of the proposed regulations may be obtained from Lyle Smith, Chief, section of water pollution control, Minnesota Department of Health, Minneapolis.

Establishment of regulations is a second step in implementing authority given to the commission by the 1963 legislature to prohibit storage without proper safeguards of any liquids which could cause pollution of waters of the state.

This section of the 1963 act is the result of last winter's cases of accidental escape of large quantities of industrial oils into the Minnesota and Mississippi rivers. It prohibits "the storage of any liquid in a manner which does not reasonably assure proper retention against entry into any waters of the state that would be likely to pollute any waters of the state."

The 1963 legislature gave the state water pollution control commission authority to issue regulations aimed at this problem and it also gave the commission authority to regulate sources of pollution of underground water.

First step taken by the commission to implement its authority in regard to liquid storage was a statewide survey to provide current information on facilities used for storage of oils, chemicals or other liquids in the state which could cause pollution of waters in case of escape. Most known aboveground facilities used for storage of substantial quantities of oils or chemicals were included in the survey, particularly those in such locations that the contents could escape under certain conditions and get into or pollute either surface or underground waters. Field work for the survey was conducted by the Warden Service of the state conservation department.

Pollution of underground water supplies from the hazard of improperly stored oils or chemicals can occur inland as well as along water courses. In contrast to pollution of surface waters, which will clear up in time, not much can be done when pollution of underground water occurs.

The objective of the regulations adopted by the commission is to prevent pollution that will create bad tastes and odors in municipal water supplies, affect water fowl, fish and other wildlife, limit the use of surface waters for recreation, cause property damage to boats, or create shoreline nuisances.

Bemidji College President Dies

Dr. Charles R. Sattgast Succumbs in Rochester

The educator who guided Bemidji State College for 26 years, from a small campus with 150 students to a now large and modern one with more than 2,000, is dead.

He was Dr. Charles R. Sattgast, 65, who died in a Rochester hospital Tuesday, March 24, following an operation two weeks ago.

Bemidji officials said he had the longest career as a college head of any university or college president in the United States.

His service in that field started when he was named head of Sioux Falls, S. D. College in 1930, a post he held six years.

A native of Illinois, Sattgast received his bachelor's degree from the University of Illinois, his master's from Stanford University and his doctor's from Columbia University.

Sattgast was an Army major in World War II, serving with the military government in England, France, Germany, Austria and Italy.

Survivors include his wife, Mabel; two sons, Lawrence, Silver City, N. M., and Morris, Salt Lake City, Utah; and a daughter, Anita, of rural Bemidji.

Dr. A. C. Clark, veteran member of the Bemidji college faculty, has been named acting president.

Editorials . . .

"When I would beget content and increase confidence in the power and wisdom and providence of Almighty God, I will walk the meadows by some gliding stream, and there contemplate the lilies that take no care, and those very many other little living creatures that are not only created, but fed (man knows not how) by the goodness of the God of Nature, and therefore trust in Him." —Izaak Walton

Something for Nothing

An idea which seems to prove that it is still possible to get something for nothing is set forth in this example which has been making the rounds of Minnesota newspapers:

The vice president of a large concern collected 25 cents from each of the 2,000 employees to buy a gift for the president, about to get married. With the $500 he bought 2,000 packs of "coupon" cigarettes, removed the coupons and exchanged them for a silver serving set for the president's gift. Then he gave every employe a pack of cigarettes for the two bits each contributed. Thus no employee was out a penny. . .

When the boss heard about this highly satisfactory deal, he called the vice president to congratulate him. But the VP was on a fishing trip, trying out the fishing gear he got in exchange for the trading stamps he received when he bought the cigarettes.

Words of Warning

Elsewhere in these editorial columns, an excerpt is taken from the annual report of United States Steel corporation. The report takes a far-reaching outlook at the nation and contains comment by some of the nation's top business executives—men who earn their salaries by keeping abreast of the times and alert to the future.

These words of warning are also taken from the report.

> "The halting of the rising trends in government spending is recognized to be most difficult of accomplishment. But unless and until it is accomplished, there will be an ever-present threat of inflation. There is mounting realization of the injury to incentives and economic growth arising out of the magnitude of taxation. From this has come increasing determination to do something about it. This is all to the good.
> "There is also a rising realization that there is something wrong about reducing taxes unless something also is done about curbing expenditures to avoid the need for big deficits in budgets. This also is good. But the genal insistence on reducing expenditures falls short of that on reducing taxes. This failure to place equal emphasis on expenditure reduction can mean a danger of continuing big deficits.
> "It would seem unwise to create new or add to existing fears of inflation by inflationary financing of planned peacetime deficits. This is because inflation, especially of a 'cost-push' type, is already an imbedded and adverse trend in the economy. Primarily from it and from the tax trend, there is derived a long continued and serious squeezing of profits. Without profits and the prospect thereof the American enterprise system cannot function and the majestic trends that have marked its past would have to disappear from its future."

It Needs a Push

Proponents of the Taconite Amendment to the state constitution have long stated that passage of the amendment will be a major factor in the economy of the state's Iron Range. These people have a valid basis for their statements. We quote from the 1963 annual report of U. S. Steel corporation:

> "Planning has progressed in a number of areas, and contracts covering engineering design have already been awarded for several major projects. Included among these is a proposed plant in Minnesota to beneficiate low-grade, iron-bearing taconite which will have an annual output of about four million gross tons.
> "U. S. Steel is going ahead with the development of detailed engineering plans confident that the people of Minnesota will approve the taconite fair tax amendment which is to be voted upon at the time of the 1964 general election. With this approval construction can start early in 1965."

United States Steel corporation is the undisputed leader in steel production in the nation. Where this company blazes the trail, other companies follow and benefit from its pioneering.

For a number of years the Iron Range has been in sad condition. Its high grade ores have been diminished and the livelihood of iron workers has been taken from them. Companies on the range must produce only what they can sell—and the market is not good. High grade ores can be imported for less money than low grade ores can be mined and sold—based on the amount of steel they will produce.

We look for a favorable attitude toward the Taconite Amendment next fall when Minnesota voters go to the polls. While the state constitution is an almost sacred document, a little sacrilege in regard to taconite can be justified. It would give our state's economy a needed push.

Would It Work?

A federal administration proposal to provide double pay for overtime work is claimed to be able to effect a partial solution to unemployment in the United States. The theory, apparently, is that it would force employers to hire additional personnel to avoid the double salary for overtime work.

Overlooked in the proposal is the question of efficiency. In many cases businesses may decide that their productive affairs could better be handled with overtime payment rather than by untrained personnel. Cost of training is also a factor to be considered.

Since consumers pay the cost of every element that enters into the overhead of a business—including raw materials, transportation, rents, taxes and labor—any increased costs would mean increased prices. Industry has no magic means of producing revenue. The price charged for a product must represent the costs involved with some margin for profit.

More jobs are created by the expansion and creation of industry and business than by government regulation of private enterprise. The best way to create more jobs should likely be to encourage private enterprise to move forward with as little government interference as possible.

So Now You Know

Soon to be in progress locally will be the annual fund-raising campaign conducted by the American Cancer Society, Inc. The Society is a non-profit, voluntary health agency. From the 1963 annual report of the Society, this explanation is given:

"Except for funds given for a specific purpose, all monies received from the annual Cancer Crusade are divided so that 60 per cent is retained by divisions for their own programs in education, research and service to the cancer patient and for fund raising and administrations; 25 per cent is for the Society's nationally-administered research program; three per cent is for a national program of medical fellowships; and 12 per cent is for the national office program in education, service, fund raising, administration, and for technical and advisory services to divisions."

Last year the Society had total income of $42,413,993 and total expenditures of $39,-$39,230,709. Of the expenditures, $13,382,458 or 34 per cent went for research, $7,369,603 for service to the cancer patient, $7,101,992 for public education, $3,782,922 for professional education, $4,285,657 for fund raising and $3,308,077 for administration.

When a Cancer Crusade volunteer comes to call, you will now have the basic financial picture of the Society. More specific information will be provided by the volunteers.

New Dairy Research

Minnesota's dairy industry has apparently found considerable favor in the eyes of the state Legislature. A news item received this week from Rep. Richard Fitzsimons of Argyle notes that the Legislative Advisory committee last Thursday approved a program of dairy research and dairy market research.

To be carried out primarily by the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture, the program has a recommended expenditure of $125,000 annually until the goal of the program is reached. Money for the program will come from the tax on colored oleomargarine which was imposed by the last session of the Legislature.

For some time we have complimented the dairy industry for its research program within the industry. Among major agricultural enterprises, the dairy industry has taken the lead in research, merchandising, promotion and improvement to sell its product and create a better economic atmosphere for dairy farmers.

While the industry will likely welcome the $125,000 research grant from the Legislature (particularly since it is being paid by a prime competitor), we trust that the industry will not let its own efforts slip backward because of it. To do so could be a fatal error.

At present we view the action with mixed emotions. Our sympathies lie with the dairy farmer who is faced with a vast complexity of problems in production and marketing. But we wonder how non-dairy farmers will feel about the action—particularly those in soybean production.

BY BERT MILLS

Washington Editor of "National Publisher"

Poverty has been a successful political issue for Democratic Presidents since Franklin D. Roosevelt took office in 1933. The poor are still with us but so is the issue.

President Lyndon B. Johnson's "war on poverty" is the latest in the long list of programs. Not very much of the Johnson proposal is new but he has dressed up the old ideas, added some new ones, and packaged unrelated schemes to give them added glamour.

Economy-minded Congressmen wince at the billion dollar price tag on the package. But this is an election year and no politician can afford not to be against poverty. So the prospect is that at least some parts of the program will be enacted in 1964.

Here is what Johnson recommended in the proposed "Economic Opportunity Act of 1964:"

1. Establishment of an "Office of Economic Opportunity" in the executive office of the President, directed by R. Sargent Shriver, the hero of the Peace Corps and brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy.

2. Give the new OEO agency authority to coordinate poverty-related programs being operated by existing agencies, such as the departments of labor and health, education and welfare and the Small Business administration.

3. Assign to OEO operating control over three new programs, a job corps for youth 16 through 21, a community action program to subsidize local anti-poverty effort, and a volunteers of America plan which is the long-pending domestic peace corps.

Local Programs Encouraged

Of special interest to Hometown, U. S. A. are plans "to encourage and support community action programs which mobilize community resources to combat poverty and which are conducted by a local government unit or an organization which is broadly representative of the community."

This part of the package carries the largest price tag—$315 million in the first year. The horrid word "subsidy" is not used in describing the scheme. "Federal assistance" is the preferred term.

The aim is to attack poverty through education, using the public school system. Different communities are expected to come up with different educational plans, and upon approval by Shriver and Co., Uncle Sam will pay 90 per cent of the cost the first two years and 75 per cent thereafter.

Religious objections are sure to be raised to the school program, since parochial schools are excluded. The White House blueprint limits aid to those plans which are "open to all children regardless of whether they are regularly enrolled in the public schools."

Among the things contemplated are remedial reading, summer instruction and special tutoring. Counseling of low income families on health and job programs is also anticipated.

Another phase of the plan is a series of grants and loans to low income rural families. A first year appropriation of $50 million would be distributed by the U. S. to keep family farms operating.

Loans would also be made to non-profit corporations to acquire land to be divided into family farms. Cooperatives would also be eligible for loans for this purpose.

Job Corps to Train 100,000

The proposed Job Corps for young men is patterned after the depression-born Civilian Conservation Corps, but with added features. Aimed at school dropouts and others lacking skills to qualify for a job, volunteers would be assigned to more than 100 camps and centers to be established throughout the nation.

Goal is 100,000 enlistees eventually. Half the young men would work on conservation projects and half would receive a blend of work and education at job training centers. First year costs of this program are estimated at $190 million.

A special effort will be made to avoid having these camps and centers considered as simply havens for the underprivileged. President Johnson sees them as "new educational institutions, comparable in innovation to the land grant colleges."

Another aspect is a national work training program designed to assist 200,000 young men and women under 22. Part time employment would be provided in such places as hospitals and libraries to allow young people to both their schooling and find a job.

Costs of $150 million a year would be paid by the Department of Labor. State and local governments and non-profit agencies would cooperate with the U. S. in providing job opportunities.

HEW would finance another plan to the tune of $72.5 million a year, called the national work-study program, aimed at aiding those qualified for college but unable to afford it. Part time work up to 15 hours a week would be provided to those lacking scholarships.

Business Loans Planned

Two types of employment and investment incentives are projected. Area Redevelopment administration would make or guarantee loans "for investments which will employ hard-core unemployed or members of low-income families." For each new job created, $10,000 would be loaned. Small Business Administration loans up to $15,000 would also be liberalized, with more favorable terms.

Finally, HEW would subsidize pilot projects seeking "family unity through jobs." This is aimed at unemployed fathers and other members of needy families with children. State programs would be developed to provide constructive work experience for jobless adults with family responsibilities.

Congress has already gone to work on some phases of the program. Whatever the result, the usual election year hullabaloo over poverty will be heard during coming months. Somehow the poor are never so appreciated as in years divisible by four.

Lobbying is a dirty word, in Washington and in 50 state capitals, yet lobbyists are an essential part of representative government and make a real contribution to the legislative process.

Few people except legislators appreciate the role played by lobbyists in shaping the laws of the land. It is a rare statute that is enacted without some special interest group playing a part. Nor is this outside influence necessarily bad.

Charles L. Clapp, legislative assistant to Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R., Mass.), discussed this subject in his new book for The Brookings Institution, "The Congressman: His Work as He Sees It." Brokkings corraled 39 House members for a series of round table discussions to obtain the material for a remarkable book.

Clapp reported: "The constructive services that are provided by today's professionals are often little known. Congressmen frequently comment on this fact, generally expressing regret that the functions, activities and motives of lobbyists are so commonly misunderstood."

One House member quoted anonymously by Clapp said: "A lot of people seem to think lobbying is a bad thing. I think that is one misconception that still needs to be corrected as far as the general public is concerned. Lobbying is an essential part of the representative government, and it needs to be encouraged and appreciated.

"Lobbyists are frequently a source of information. If they come to your offices and explain a program or factors contributing to a need for legislation, you get a better understanding of the problems and the answers to them.

"If you have your independence, and I think we all do, they can teach you what an issue is all about, and you can make your own decision. There can be bad lobbying techniques, of course, but basically lobbying is a good thing."

Nobody knows how many lobbying organizations are operating in Washington today. There is a federal law requiring lobbyists to register with Congress but the statute is so weak that some groups ignore it. Others register but tell very little of their legislative activities. More than 300 organizations are registered.

Unions Lobby Extensively

Organized labor does an effective lobbying job in Washington. Unions do not confine themselves to labor legislation but take a pro or con position on a host of other matters.

For example, A. F. L. - C. I. O. is strongly in favor of the Administration's medicare program. This proposal applies to everybody and not just to union members but the unions spend large sums pushing the plan.

As non-profit organizations, the unions enjoy a lobbying advantage. They pay no taxes. A business concern cannot deduct from its taxes the costs of attempting to influence legislation. Of course, there are many non-profit bsuiness groups which lobby but company payments for that purpose are a non-deductible expense.

One of the most effective labor lobbying groups is the National Association of Letter Carriers. Pay raises for government employees are spearheaded regularly by hte mailmen. There are a handful of other postal unions, all with their own lobbies, but the Letter Carriers do the major work and have a high batting average in Congress.

The railroad brotherhoods also operate an effective Washington lobby, especially respected for the job it does on the local front in helping friendly Congressmen get reelected. The rail unions not only furnish campaign contributions but actively participate in lining up votes.

Age of the "Soft Sell"

According to author Clapp, "this is the age of the 'soft sell' in lobbying work." He reports that "crude attempts to buy support" are a thing of the past. Today's techniques "are far more subtle," he claims.

The professional lobbyist seems to have discovered that fact, logic, assistance and goodwill achieve the best results over the long term. Belligerent, shady or bombastic advocacy may be effective in an isolated situation but needs to jeopardize or destroy future relationships and thus seldom is worth the gamble."

Some Congressmen make regular use of lobbying organizations to provide research meterial. One Republican told the Brookings round table he often calls the Farm Bureau for help. He always gets what he wants and has never been asked for a return favor.

Oddly enough, this Congressman prefers the lobby group to the established source which is the Library of Congress. He said: "Quite ofter I don't have confidence in their research or its quality."

Another trend in lobbying is concentration on the grass roots. Many of the more effective lobbies are decentralized. While the strings may be pulled from Washington, the approach to a Congressman is made by a friend from back home. As one legislator told Brookings, 'Committees are more impressed by guys from the field.'

A Democrat told of the withdrawal from Capitol Hill of the private utility lobby. "About 10 years go," he said, "They were here in force with a big office and were working like mad. Soon they realized the way to get to the Congressman was back home with the voters. Today their real effort is made at the grass roots. And they can control more votes among individual Congressmen than many other special interest lobby."

Congress is a battleground. If legislators are the soldiers, lobbyists are often their armor bearers. It is in this capacity that lobbying is welcomed by many Congressmen.

Highway Dept. Seeks Bigger State Patrol

A roundup and restudy of highway safety measures proposed to the 1963 state legislature but not adopted is under way by the Minnesota highway department.

The department hopes to sponsor the measures at the 1965 legislative session and to convince the legislators of the need. They include an increase in personnel for the Highway Patrol; re-examination of drivers; periodic inspection of motor vehicles; and establishment of uniform maximum speeds on all rural roads.

The department also plans to support proposals for making driver education and training available to all secondary school pupils through the public school system; establishment of driver improvement clinics; authorizing qualified peace officers to make an arrest without a warrant but on the basis of his investigation for a traffic violation he did not witness or which contributed to an accident; and to increase penalties from $100 or 90 days to $300 and 90 days for conviction for major traffic offenses such as drunken driving, hit and run, driving after revocation or suspension.

The department is currently reconsidering the need for a substantial increase in the manpower of the Minnesota highway patrol. Additional men are needed more than ever to more adequately enforce traffic and motor vehicle laws on the state's 11,905 miles of trunk highways and the growing Interstate system.

Compared to the 1,865,765 motor vehicles registered in Minnesota, the thousands of others that enter from other states daily, and the nearly 16 billion vehicle miles traveled annually on Minnesota roads and steets, the present 378-man force is inadequate, the department contends.

Of the patrol's 378 men, 342 are on the road. The others are supervisory. The patrolling force last year logged 10,840,000 miles, or an average of about 32,000 miles for each patrolman. Thus, each officer logged an average of more than 2,500 miles per 20-working-day month.

With so many miles of highways to cover, the officer cannot get to all the places where he is needed.

With fewer miles to cover, each officer would be able to spend more time on each mile of road in his sector, and thereby improve safety and enforcement on the roads. He could also offer his services to more motorists.

Boy Scout Council Annual Meeting Set in Grand Forks

Business Session Slated In Afternoon; Banquet Scheduled Sunday Night

Forty-fifth annual banquet will highlight the annual meeting of the 15-county Lake Agassiz Council, Boy Scouts of America, next Sunday afternoon and evening at the University of North Dakota student union. More than 300 scouting leaders, wives and friends of scouting are expected at the meeting that will get underway at 2:30 p. m.

Workshops for Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Explorer leaders will be held in the afternoon as well as a budget-building conference and the annual business meeting. The beginning sessions will be held in the Red River Valley room of the union. Following a welcome from Lake Agassiz Council President, Robert E. Pile, the scouters will participate in four different sessions.

Area Cub Scout leaders will meet to discuss program participation in the summer camping experience at Camp Wabaunaquat. Explorer leaders, with James Nelson, Crookston, in charge, will concern themselves with the techniques of working in the program for high-school age boys.

Institutional representatives, district, council and executive board members, will participate in a budget-building meeting in the afternoon.

The annual business meeting will feature election of members of the executive board and officers, report of the treasurer and the charter review of the council by Lloyd J. Kraft, St. Paul deputy regional scout executive.

Highlights of the annual fellowship banquet, to be held in the student union ballroom, include an address by Frank W. Preston, Chicago, assistant national director of volunteer training of the national council, Boy Scouts of America; and presentation of Silver Beaver awards.

Turkey Output to Rise During 1964

Survey Committee Sees Prices Holding Steady

A 2 to 4 per cent incease in the 1964 United States turkey crop—with prices remaining about the same as last year— was predicted last week by the National Poultry Survey Committee.

The committee, composed of five leading college economists, is co-sponsored by the National Turkey Federation and the American Feed Manufacturers Association.

An encouraging factor in the turkey picture, the committee said, is the expectation that feed prices for producing the larger crop will remain about the same as in 1963.

Cold-storage holdings at the beginning of 1964, however, were 7 per cent larger than a year earlier —which will push midyear prices below those of mid-1963.

Lower hatching egg and broiler chick prices also are ahead, the committee prdicted.

Record Total of $14.3 Million on Road Jobs

The biggest highway construction letting in the history of the Minnesota highway department was held March 20, with apparent low bids totaling $14.3 million submitted on 25 trunk highway projects, the department reports.

More than 500 representatives of highway construction and allied firms in Minnesota, with a few from surrounding states, came to hear the bids called at the department's central offices in St. Paul.

The projects involve construction of 42 bridges, grading of 114 miles, surfacing of 31½ miles, fencing, traffic signal systems, building removals and installations of a pumping station.

On the biggest project, Walter D. Giertsen Co., Minneapolis, submitted the apparent low bid of $3,337,061 for grading of 9.9 miles of THs 35, 3 and 218 and 21 bridges between CSAH 31 and the junction of THs 35 and 14 at Owatonna. Most of the work is on TH 35, connecting with the eight miles of TH 35 north of Owatonna, the first segment of Interstate freeway opened in the state in 1958. Work is to start May 18 and be completed in 180 working days.

Hallett Construction of Crosby submitted the apparent low bid of $2,118,187 on the second biggest project, which calls for gravel base and concrete pavement on 9.6 miles and traffic signs and devices on 13.2 miles of TH 90 between the west state line and junction TH 75 south of Luverne. Work is to start when directed by the department and be completed in 80 working days thereafter.

The letting included several other major projects, including a million-dollar job on TH 169 in the vicinity of St. Peter and one on TH 90 near Luverne. The projects in this area are listed below:

Clay County, TH 10, Grading of 16 miles between Dilworth and one mile west of Hawley and two bridges, one (eastbound) over south branch of Buffalo river and one (eastbound) over Buffalo creek: eight bids, apparent low bidder Sellin Bros., Inc., Hawley, $620,997. Work is to start May 18 and be completed on 105 working days.

Clearwater and Polk Counties, TH 2, Grading, gravel base and plant-mixed bituminous base on eight miles between 1.1 miles west of the east line of Polk county and Bagley: 10 bids, apparent low bidder Moen Bros., Inc., Moorhead, $775,940. Work is to start May 1 and be completed in 110 working days.

A BIGGER World

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

There comes a time, even in a chick's life, when the way must open to a greatly expanded world. When his confining shell no longer allows proper growth, he makes a point of throwing off his shackles and steps out into a big, strange world.

This comparatively simple phenomenon is paralleled in human existence as each child grows toward adulthood, and reaches out for the wider horizon. What he finds there will depend in great part on what he has been taught.

For this reason the early and continued guidance of Christian home and church are all-important. From these things the foundation of faith is built. Through faith and understanding the shackles of fear and bondage are dispelled, and your child grows spiritually strong to meet the ever-widening horizons and challenges of a modern world.

Red Lake Electric Coop Has Meeting

Capital Credits Totaling $25,000 Are Distributed

Approximately 1,000 persons attended the 26th annual meeting of Red Lake Electric Cooperative, Inc., held Wednesday at the Oklee high school auditorium. Capital credits representing one half of 1959 and totaling $25,000 were made available for distribution to members, according to Charles Kleven, manager of the cooperative.

Reelected to the board of directors were Manvel Moe, Thief River Falls, district 2; Stanley Radniecki, Oklee, district 7; and Raymond Parnow, Goodridge, district 8. At the reorganizational meeting of the board, Leonard Melin of Red Lake Falls was reelected president with Helmer Lind of Newfolden renamed vice president and Joseph Skala of Red Lake Falls reelected secretary-treasurer.

Annual report of the cooperative showed that it has total assets and other debits of $3,086,437. Electric plant in service is valued at $3,273,673 with construction work in progress totaling $38,659. A total of $1,254,070 is in reserve for depreciation.

Liabilities include $2,455,450 in long-term debt to the Rural Electrification Administration and $43,463 in accrued liabilities, with total liabilities being $2,530,223. Membership equities total $556,214.

Income of the cooperative in 1963 totaled $711,017 as compard with $680,046 in 1962. Expenses increased during the same period from $571,055 in 1962 to $587,379 in 1963. Total operating margin was $123,638 last year, an increase of almost $15,000 from $108,990 in 1962.

Last year the cooperative had 3,285 members receiving electric service from 2,241 miles of line and averaging 6,049 kilowatt hours per member. Average annual bill per member was $185.85. The cooperative purchased 22,327,200 KWH and sold 19,926,053 KWH for a line loss of 11 per cent. Investment in plant per mile is $1,478 and investment in plant per member billed is $1,008. Total KWH sold increased nine per cent over 1962.

While the total KWH sold has increased steadily from about 7 million KWH in 1953 to nearly 20 million KWH last year, the average selling price per KWH has decreased from about 4.7 cents to 3.1 cents.

President Melin presided at the meeting and Mayor Bernard Remick welcomed the members to Oklee. Guest speaker was Edward E. Slettom, executive secretary of the Minnesota Association of Credit Unions, who spoke on the importance of cooperatives in today's agriculture. Entertainment was furnished by Leo Dufault.

Allin Ward Hit By Car Friday

Receives Broken Leg In Eighth Street Mishap

Allin Ward, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Pederson of Northwestern Trailer court in Thief River Falls, is reported in good condition today at Northwestern hospital after being struck by a car near the trailer court on Friday.

According to city police who investigated the accident, the Ward youth was struck by a car driven east on Eighth street by Eugene Hanson, city. The mishap occured in the 600 block on Eighth street and the youth was carried 28 feet by the car. He sustained a multiple fracture of the left leg, a head laceration and cuts and bruises. The accident is under investigation by the police department.

Police Chief Elton Cummings noted that this is the second pedestrian mishap in the past several weeks, the first being of a less serious nature. "The next accident could be a fatality," Chief Cummings warned. "It is easier to control cars than to control youngsters. A little extra caution when driving, now that children are getting more active outdoors, can prevent the damage and misery caused by an accident."

Mr. and Mrs. Jorgen Austad had as their Easter guests Mrs. Anna Rupprecht, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Ranum and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Art Langseth and Steven.

Lew Conlon Quits as Dairy Leader

L. H. (Lew) Conlon, for 15 years manager of the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee (MDIC), resigned Wednesday.

His resignation, effective June 30, was submitted to and accepted by a meeting of the MDIC in St. Paul Wednesday.

Conlon, along with Stuart McLeod and other area leaders, was instrumental in setting up the first Northwest Dairy Day 15 years ago in Thief River Falls, and had served as master of ceremonies at the event in each of the succeeding years.

The committee immediately voted to ask Harold Searles, retired University of Minnesota extension dairy husbandman, to serve as acting manager.

"I'm not reelly looking for a job," he said, "but I'll do anything I can to help."

In accepting Conlon's resignation, MDIC President Walter Larson, Lake Elmo, Minn., said, "I don't think there is a member of this committee who is unaware of the valuable service Lew Conlon has given to dairying," he said.

An announcement released from the committee headquarters in St. Paul said that Conlon resigned "for personal reasons." He told the committee he had "no immediate plans for the future."

Conlon, a veteran spokesman for dairying, worked two years as an American Dairy Association (ADA) fieldman before becoming MDIC manager in 1948.

The farmer-supported Dairy Industry Committee is the Minnesota unit of the ADA.

Conlon was the originator of the state's 11 regional dairy days, of which the Princess Kay of the Milky Way promotion — another Conlon innovation — was an integral part.

The Princess Kay program was brought before yesterday's MDIC meeting in a discussion of committee programs and expenditures.

A motion to study and reevaluate the promotion was tabled, but a member of the committee said laer there is a possibility the Princess Kay program may be curtailed in the future.

Area Teachers of Business Attend Meeting in City

International Business Machines Corp. Shows New Types of Equipment

Area business education instructors and administrators attended an educational workshop on Thursday, April 2 at the Thief River Falls area vocational school business education department. Miss Kay Lund, IBM (International Business Machines Corporation) educational representative, presented an informative and stimilating program using a new audio-response teaching concept. Many methods of improving teaching techniques in shorthand and typewriting were presented. The latest IBM equipment for improving instruction in business education was demonstrated.

A noon luncheon hosted by Tom Opp, IBM sales representative, was held at the Rex Cafe for the visiting instructors and administrators, who were from throughout the area from as far south as Waubun and Ada and north to Warroad.

IBM demonstrated their new "Selectric" typewriter which is unique as well as extremely functional for teaching, as no typebars are used in the machine. A round element containing all characters on the typewriter is used in the machine. Instead of a carriage moving back and forth, only this element moves permitting faster typewriting with no jamming of typebars.

Keyboards on the IBM "Selectric" can be modified to teach card-punch stroking as well as typewriting. Having mastered the fundamental card-punch stroking on "Selectric" typewriters training time required on card-punch machines has been reduced to a minimum. This introduction to card punching is a significant addition to the business education curriculum, another step forward in providing up-to-date training to meet the demands of the modern business office.

Spending Easter as guests of Mrs. Irene Cloutier were her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Thompson and family of Grafton, N. D.; Father Clarence Cloutier of Warroad, and Mrs. Stewart, also of Warroad.

Stockman Elected Dist. Chairman of Scout Committee

Leslie Matts Named as Vice Chairman; Kritz New Dist. Commissioner

George F. Stockman and Leslie G. Matts were elected to the scouting offices of district chairman and vice-chairman, and Florian Kritz was named district commissioner, at the annual meeting of the Pen-Ro-Shall District committee of the Lake Agassiz council held last week in Thief River Falls. All are from Thief River Falls.

Also named on the district committee, supplementing the basic membership of the institutional representatives of sponsoring organizations, were Quentin Jones, Clarence Knudsen, Clarence M. Knutson and James Roche, Thief River Falls, and Amos Rikkan and Phillip E. Johnson, Roseau.

Plans were discussed for the coming district Scout Exposition, to be held April 25 at the Thief River Falls city auditorium and sponsored by the local Junior Chamber of Commerce. Entries of demonstration booths by all Cub packs, Scout troops and Explorer posts in the district are being invited.

The district spring camporee will be held June 5-7 at Old Mill State park, and scoutmasters were given a sample of the camporee patch which will be presented to all Scouts and Explorers woh participate.

"Strengthen America's Heritage", scouting's national theme for the coming year, will be the theme of the exposition and the camporee.

Summer camp reservations for Camp Wabaunaquat are being accepted by the council office in Grand Forks, and troops were urged to make early reservations of dates. An exceptionally fine program is assured again this year, with most of last year's camp staff returning, according to Ed Bilek, district scout executive for the Minnesota service area of the Lake Agassiz council. Bilek will again be camp director.

Next month's district committee meeting will be held May 7 in Roseau.

National Guard to Hold State 'Alert'

A state-wide, practice alert will be conducted by the Minnesota Army National Guard to test their ability to respond rapidly to an emergency call in support of city, state or nation.

The practice alert involving approximately 10,000 men in 68 communities will be conducted during the period April 6 to 17 at a time and date to be selected by the adjutant general. There will be no prior announcement of the time or actual date of the alert.

The objectives of the practice alert are:

1. To determine the readiness of the Minnesota Army National Guard for performance of emergency missions.
2. To test the alert and rapid assembly plans of all organizations and units.
3. To point out to the public the readiness of the Guard for duty in time of state or national emergency.

Alert orders will be issued by the adjutant general to major commanders who will, in turn, issue orders to those organizations and/or units subordinate to them.

Farm Forum Draws Big Crowd Here On Friday

CHAMBER OF COMME

Foreign Trade Is Topic Discussed By Noted Speakers

Impact of foreign trade on the Minnesota farmer was thoroughly discussed Friday when the First Annual Northwestern Minnesota Farm Forum was held at the National Guard Armory in Thief River Falls. Approximately 700 people were in attendance at the forum which had as its topic, "The Minnesota Farmer in Foreign Trade".

Guest speakers at the forum were Dr. Elmer Learn, head of the department of agricultural economics at the University of Minnesota; Rep. Odin Langen, Congressman from Minnesota's Seventh district; and Sen. Eugene McCarthy, one of Minnesota's two senators in Washington, D. C.

Fred Sorensen, chairman of the agriculture committee of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, forum sponsor, served as master of ceremonies for the program. Mark Bruggeman, president of the Thief River Falls Future Farmers of America chapter, led the crowd in the pledge of allegiance to open the meeting. A welcome was extended by Mayor Orin Green.

Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agricultural agent, served as moderator for a panel discussion which featured the three speakers for the day. He also introduced Dr. Learn who key-noted the conference with an informative address at the morning session.

Dr. Learn Speaks

All developed countries have farm problems and all have farm programs to deal with these problems which are in conflict with world trade, Dr. Learn said. There is a reappraisal being made of agricultural policy at this time with greater attention being paid to the action taken by other nations.

"In the final analyses, these foreign considerations may weigh much more heavily that the domestic considerations in the determination of future farm policy," he said. "As recognized leader of the free world, we can hardly afford to lead that world to even greater trade restriction without

McCarthy Cites Need for Several Product Programs

Emphasis on government program needs for feed grains, dairying, wheat and beef was given by Hon. Eugene McCarthy, U. S. Senator from Minnesota, at the Northwestern Minnesota Farm Forum Friday in Thief River Falls. Sen. McCarthy called for restrictions in beef imports, but said they had little effect on cattle prices.

"A vigorous international trade policy carries risks, and this is demonstrated by the increase of meat imports in recent years," Sen. McCarthy said.

"The imports of beef and veal from Australia and New Zealand rose from 200 million pounds (product weight) in 1958 to 760 million pounds (product weight) in 1963. More than 1 billion pounds of beef and veal (product weight) were imported into the United States in 1963, representing 11 per cent of U. S. production.

"Meat imports undoubtedly had a depressing effect on cattle prices but there are other and more significant reasons for low cattle prices. To over-simplify the problem or to imply that meat quota legislation would return cattle prices to a fair level is misleading.

"The principal reason for low cattle prices has been the great increase in the production of beef and other meats in the United States since 1958. The number of cattle in the United States this year is 106 million head, an increase of more than 15 million since 1958. Domestic production of beef and veal was more than 1 billion pounds greater in 1963 than in 1962.

Langen Reviews Import Situation And Farm Prices

"You won't solve farm problems with a wheat bill that promises less than you got last year, and you won't solve farm problems by permitting imports to flood our markets while other countries close the door to us." This was the statement made by Hon. Odin Langen, Seventh District congressman, in addressing the Northwestern Minnesota Farm Forum in Thief River Falls on Friday.

Rep. Langen said that an unfair trade relationship with other nations of the world, including the Common Market, was the current cause of troubles on the American agricultural scene. "What we do on the foreign agricultural scene in the years ahead will dictate to a great extent the future of our own agricultural economy," he said. "Unfortunately, we are currently doing the wrong things.

"That is why I recently wrote to the tariff commission, the departments of state and agriculture and Mr. Herter of the Geneva trade team, asking for a complete review of our entire foreign policy in regard to the relationship between agricultural imports and falling prices paid to domestic producers of farm commodities," he noted.

The farmer-congressman from Kennedy, called attention to the fact that other countries of the world guarantee a high level of income to their farmers through variable import levies, license fees, gate prices and other restrictive regulations to keep imports out and protect their own economies.

"Such restrictive measures are completely missing in the United

Dr. Learn States Foreign Programs Have Impact Here

Laying the basis for thinking about problems connected with foreign imports and world trade, Dr. Elmer Learn, head of the department of agricultural economics at the University of Minnesota, opened the First Annual Northwestern Minnesota Farm Forum Friday at the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls.

"It is important for us to realize that many problems in the field of world trade do not have answers," Dr. Learn said. "In some cases there is no black or white—no right or wrong—no absolute solution to be offered."

Reappraisal of our agricultural policy is now being made, the economist told the crowd at the opening session. There is getting to be a realization that events taking place overseas are equally as important, if not more important, that all our domestic agricultural problems put together. "For 30 years we have paid little or no attention to this foreign action," Dr. Learn stated.

In his introductory remarks, Dr. Learn mentioned Public Law 480 which created the Food for Peace program. He stated that this was "no great humanitarian effort" but was rather designed "to help us get rid of surpluses".

Giving recognition to the European Common Market—which includes the countries of Germany, Italy, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—Dr. Learn stated that the common market calls attention of the world in general to the close relationship between domestic production and foreign trade. Virtually every developed country has a farm problem and a program to deal with that problem, he said, with these programs conflicting with free world trade.

Problems of agriculture in the common market countries are much the same as they are in the United States, the speaker added. While the U. S. farm labor force was reduced by 30 per cent in the 1950's, the reduction of the farm labor force in Germany was reduced by 40 per cent. In those countries, just as the United States, if producers have more goods than the consumers are willing to buy, prices are depressed.

Supports are being paid in many countries for farm products, Dr. Learn observed. "No group is strong enough," he said, "to dictate both how much will be sold and the price that will be paid for it. You may be able to control one or the other, but you can never control both," he warned. He also noted that the European Common Market impact is not being felt as much by European farmers as by those of exporting nations—including the United States.

Closed School Dist. Law Aired

July 1, 1965, Deadline Reminder Is Issued

B. N. Hendrickson of the Minnesota department of education discussed the closed school district law for the residents of the rural districts of Pennington county at the Highlanding hall on Tuesday, according to Dr. David Brown, Pennington county school administrator.

Supt. Carl G. Quist of Oklee and Supt. M. R. Hankerson of Thief River Falls were present to answer questions relating to their schools.

Ernest L. Swanson, chairman of the Pennington county school survey committee, presided at the meeting. Hendrickson pointed out that all districts not operating schools as of July 1, 1965 will be automatically dissolved and attached to an operating district by the county board.

An advisory vote will be conducted by the county auditor to find out the desires of the residents of the district as to which district they would like to join. This vote is just advisory and the county board may act as it sees fit in the matter.

It was suggested that closed districts might want to act on this matter before the deadline date. Hendrickson pointed out that this could be done by consolidation or dissolution and attachment to another district through the county board. Reorganization could be used for districts in Pennington county but not if Red Lake county was involved. Red Lake county does not have a survey committee.

Joan Norwig Speaks Vows With Gerald P. Melgaard

Marriage vows were repeated on March 14 at Trinity Lutheran church of this city by Joan Kathryn Norwig and Gerald Philip Melgaard. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Reuben A. Wangberg in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends. Mrs. Walter Larson provided traditional nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Bryant Ulseth who sang, "The Song of Ruth," and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kjell Norwig of Loman, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Melgaard of Warren.

A white street-length gown of brocaded satin was chosen by the bride for her wedding attire, with a pillbox-type crown holding her shoulder-length veil. Her crescent bouquet consisted of white carnations and pink roses.

The couple was attended by the bride's sister, Mrs. Spencer Johnston of Roseau as the matron of honor, and the groom's brother, Russell Melgaard of Minneapolis, as best man.

Mrs. Johnston's street-length dress was of mint green, with which she wore white accesories. Her bouquet was of white carnations and small pink roses.

The groom and best man wore black business suits with white carnation boutonnieres.

A dinner reception was held at a local restaurant following the ceremony.

The bride is employed at the Union State Bank, and Mr. Melgaard is with the Northwest Adjustment Company, both of this city. The couple is now at home at 511 West Third Street.

Benson-Rabe Vows Are Exchanged In Minneapolis

Marriage vows were solemnized in an afternoon ceremony recently at the Grace Lutheran church in Minneapolis, when Miss Margaret Lou Benson and Adolph A. Rabe were united in matrimony. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Barnett Benson of Grygla, and Mrs. Dorothy Rabe of Walnut Grove, Minn.

Rev. Hefstad performed the ceremony, using the double ring ritual. Only the immediate relatives and friends of the couple attended. "O Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Karin Ostgaard, accompanied by the church organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white ballerina-length gown of borcaded satin and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses with a single large orchid at the center. Her bief chapel veil fell from a crown of pearls.

Attending the bride was Judy Norland of Minneapolis, a friend. She wore an emerald green street-length dress of velvet and satin, and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Best man was Dale Donner, friend of the groom. The bride's brother, Ray Benson of Grygla, served as usher. All men of the party wore dark business suits.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the bride's apartment. The serving table was centered by a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with roses and cut by Mrs. Cecil Dumbrigue of Drayton Plains, Mich., an aunt of the bride. Waitresses were Misses Pat Glacer and Kathy Nordlun, while the gifts were arranged by Lois Benson and Gail Holthusen.

The couple is now at home at 2747 Dupont Ave. So. in Minneapolis, where the bride is employed with Ministers Life Ins. Co. and the groom by Control Data.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. GLENN NELSON

The first recipe we have received in some time from a comparative newlywed (the Nelsons were married in August), this one for mushroom patties is, for a different main dish on meatless days. Nutritious? They're bound to be, with their oatmeal, egg, and mushrooms. With a green salad or a moulded one of vegetables, you have the components of a satisfying meal, especially if a rich dessest is added.

Mushroom Patties

Into 1 cup quick-cooking oatmeal (uncooked) mix:
½ can mushroom soup
1 egg
1 cup chopped medium onion

Mix, and shape into patties. Fry in hot fat. Add enough milk to the soup remaining in the can to fill the can. Mix. Pour over the patties and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Cooking, sewing and fancy work, especially embroidery, are all favorite activities of this young career woman-homemaker. She will have her first "very own" garden this summer but it will have to play second fiddle to her job. Born at Roosevelt, Minn., Mrs. Nelson was employed at the Thief River clinic before her marriage and is back there again, part time. They have an apartment in town, and Mr. Nelson assists his father, Ray Nelson, on their farm near here. The young Nelsons like camping out, boating, fishing, eating outdoors, and travel. They went to California after their marriage, and Mrs. Nelson said that it was just enough travel to whet their appetites for more of the same. She is active in Seventh-Day Adventist church work, and teaches kindergarten in their church school. She was superintendent of their Sabbath school last year.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

A penny! Only a penny-a-day buys you the biggest bargain in town! What's that? Why it's the newest of the new novels...hot off the press, just waiting for a reader! Where do you get this bargain? Your public library, that big old building across from the court house. Where every day is bargain day—where you can buy a laugh, or a trip, or a plan for a house, and not any of them will cost you more than a penny-a-day. Some are free for the borrowing!

Why a penny-a-day? Because new novels are much in demand and consequently are "seven day" books. This means you may keep them for your very own for seven whole days, and you are charged at the rate of one cent for each day. New non-fiction books, generally speaking, are not on the seven-day shelf. They may be checked out for a two-week period and renewed for a like time. Penny-a-day books may not be renewed (too many people waiting for them usually)

Soooo...break open your piggy bank and come down and check out one of these. First, there's "convention" by Fletcher Knebel and Charles W. Bailey II. Two very able authors who combined their talents and produced "Seven Days in May", a best seller of '63. They've undoubtedly hit again with their new effort. The novel is timely, for this is a big political year in our country. The novel is interesting because it takes you behind the scenes of a national political convention. You feel the tension mount as a candidate's "sure thing" becomes a not-so-sure one! All of us, at one time or another, have wondered just exactly what goes on at a political convention...now you need not wonder any longer. Read "Convention" and you'll know.

Away from the hustle and bustle of "Convention" is the quiet of a summer by the Maine seaside and a sojorn with a young woman sorrowed by the death of her husband, and trying desperately to find the courage to go on. What happens when she meets a young man...is what the book "There May Be Heaven" is about. Elisabeth Ogilvie is the author and our borrowers are well acquainted with her other books!

The line will form to the right, please, for this next one. The always popular Frank G. Slaughter has "A Savage Place" for his fans. Author Slaughter, a doctor-turned-writer, describes a brillant young surgeon's return to his home town. There's intrigue, excitement and romance in this...but isn't there always when Mr. Slaughter's name is on the cover?

Now, if non-fiction is your dish of tea, there's a new one, by Vance Packard, entitled "The Naked Society" that will make you stop and think, and think again. Mr. Packard, not one to mince words, provokes your thought by telling the truth (as he sees it!) In this new volume he tells how he believes the 'right of individual privacy' is disappearing...because of investigators probing into our bank accounts, checking our private lives, bugging our bedrooms, our offices and our automobiles...and we aren't even aware of it...or are we? He tells about the secret traffic in private information between governmantal and private investigative agencies. Information about you, and you and you...and me! Mr. Packard speaks his mind. Do you agree with him? Read "The Naked Society" and decide.

Now, Gene Smith describes last years of President Woodrow Wilson in "When the Cheering Stopped". This new volume tells the story of Mr. Wilson's illness, his death and the role of Mrs. Wilson in the interim. Mr. Smith's easy-to-read style, his thoroughness in reporting the facts and his ability to record thoughts and emotions of people make his book an extraordinary achievement. It should head your "must read" list whether you are a student of history, of people, or if you just like "a good book", regardless of the subject.

These are just some of the new additions on the shelves at your library. These are just some of the bargains awaiting you...whether you want to spend penny-a-day or your time alone, your library offers the best return on your investment.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Carolyn Offerdahl

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

How much have your worn the last hat you bought? Have you gotten your money's worth? If not, why not?

Do you know when a hat is right for you? Many women do not, so if you dislike buying hats, there are many like you. However, wouldn't it be lots more fun if you knew when a hat did wonderful things for you in looks as well as in spirit?

A pert, charming and becoming hat can do more to lift a woman's spirits and put a gleam in her eye than any other item of apparel. Yet is is a known fact that women show less taste in hats than in any other item in their wardrobe.

Would you really like to be able to select more becoming hats, or maybe, even to make a pert bonnet? If you would, let us see what can be done about it. It will take work, like everything else that is worthwhile, good results demand effort.

If having a becoming hat sounds interesting to you, why don't you come to the hat lesson that is being held on Thursday, April 9? This is open to all the women of the community, not only homemaker club members.

Now is the time to begin thinking about the Homemakers achievement day. The date has been set for Thursday, May 7.

I have the speaker for you. She is Mrs. Carole Yoho, specialist in public affairs at the University of Minnesota.

Mrs. Yoho will be speaking on the topic, "Women in Our Changing Society." The format of her talk will be the changes that have occurred in our economy and society at the local, state, national and international levels. These changes will be linked to the growing citizenship responsibilities of today's women. Future public policy problems will be anticipated. Also a few suggestions will be discussed in regard to why these future problems will be highly significant for women in their roles as homemakers.

This is the time for the committees for the achievement day to start planning. We need to know all the information by the next council meeting in order to stage a successful day.

Rural Family Life Is Changing, 'U' Man Says

"Who wears the britches in your family?" This question is becoming less and less of a joking phrase and more of reality in our technologically oriented mass society.

A survey by John D. Photiadis, assistant professor of rural sociology at the University of Minnesota, indicates that rural America is changing rapidly and one major reason for the shift is the changing farm family.

Photiadis says that in the past, primarily because of isolation, the farm family developed distinct characteristics much different than those found in the cities. There was a strong interdependence among family members and major decisions were made by the father or oldest male in the family.

This is not the case today. Now the church and schools play a large role in the educational and recreational life of a rural family. Photiadis says this trend makes the children more a product of many influences than of the family alone.

Rural family life has also shifted from its original economic base. Children are now less dependent upon the family and the farm for securing a living in this era. Urban centers and changing concepts toward independence allow the farm youngsters greater opportunities for earning a living.

Another aspect basic to the change, according to the rural sociologist, is the great importance placed on individual achievement rather than on family name and heritage.

Larger farms, smaller families, and changes within family hierarchies are the most visible aspects of this changing scene. Modern economics dictates the need for efficient and competitive farm production. A weakening of family ties and smaller concentrations of families (gone are the two and three generations on one homestead) has led to smaller families. And the change in family leadership and decision-making springs from changing concepts of dependence.

Despite these trends, Photiadis says, the family is still the most important agent in the development of children equipped to cope with these changing times. In fact, he says, the family could probably take on more significance as society becomes more complex.

Dr. Learn States Foreign Programs Have Impact Here

Dr. Learn mentioned the "Chicken War" between the U. S. and Germany. This was where tariffs were increased against foreign imports of poultry to protect German producers, resulting in difficulty for American farmers to market poultry in Germany and also resulting in higher prices to German consumers. "Now, with beef prices going down and imports increasing," Dr. Learn said, "we are advocating the same thing as we criticized Germany for doing against poultry."

Sale of wheat to communist countries, including Russia, is a mixed political and economic question, the speaker added. From a purely economic standpoint, there is no question that such sale would help American agriculture, he said. The greatest danger lies in the mistaken belief that this type of wheat sale has solved the farm problem.

"In the first place," Dr. Learn said, "we have no assurance that the sale of wheat to communist countries will continue. Secondly, even if these sales would have reached the proportions expected —and they did not—our surpluses would have been reduced only because of controlled production in our own nation."

Summarizing his address, the economist stated that the United States, as recognized leader in the free world, must take the position of leadership in more free world trade. He stated the belief that it would be a mistake to move back from world trade to the mistake made in the 1930's. He expressed concern that one-third of the world's people are worried about too much production while two-thirds are worried about their people going to bed hungry.

"Livestock prices and feed prices are closely linked, and the low feed grain policies of the late 1950's encouraged a buildup of livestock numbers. The feed grains acts of 1961 and of later years have had a restraining influence and prevented even greater losses on livestock.

"The continued low return from milk has also discouraged dairy farmers, and some have turned to livestock production. Adjustments in the dairy program are needed not only to improve dairy income, but to relieve pressure of livestock production," Sen. McCarthy said.

"Extension of capital gains tax treatment to the livestock industry has also encouraged expanded beef production. Feeding a tax deduction to cattle is pretty cheap feed," he said.

"Regardless of all the facts entering into the situation, the cattle market is depressed, and I believe emergency action is needed to assist cattle producers. It is my opinion that more limited quotas or increased duties on imported beef should be used to restrict foreign imports of beef into the United States."

States, so unwarranted imports can flood our domestic markets at any time. The difference is that we are free traders, they are not. Unless we convince them to follow our example, American agriculture stands to lose a good share of its potential. It's time someone began to recognize farm problems in their true light, and the place to start is righ here in the Midwest where a good share of the nation's farm population resides."

Farm income was down half a billion dollars last year, Langen said, including $8 million right here in Minnesota. "When your income drops, the government automatically moves in with another round of controls and programs that further dictate how your farms are to be run. If this situation continues, American agriculture will end up in a government strait-jacket so rigid that it defies the imagination." His speech was interrupted here by spontaneous applause.

"You farm people must let our trade negotiators know you're unhappy with present conditions. Every person in rural America who depends on the agricultural economy for a living must speak up. Your representatives in Congress must echo your cry. Neither the metropolitan areas of the nation, the industrialized states of the east or any other part of the country is going to speak up for you," Langen stated.

Using statistics from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Langen showed the increasing imports of agricultural commodities in relation to toal consumption. He paid particular attention to the imports of beef from Australia and New Zealand, noting that they alone did not cause deflated livestock prices but insisting that they were certainly a contributing factor.

The congressman's revealing comments about several practices in the conduct of U. S. trading policies drew chuckles from the crowd. He mentioned the purchase of cheese from Italy, when cheese is in surplus here, and the request from Italy for U. S. cheese to use in its school hot lunch program.

"The future for farming can be bright," Langen concluded, "but not until we in rural America stand up and be counted."

State Library Week to Be Noted Apr. 12-18

Bruce Williamson Receives Grant For Math Study

Bruce Williamson

Bruce Williamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Williamson of Thief River Falls and 1952 graduate of Lincoln high school, has been awarded a National Science Foundation grant for study of mathematics at the University of Illinois.

A 1956 graduate of St. Olaf college in Northfield, Williamson studied meteorology for one year at the University of St. Louis and served for three years as a meteorologist in the Air Force. He is now a captain in the Air Force reserve.

For the past four years he has taught mathematics and been assistant football coach at Mora, and for the past three summers he has attended the University of Nebraska to study mathematics on National Science Foundation scholarships.

Mr. and Mrs. Williamson and their two children will move to Urbana, Ill., at the end of the school term, since the course of study begins on June 15.

Nearly 700,000 Minnesotans—or some 16 per cent of the state population — have no legal access to public library services, it was reported by Hannis Smith, director of the library division, Minnesota department of education, in conjunction with the start of National Library Week, April 12 to April 18.

The state school library situation is also substandard in terms of available staff, size of collections and annual expenditure for books per pupil, he said.

Comparing Minnesota public libraries with those of the rest of the country on the basis of data recently issued by the United States office of education, Smith pointed out that the non-library service figure for the state is 6 percentage points higher than the nation's average — where only [illegible] per cent of the population has no library service.

"More and more the citizen will find reading to be the key to opportunity — economic, social and cultural — to new worlds of the mind and imagination and to better understanding of other peoples and nations," he said.

"Nor should we forget that on February 11 when President Johnson signed into law a bill authorizing a vastly expanded three-year, $135 million program of federal aid for the nation's public libraries, he called it an act of national achievement. Books and ideas are the most effective weapons against intolerance and ignorance. The library is the best training-ground for enlightenment that man ever conceived."

Trade Topic Draws Large Crowd at Farm Forum Here

exhausting all possibilities for progress in the other direction."

Langen Flails Imports

Opening the afternoon session of the forum, Rep. Odin Langen said there is a bright future for agriculture in the United States but that there are several dark clouds which refuse to let the sunshine through the overcast. "We are the free traders," he said of the United States, "while other nations are restricting their imports. As a result, we have become a dumping ground for all the products which can not be sold elsewhere on the world market."

With his speech puntuated twice by applause, the Congressman did not advocate a closed door on world trade. "But let us have sense enough," he said, "not to import the things we don't need." His major emphasis was placed on beef and dairy product imports.

McCarthy Gives Views

Sen. Eugene McCarthy told the forum crowd that, "Meat imports undoubtedly had a depressing effect on cattle prices, but there are other and more significant reasons for low cattle prices. The principle reason for low cattle prices has been the great increase in the production of beef and other meats in the United States since 1958."

The senator called for "better agreement among farmers as to the kind of farm program they want". He listed feed grain, dairy, wheat and beef programs as needing immediate attention and noted that exports of grain and meat help Minnesota while some imports are likely to hurt the state.

More details on the topics covered by each speaker are included in separate stories in today's edition of the Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dorn and family of Anoka spent their spring holiday with Mr. Dorn's mother, Mrs. A. H. Dorn.

Martha Kuznia, Stephen Resident, Dies in St. Paul

Funeral services were held on Saturday, April 4, at St. Stephen's Catholic church at Stephen for Mrs. Martha Kuznia, 64, of that community. Father Clemens was celebrant of the requiem high mass. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Pietruszewski, she was born in Marshall county, near Florian, on June 30, 1899. She attended school and grew to maturity in that area, and on June 11, 1916, married Bert Kuznia at Florian. They lived on a farm in Augsburg township Marshall county. In 1959, upon retirement, they moved to the village of Stephen. Mr. Kuznia died in 1962, and Mrs. Kuznia continued to make her home there.

She is survived by five sons, August, Thomas, Ralph, all of Stephen; Leonard, St. Paul; Robert of Argyle, and by six daughters, Theresa (Mrs. Kenneth Dufault) Argyle; Dorothy (Mrs. Richard Anderson) Princeton, Barbara (Mrs. DeWitt Campbell) and Eleanor (Mrs. Ray Herbst) both of North St. Paul, and Miss Antionette Kuznia of Brainerd. gress and development of the area are urged to attend, Carpenter said.

Election of directors will follow the meeting. There will be four directors elected for three-year terms, four for two-year and three for one-year terms. Following this year all directors will be elected for three-year terms.

Those wishing to secure memberships can do so at the meeting. Sustaining memberships are $10 per year and these members actually carry the financial burden of RAD. Individual lifetime memberships can be bought for one dollar. Both types of membership carry only one vote.

Prenatal Class Continues Tuesday

Future Homemakers Note National Week

Over one-half million Future Homemakers of America in states throughout the nation observe National FHA Week April 5 to 11. Mrs. Jan Breiland and Miss Carol Ellingson, home economics teachers at Lincoln high school, are advisiers of the local chapters.

The 91 members of the junior high and senior high school chapters will celebrate FHA Week by displaying posters and information about FHA and welcoming new members at their meeting on Tuesday, April 7.

Future Homemakers of America are home economics students in junior and senior high schools. Members of this national youth organization, now in its 19th year, work toward the over-all goal of helping individuals improve personal, family, and community living.

A national program of work guides the activities of individual members and chapters. Projects on this year's programs are (1) You and your values; (2) Focus on family friendship; (3) Marriage calls for preparation; (4) Stay in school; (5) Action for citizenship.

Commenting on the current projects, Mrs. Breiland said that preparation for marriage and stay-in-school activities have great appeal to members at this time. Surveys and interviews with marriage counselors and other adult advisors, and with couples who married while still in their teens, have directed attention to programs discouraging early marriage, she explained. Stay-in-school activities range from publicity campaigns proclaiming that "dropouts are left-outs" to actual adoption and support of needy teenagers who would otherwise be forced to leave school.

The junior high chapter, she added has worked on citizenship during the year. They have visited business places in Thief River Fas, had an international dinner, and invited their mothers to a special tea to thank them for their assistance. The members are also considering adopting a teenager in a foreign country as a special project.

FHA is sponsored by the Home Economics Education Branch of the U. S. Office of Education and the American Home Economics Association.

Odd Fellows Elect District Officers

Odd Fellow lodges of district No. 21 held their annual meeting Tuesday, March 31, in Thief River Falls. Election was held and Millard A. Nelson received the recommendation for district deputy grand master. J. Arthur Frykholm of Alvarado was elected district president, Jorgen Austad, vice president and Millard A. Nelson, secretary.

Past Grand Master Gordon Ekberg of Herman, Minnesota was the guest speaker, and spoke also to an open house group following the meeting. Lunch was served by the Rebekahs.

The next regular meeting of the Odd Fellows will be Thursday, April 9, jointly with the Rebekahs. A pot luck dinner is being arranged for by the Rebekahs at 7 p. m. for all the members and their wives and husbands, including the non-members.

His car had left the road and gone into the ditch. Russell was found about five miles from his farm, and it was reported that he was returning home after checking grain bins. READY for moving Saturday was this 24x24 house at Tindolph park in Thief River Falls. Purchased by Ed Leyden, the house was moved down the incline shown above and on to the Red Lake river. The house was moved on the ice for about six blocks and up on the bank to await the lifting of road restrictions. Moving the house on the river eliminated the necessity of cutting utility lines. It will be moved to Leyden's farm near Holt later this spring.

Softball Meeting

A pre-season organizational and planning meeting will be held by the city's softball enthusiasts in the American Legion club on Wednesday evening, April 8, at 8:00 p. m.

At this meeting, and all prospective team managers, sponsors, and captains are asked to be in attendance, plans for the 1964 season will be made.

It is hoped that several of the towns in this area, such as Plummer, Newfolden, Viking, Middle River, Goodridge and others, will have representatives at this meeting. It would add considerably to the caliber of play, and the interest of the fans, if several of these near-by towns would have teams playing in the city softball program.

Don't forget, it's at 8:00 p. m. at the Legion club. And you can be sure that such softball veterans as Bob Carlson, John Drury, Frank Harger, and Irv Wilson will be in attendance.

Hockey Honors for Nobby

The current issue of "Hockey" magazine, which has nation-wide circulation, carries the second annual "All Star" and "Top Grade" high school hockey selections. And this area fared well in both categories.

Ninety-three of the nation's prep hockey players were named, with forty-five being given "All Star" rating, and forty-eight being selected as "Top Grade" players. And the Prowlers' goalie, David (Nobby) Erickson, was placed in the "All Star" division. Other players from this area who merited "All Star" honors were Gary Brandt and Wendell Grand of Roseau, and Chuck Norby of Grand Forks Central.

In the "Top Grade" classification are players who were named are the Prowlers' Don Mathieu, Warroad's Vern Hodgson, Crookston's Ken Epema, and Grand Forks Central's Pete Ryan.

Grand Forks Central's Norby, a center-ice player, was given extra honors by being designated as one of the four top players in the nation's high school hockey ranks. And from what I hear, Norby, who was rated by his coach—Sergio Gambucci as the "finest high school player he ever coached", is headed for Minnesota and the Golden Gophers. I know that the North Dakota Sioux are making every effort to persuade Norby to enter UND, and they, the Sioux, haven't given up the battle—for Norby's services.

Of the total of ninety-three players that were named to the hockey honors list, Minnesota gained 38 selections, and Massachusetts had 32 entries.

Canadian 'Imports'

At a recent meeting of the Western Collegiate Hockey league, and this is the circuit in which such schools as Minnesota, Michigan, Michigan State, North Dakota, and others compete, some restrictions were made on the "importing" of Canadian junior hockey players. A ban is being placed on Canada's Junior A hockey players. Junior A hockey is Canada's top flight junior class, and the players competing on these Junior A teams are all under contract to the sponsoring National Hockey league team. While the players, perhaps, aren't under a signed contract, the boys are on the "negotiation" list of the sponsoring team.

And another regulation adopted was that Canadian players would lose a year of college eligibility, in American colleges, for each year that the player's age exceeds 19 years of age when he enters a member school. The North Dakota Sioux freshman had a number of boys who had completed their Junior A hockey eligibility in Canada and were now down here on scholarships. Bob Stoyko, Denny Hextall, and Dave Janaway, all former Brandon Wheat Kins juniors, are some who come to mind.

All in all, it appears that there will be a strong effort made to concentrate on the American hockey players.

Canada's Finest

Bill Froiland and I, along with Prowler hockey players Elroy Froiland and Jim Anderson, were in the Winnipeg Arena on Friday night and witnessed the Junior A hockey game between the Edmonton Oil Kings and the Brandon Wheat Kings.

The Edmonton team, champions of Canadian junior hockey last season, and with a lineup well-supplied with veterans and favored to make a successful defense of their title this season, defeated the Brandon club, 5 to 3.

The Brandon team, winners of the Manitoba junior hockey league title, and losers of but one game during the regular season, was rated, as one of the better teams in Manitoba junior hockey history. But the Edmonton squad, stronger and bigger, appeared to have quite an edge over the Wheat Kings. And why shouldn't the Edmonton club be a strong Junior A outfit? They are the only junior club in Alberta, and during the season they compete in a league against Intermediate hockey teams. As one hockey fan explained, they are a young bunch of kids who play hocky like old pro's.

And speaking of Intermediate hockey, Candian style, the Warroad Lakes will play the third and deciding game of their best-of-three series against the Maidstone, Sask. team at Battleford, Sask. tonight, Monday. The Lakers won the first game of the series, 7 to 1, on Friday night. But on Saturday night the Maidstone squad evened the series by scoring a 5 to 4 win. If the Lakers win, and fans in this area will be pulling for coach Dayton Grafstrom's squad, the Western Canada finals, a best-of-five series, will be played in the Winnipeg Arena. And it's worth the drive up there to watch this Warroad club.

Harold Froehles Get Word of Son's Safety in Alaska

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Froehle Sr. were informed on Monday of last week of the safety of their son, Harold Jr. and his wife and infant daughter who was born in an Anchorage hospital three days prior to the Good Friday earthquake. Lt. Froehle, stationed at Ellendorf Base outside the city, reports that the base personnel has been frantically busy since the quake. Mrs. Froehle managed to call her family at Oklee on Monday, and reported that the hospital in which she was a patient at the time of the disaster was damaged to the extent that it was necessary to evacuate it the day after the quake.

Commission OK's Addition to Lake Agassiz Refuge

Permission to acquire 870 acres of privately owned land to make it possible to restore Elm Lake in Eastern Marshall county was granted to the U. S. Bureau of Sports, Fisheries and Wildlife by the State Land Exchange Commission last week, says the Warren Sheaf.

The restored lake will become a part of the Lake Agassiz national wildlife refuge and will come under its management. The land to be purchased has been under controversy over a period of several years.

Stafford King, state auditor, a member of the commission, said he would not now favor the proposal except that he had given his consent earlier. He said the land will be removed from the tax rolls, but will not be opened to hunters.

Robert Brown, deputy conservation commissioner, said he felt the state would benefit from overflow of wildlife into adjacent state-owned lands.

Training Schools for Highway Dept. Staff in Progress

With 600 to 700 employees in attendance, the Minnesota highway department is now engaged in its annual spring series of schools and training sessions for workers engaged in inspection and other phases of grading, base work and bituminous application.

The three-day schools, which started as early as March 9, are being held at the Arden Hills Training Center and various district headquarters at Golden Valley, St. Paul, Rochester, Mankato, Willmar, Duluth, Bemidji and Brainerd.

New personnel are being given indoctrination and experienced men will be given a general review, along with discussions of problems and policy in preparation for the construction season. This annual review program is followed to assure the department of uniform practices and maintenance of standards.

Various members of the department's St. Paul materials and research laboratories are acting as faculty for the schools.

TRF Jaycees Get Bid for Region Jr. Golf Tourney

Thief River Falls was awarded the bid for the Region 2 junior golf tournament at the spring regional meeting held Thursday evening at Ada. Winners at the regional tournament qualify for entry in the state event.

Richard Dahlin, past president of the Ada chapter, was elected Region 2 vice president in a three-way race for the office. Other candidates in the election, which required six ballots before the required majority was received, were Charles Troland of Moorhead and Rusty Hastad of Halstad.

Halstad was awarded the bid for the summer regional which will be held on Clark's Bay at White Earth lake. All announced candidates for Minnesota Jaycees president attended the meeting to deliver campaign talks and several others seeking state office were also in attendance.

Attending from Thief River Falls were George Hikire, James Wilson, Keith Spindler, LeRoy Kritz, James Fisher, Richard Contos, William Ness, Marvin Lundin and Maynard Troland.

To Make Study of Area Recreation

Upper Midwest Research Council Plans Project

Information to help each of the states in the region sell more of their outdoor recreation services is the aim of a study authorized by the Upper Midwest Research and Development Council.

Authorization for the North Star Research and Development Institute to proceed with the study followed approval of its outline of a meeting in Minneapolis by representatives of the vacation-travel industry from five states.

"We want to know the type of information you need to sell more recreation services to the people from outside areas", J. Cameron Thomson, president of the Upper Midwest Council, told the meeting.

Kirk Draheim, North Star Institute economist, in an outline of the objectives and approach as a basis for an action program, said the study will deal principally with areas of potential not covered by present research.

The objectives, he said, will be to develop state-by-state data on availability and usage of present Upper Midwest outdoor recreational facilities and project supply and demand factors that will provide guidelines for future development.

He said supply characteristics will be inventoried and classified, demand will be measured in terms of what tourists want, the region's market position will be analyzed for its strengths and weaknesses, including the effectiveness of promotional activities, and projections will be made as to needs for meeting competition of other areas.

The "multiplier effect" of tourist dollars will be studied in terms of jobs, income, and influence on other economic sectors, he added.

7th Dist. Republican Convention April 18

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Nebraska, a member of the Senate Rules Committee, which has been conducting the recent hearings into the Bobby Baker Case, will be the main banquet speaker for Seventh district Republicans at Moorhead Friday, April 17.

A representative for 18 years before he was first elected a senator in 1954, Curtis is also a member of the Senate's finance and government operations committees.

Scheduled for 7 p.m. in Moorhead's Trinity Lutheran Church, the banquet will precede the Saturday, April 18, district party convention, where county delegates will elect two delegates and two alternates to represent the Seventh district at the national Republican convention, opening July 13 in San Francisco.

As was the case at the recent county conventions, election contests could develop for one or more of the four sports between party unity workers, supporting Dr. Walter Judd as a favorite-son presidential candidate, and backers of Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater.

At the convention, also, delegates will be voting on a proposed constitution for their district party organization and considering resolutions on major state, national and international issues.

Convention general sessions, all open to the public, will begin at 9:30 a.m. April 18 at Moorhead's South junior high school.

Dr. H. G. Winge of Wheaton was named by the district party executive committee to serve as chairman of the nominating committee, which is composed of executive committee members and all county chairmen and chairwomen.

Others picked to head temporary convention committees are A. O. Hamnes of Stephen, resolutions; Erling Wittenberg of Alexandria, constitution; Richard Pemberton of Fergus Falls, recently elected chairman of 7th District Young Republicans, rules; and Mrs. Marvin Geib and Mrs. Chris Christu, both of Moorhead, co-chairmen of credentials and registration.

Duane Lund of Staples, finance officer for the district GOP, is expected to be elected convention chairman.

Jaycees Continue Community Survey Seek Cooperation

Door-to-door contacts are being made by members of the Thief River Falls Jaycees this week as the chapter continues its community development survey. Goal of the project, headed by Rick Contos, is to contact the residents of every home in the city and obtain information on a comprehensive questionnaire.

Because of the scope of the project, it is being extended into the first part of April, Contos said. Persons not yet contacted may expect a visit from volunteers within the next few days. Public cooperation to date has been excellent, the chairman added, and continued cooperation will provide a good survey total for analysis.

Wage Reports for Social Security Are Due April 30th

Employers Are Reminded That Earnings Reports for Workers Are Now Due

Employers have until April 30, 1964, to file quarterly social security reports on wages paid their employees during January, February and March.

Failure to prepare correct and timely reports may cause loss of benefits or delay in receipt of payments due the employee and his family at the time of retirement, disability, or death.

Employees of a regular trade or business must have their earnings reported even though the total wages are small. Domestic employees and other household workers who work in a private home must have their cash earnings reported if they are paid cash wages of $50 or more, by one employer, during the calendar quarter.

The report should show the employee's complete name, correct social security account number, and the amount of wages paid during the quarter.

Employers who have questions about their quarterly social security reports should get in touch with the Internal Revenue Office. Social security information can be obtained by calling or visiting the social security district office located in Grand Forks, N. Dak.

A representative of the Grand Forks district office of the Social Security Administration will be in Thief River Falls at the city Auditorium Tuesday, April 7, from 9 a. m. to 12 noon. Individuals who have questions regarding social security or who wish to file claims may contact him on that date.

Advises Check on Social Security

Workers Are Urged to Ask Report on Credits

Within the recent few weeks workers got a Form W-2 from their employers. This form is a statement of their salaries on wages for 1963 and the amount of taxes withheld. Clifford Kelttelson, district manager of social security in Grand Forks, sugests that every worker should occasionally ask the social security agency for a statement of earnings credited to his social security account. This statement can be compared with personal records, such as the withholding tax form, to be sure the social security record is correct. It's even more important for the worker to do this if he has held several different jobs during the year.

Kittelson said it is very easy to get this statement from social security. His office has a pre-addressed post card used to request a wage statement. Social security payments are based on the wages posted to the worker's account. For this reason, it's important for the wages to be correctly reported and credited.

To get the post card form or for other information, write, call or visit the social security office in Grand Forks, N. D. The office is located on the third floor of the Red River National Bank Building.

Survival Course for Government Employes Slated

Today the special civil defense training program for government employes was officially launched by the issuance of a proclamation by Governor Rolvaag. The proclamation declares June, 1964 as Government Employes' Month and urges employes at all levels of government to participate in the 12-hour survival preparedness classes sponsored by the state department of education in cooperation with local school districts throughout the state of Minnesota.

Governor Rolvaag stated that the purpose of a Government Employee's Month program is to make vital civil defense training available to as many government employees as possible using teachers specially trained by the department of education. He pointed out that as a result of a similar program during June, 1963, over 2,500 government employees received this vital training.

In the five years the department of education has been sponsoring the 12-hour classes, over 75,000 Minnesota adults have attended. Already this year over 5,000 adults have attended the full 12-hour course. Roy Aune, acting state director of civil defense, has stated that this is one of the most effective training programs ever staged in the state.

Adventist Youth Congress Slated for Minneapolis

More than 5,000 youth and their leaders of the Seventh-day Adventist churches of the Upper Midwest will attend a three-day congress of the Minneapolis Armory, April 2-4. Several families from the local Seventh-day Adventist church will be attending the congress.

The members present will listen to the story of Desmond Doss, a non-combatant who received the Congressional Medal of Honor for bravery during World War II. They will listen to Alice Siwundhla, an African princess, tell her fascinating story of conversion to Christianity. Glenn Cunningham, once known as the world's fastest human, will be there to discuss physical fitness for Adventist youth.

The program on Saturday night will close with a special dedicatory service for the youth leaders coming under the title of "Master Guides." Paul Harvey, the well-known news commentator, will speak at the closing meeting.

The members of the local Pathfinder club will be attending the meetings, and will display items they have made at the Pathfinder Fair on Friday. Mrs. Leo Herber is the local Pathfinder leader.

FU Head Charges Chain Stores Rule U.S. Meat Prices

Both consumers and livestock producers are being injured by the growing ability of large food chains to increase the price spread between the farmer and the consumer, a national farm leader charged Wednesday.

James G. Patton, president of National Farmers Union, testified before the Senate commerce committee, said that monopoly power of the food chains has enabled them in the past two years to maintain high prices to consumers while forcing disastrously low prices on farmers.

Patton thus carried to the Washington front a demand which had been made a week earlier at the National Farmers Union convention in St. Paul that Congress direct the Federal Trade commission to investigate the meat procurement and pricing practices of the food chains.

Joining with Patton in testimony before the Commerce committee were Lail Schmidt, president of Rocky Mountain Farmers Union, and George M. Bickel, assistant to Schmidt, who cited evidence of the chain store feedlot operations at Denver and in other areas.

KC Council 4619 Asks Jr. College

Unanimous adoption of a resolution calling for the establishment of a junior college in Thief River Falls took place at a meeting of Our Lady of Lourdes Knights of Columbus Council 4619 held recently.

The resolution stated, "Our Lady of Lourdes Knights of Columbus Council 4619 recognizes the urgent need for providing opportunities for highter education of the youth of this area and recommends the support of a junior college to be located in Thief River Falls."

COLONIC IRRIGATIONS

Q. I have been receiving colonic irrigations regularly for about two years without any improvement in my general health. How long should I continue these treatments?

A. Colonic irrigation (used chiefly by pseudohealth clinics) are of no benefit and may be harmful. Such "treatment" is based on the theory of auto-intoxication and absorption of "poisons" through the bowel wall. This is pure nonsense in the light of scientific studies.

TOOTH EXTRACTION FOR HEART PATIENTS

Q. My mother, who has had one heart attack, has several bad teeth but is afraid to see a dentist. Is tooth extraction safe for a person who has a bad heart?

A. Yes, provided the dentist contacts the physician before any teeth are extracted. Armed with the knowledge of your mother's condition and what medicines, if any, she is taking, the dentist can "tailor" his approach to fit the circumstances.

A Place for Aid

It is impossible to imagine the feelings of residents of Alaska, California and other coastal areas following the extensive earthquake and tidal waves of last week. To put behind them the loss of life and property which was so great and to start again in the same communities or somewhere else must be a tremendous task.

We tend to agree with U. S. Senators from Alaska who requested aid from the federal government to help restore their cities and rebuild their homes. For foreign governments we have provided aid when disasters of much smaller scope have occurred. Not to come to the aid of our coastal residents in their time of need would be almost cruel.

There is a time and a place for everything, and here is a time and place when federal funds should be used.

To Learn a Lesson

The following item is taken from the Industrial News Review and contains information which should be of interest and concern to all Americans.

"The theory behind communism—which has had 45 years now to prove itself—is that the wealth should be shared by all. This was to be done by an all-powerful government which would own and direct anything of any consequence and make all the decisions.

"The result has been the creation of the greatest poorhouse in history. To quote from Time magazine, "The eight-nation group created by the communists in frank imitation of the Common Market not only has failed to relieve the economic chaos in Eastern Europe, but in many ways has actually worsened it. So nightmarish is their job that the satellite economists have begun to grumble openly."

"The moral is plain enough: Economic progress, with all it involves in the way of living standards, has as its primary requirement—economic freedom. Then, beyond the material, economic freedom is the basis on which all human freedom rests. The whole history of communism refutes the efficiency of the superstate. We sorely need to learn that lesson."

Unfortunate Situation

We note with regret the resignation of L. H. (Lew) Conlon as manager of the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee. On many occasions we have had the opportunity to visit and work with him and found him completely devoted to his chosen vocation of furthering the cause of dairying. His 15 years of service to MDIC are a testimony to his dedication.

MDIC headquarters in St. Paul said that Conlon had resigned for "personal reasons" and that he had "no immediate plans for the future." The resignation may be considered a result of a recent incident in which Mrs. Conlon, official chaperone for Princess Kay of the Milky Way, was fined on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Public relations work being what it is, Conlon probably did the only thing he could do in turning in his resignation. It is too bad that one unfortunate incident among thousands of excellent ones should give a bad name to the industry and the Princess Kay program. The damaged prestige, however, is not beyond repair.

Mention was made in a story on Conlon's resignation that the Princess Kay program may be curtailed. If MDIC is seriously considering such a move, we doubt that it is fully aware of the value Princess Kay has had in dairy promotion in Minnesota. The committee is better aware of the cost of the program than we are, but we believe MDIC would have to go a long way to find a program with comparable impact to Princess Kay.

It was 14 years ago that Conlon joined forces with local promoters of agriculture and organized Northwest Dairy Day. Changes were made during the first few years of Dairy Day, but the format has now been standardized and many communities throughout the state and nation have copied it. Many thanks are due to Conlon for his interest, enthusiasm and promotional ability in the improvement and expansion of the Dairy Day movement.

Conlon's resignation is effective June 30, appropriately the end of June Dairy Month. This means that he may well make his last appearance in Thief River Falls at Dairy Day on June 9. After that, a familiar face and voice will be missing from the annual event. We can understand the situation, but we can't help but feel regret that it must be so.

The Wrong War

Although it may sound good to many people in an election year, President Johnson's "War on Poverty" seems more likely to be a skirmish with the taxpayer. Johnson's Democratic Robin Hood policy (taking from the rich to give to the poor) has drawn both praise and criticism: praise from the projected beneficiaries and cries of anguish from those being "tapped".

We have a tendency to agree with these comments from several of the nation's newspapers.

The Worcester (N.Y.) Times states, "Once again our government has declared war on poverty. It is interesting to note that more than 30 million persons now draw regular checks from the government. Are these 30 million the people who need help or is it the other millions of working men and women in this country who are staggered by an ever-increasing state and federal tax load? Someone once said, 'If you think we're getting too much government, just imagine what it would be like if we got all the government we paid for.' "

From the Mt. Pulaska (Ill.) Times-News comes this statement; "Even though taxes give us pain—we still demand more services, passing the tax bill on to some other taxpayer, if possible. It is little wonder that we have increasing poverty for much of the initiative has been taken away from present generations."

These are capped by the following comment from the Elizabethtown (Ky.) News: "People who want the government to do something for them should reflect that those most successful have lived without it."

A Powerful Weapon

So powerful is the filibuster rule in the U. S. Senate that Senators have predicted the Civil Rights Bill now on the floor may not come to a vote before next fall. While the waste of time and money is deplorable, the stalling of hasty action on the restrictive legislation is commendable.

Political pressing for passage of the administration-sponsored bill must be terrific in the halls of Congress. It must be difficult for legislators to place themselves in the apparent position of segregationists—seemingly fighting against the equal rights of man guaranteed under the Constitution.

We respect these men. Some are more than likely in the general category of segregationists. We are inclined to believe, however, that most sincerely oppose the granting of sweeping federal power that the Civil Rights bill would establish.

We don't like the idea of agents of the Attorney General telling the people of the United States who they can or can't hire and who they must fire. Passage of the bill and its attempted enforcement could result in some of the greatest violence our nation has ever known. With the world situation being as it is, and our nation's leadership in the world hanging precariously on the edge of a cliff of crisis, further internal disorder is something we can ill afford.

Tolerance, love, respect, concern—these are not human attributes which can be legislated. Man can not say to man, "You will love thy neighbor," and expect this love to blossom. And trying to say, "You will love thy neighbor, OR ELSE...." is inviting enough trouble to cause an explosion of resentment which will leave our racial situation irreparable.

If the powerful weapon of the filibuster is employed until Congress recesses for election work, the Civil Rights bill may find a different attitude in the Senate when it comes up again.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"I have heard people say, 'If I only had this or that, I could be happy.' But those who search for happiness will never find it, because happiness is not a goal, it is a by-product. The way to happiness is not from without but from within."

Bill confided to his old friend that life was now an empty shell because ". . . the woman I love has just refused my proposal of marriage."

"Well, don't let that get you down," his friend consoled him. "A woman's 'no' often means 'yes'."

"She didn't say 'no'," Bill moaned, "She said 'phooey'."

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

by Governor
KARL ROLVAAG

I know of no better way for a public official to keep his pulse on public attitudes and personal problems than by a face to face meeting with constituents. Most people understand that it is difficult, when one receives dozens of letters and phone calls each day of the year, "to read between lines" or to "listen with the inner ear" to the complaints, suggestions and pleas of countless individuals or special groups. But a first hand meeting and conversation can work wonders.

Person-to-Person

A few weeks ago I held the first of a series of Person-To-Person meetings in Hibbing. I have often felt and expressed the opinion that no public official should ever become so distant or remote from his constituents that he cannot be reached by any citizen. I believe that the People-To-People series will help to bring government closer to each citizen, young and old, wealthy or indigent. The meetings in Hibbing, were a great success. During the morning each individual was given a five minute interview and the opportunity to discuss anything he chose. In the afternoon groups were allowed fifteen minutes each.

Second Meeting

The second in the Person-To-Person meetings series was held some days ago in Rochester. There, as in Hibbing, the problems and suggestions were as varied and complex as the makeup of our population itself. One ballroom operator thought that the state Liquor Control Agents were being too severe in checking his establishment. A former public employee with a basically good work record was having difficulty becoming re-employed by the state since he had resigned some months ago.

Aging Special Problem

A problem which exists in all parts of the state — North and South, rural and urban — is that of aging. In Rochester I spoke with a farmer who had been wiped out by brucellosis. His dairy herd had been distroyed and so had his livelihood. This man was fifty-eight years old and couldn't find a job. He, like many others over forty in our state and nation, are having an extremely difficult time finding suitable work opportunities. I met with an aged couple who were attempting to get by on $42 per month social security payments. Naturally this makes it difficult to live like decent human beings. Their problems were complicated by the fact that they can no longer afford to pay the taxes on their small home.

Questions, Questions

Quite a few people attend the Person-To-Person meetings just to ask questions. "Why don't we get only one license plate on a car in the rear, and forget about tabs?" "I want to move my business, but I don't have the capital to do it. Can I get a small business loan from the government?" "One of the agencies of state government in this area is up to some 'funny business.' Can you get another state agency to investigate them?" A twelve year old boy scout asked, "How much does it cost to run the government each year?" I told him $7 hundred million each biennium, and that it would cost more and more as our population grows. "Gee" was all he could say.

Person-To-Person visits have given me and the members of my staff valuable insights into the needs and desires of our citizens. I am very gratified that the people have come to see me in such large numbers. I am hopeful that as this program continues in the years ahead many of you who read this column will visit me when we hold such a meeting in your area.

A Cheap Hired Hand...

This modern farmer at Roseau, Minnesota, says that the cost of operating his automatic stock waterers is more than repaid in the extra wool he gets from his sheep. He claims his livestock does better all the way around when they get all the water they want. Electric stock waterers are much cheaper than a hired hand, and they work twenty-four hours a day, winter and summer. He is one of the thousands of area farmers served by low-cost electricity as distributed by local electric cooperatives and generated by Minnkota Power Cooperative, Inc.

Happy birthday after all!
a Thorp customer helped it happen . . .

A BIKE! That's all Jimmy wanted for his birthday. He needed it, too—for school, for wholesome fun, and to get a newspaper route so he could start saving for college. But how could Dad afford the bike—snowed under by regular monthly payments, plus some home repair and medical bills.

He hated to face his boy on that birthday. Then his good friend in the shop told him how easily he'd always borrowed money for emergencies from Thorp—and recommended he see Thorp Loan & Thrift for a loan. So Dad went to his local Thorp office manager, who welcomed him warmly, discussed his problem with friendly understanding... and lent him the cash he needed to clear up his debts and make that boy's birthday one he'll never forget! The terms? Just one small repayment a month fitted to Dad's ability to pay.

Whenever you need $50 to $5000 or more, simply telephone or visit any one of Thorp's offices. The manager wants to help you.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by visiting or writing the VA Contact Office at the Fargo VA Center, Fargo, North Dakota.

Q—If a veteran has named his mother as beneficiary of his insurance and then marries and has children, will his new family or his mother receive the insurance money in case he dies?

A—The VA is required by law to pay the insurance proceeds to the designated beneficiary. In this case, the insurance money would go to his mother.

Q—How much time remains for Korean War veterans to get educational benefits from the Veterans Administration?

A—The educational provisions of the so-called Korean GI Bill expires for all on January 31, 1965.

Q—I read that a person worked for the VA for more than 40 years. Yet the VA wasn't formed until 1930. Explain this.

A—Originally, there were several organizations that served veterans in various ways. One of the earliest of these was the Bureau of Pensions. Another was the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers. The Bureau of War Risk Insurance originally insured wartime shipping but later took over service to veterans. Several of these groups were combined into the Veterans Bureau in 1921, and this new organization was combined with the other groups to form the Veterans Administration in 1930.

Trying to cover too many miles a day on a long-distance trip is an invitation to disaster, according to the Minnesota State Automobile Association. Highway patrolmen in Arizona, where a stop for agricultural inspection at the border is necessary, questioned 170,000 drivers and found that about 20 per cent had been driving for at least 16 hours without taking time off for sleep.

When you walk at night, take special precautions, warns AAA. You are almost invisible to approaching drivers until they are too close to avoid hitting you. Never cross in front of an approaching automobile, but wait until the way is completely clear.

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

Side Line Observations
By Bill Dahlquist

Defense Secretary McNamara explained quite thoroughly the situation that presently exists in Viet-Nam in a televized report last week to the people. But one important thing that he failed to discuss was how and why we became involved in this southeast Asian problem all by ourselves. Why did we not approach this problem through the United Nations organization which presumably was created to provide leadership in situations of this kind? Or if not the United Nations, why did we not seek the guidance and cooperation of our allies? These are things I believe most Americans would like to have explained.

Britain and France had a background of experience in dealing with the economic and political problems of the area. Australia and India, along with several other nations whom we looked upon as allies, had a neighborly interest in maintaining peace in that corner of the world. Were they consulted in the matter and invited to join with us in this police problem?

If they were then the American people should be informed as to why our friends and allies have failed to cooperate. If they were not consulted and we moved into Vietnam strictly on our own, then the American people should know the whys and wherefores of that too.

If our single-handed effort to maintain peace in southeast Asia, which Defense Secretary McNamara now admits may involve us in in a major war, was a political blunder, then the American people should know who blundered.

The good people of Alaska need help and this is one disaster area that deserves top priority in Washington. Alaska, the largest state in the union in terms of area, is one of the states that is least capable of helping itself in an emergency such as that which destroyed private and public facilities by earthquake.

The earthquake is one of the hazards of life from which there is little protection for either life or property. In areas that are subject to earth tremors insurance, I have been told, is practically prohibitive in cost. My guess is that the people of Alaska did not have earthquake insurance and the situation therefore is more desperate.

The good people who lived in the Alaskan territory probably were not benefited when the territory became a state. As a state, Alaska has had a difficult problem financially. The vast area places upon a small population the need for public facilities that the small population cannot afford. If Alaska is to continue as a state it should be relieved of the responsibility of maintaining public facilities in a vast wilderness that produces no tax dollars.

So the Alaskans do have my sympathy and I am hopeful that Congress will recognize their present plight with adequate appropriations to assist them in the rebuilding of their homes and public facilities. I would suggest that the administration should oppose all across-the-board pay increases for public employees and make a part of this money available for Alaskan relief.

Our Canadian neighbors have political problems too. The French-Canadian province of Quebec is not happy with the trend of affairs. In the province there are many who resent the fact that Canada as a whole is British, and that their French language, which they love, is often a handicap to those who speak only French. They propose that Quebec should become an independent nation, French-Canadian, but not French. They do not like France eigher because they feel that France deserted them. It's nice to know that we are not alone in having troubles.

My guess is that Quebec will continue to be a part of Canada, as many of the citizens of Quebec desire, but the developments are interesting inasmuch as the threatened revolution may result in the provinces becoming more self-governing with the consequent weakening of the central government.

This is a problem that should concern us more than it does here in the States. Our federal government is steadily becoming stronger and our states weaker. More and more we are getting government from the top down, with authority centered in Washington. More and more we have less to say at the local level, and that is contrary to the traditions of government of the people, by the people and for the people that guided the founding fathers.

There is some justification for the fear that is creating uneasiness in Quebec that we gradually are losing our freedom. The threat of revolution in Quebec may prove to be a healthy influence in the progress of the government of Canada. Maybe we, as neighbors, will share in the benefits.

County Board Conducts Busy April Session

OK's Prepayment of $20,000 Court House Building Bonds

Several items of business were disposed of by the Pennington county board at its regular April session Tuesday, action on a few matters being deferred until Friday, April 17, owing to the absence of Chairman Odin Hanson, who was hospitalized.

A delegation from the Chamber of Commerce requested the board to zone the area adjacent to the city of Thief River Falls to regulate construction, especially along the highway approaches. The board asked County Attorney Curtis Charlson to look into the laws governing the subject, and to report later on his findings.

A minor project on County Ditch 58 in Hickory township was approved when no objectors turned up at a hearing. At the same time the board voted to petition the highway department to complete work on the remaining section of the Gully road north of the county line.

The Cities Service Oil Co. submitted the lowest of five combined bids received to supply Diesel fuel and gasoline for the county highway department. The successful bid calls for supplying No. 1 Diesel fuel at 13.5 cents per gallon and No. 2 at 12.7 cents, and gasoline for 14.2 cents per gallon. Also accepted was the bid of the Standard Oil Co. to furnish brush killer at $4.90 per gallon.

Three motor patrol unit bids were received, calling for the trade-in of a 1950 model. The bids, ranging from $20,600 to $22,795, were laid over until Friday, April 17.

Farm-stored Grain Reseal Program Set

County ASCS Reports Reseal Payments to Be Same as for 1963

Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, announced today a broad reseal program under which farmers may continue price-support loans and earn storage payments on three farm-stored grains after 1964 loan maturity dates. They will also be able to convert purchase agreements on the 1963-crop farm-stored grains to reseal loans.

Grains for which reseal farm-stored loans will be available include 1963 crops of wheat (except Durum wheat), barley and oats currently under farm-stored loans or purchase agreements. In addition, loans on 1960 and 1961-crop wheat, and 1962-crop barley, wheat and oats now under reseal may be extended for another year.

Farmers who wish to reseal their farm-stored grains under loan should apply to their ASCS county office before loan maturity dates. Maturity dates for the three grains are March 31 for wheat, and April 30 for barley and oats. As in the past, reseal will not be offered on any 1963 crops put under price-relaxed eligibility provisions due to specified abnormal crop or weather conditions.

Storage payments are made to producers on grain under reseal. Reseal storage payments for the 1964 program will be unchanged per bushel on all grains except oats for which the rate will be 10 cents per bushel.

If a farmer delivers or redeems his resealed grain before the 1965 maturity date, his storage payment will be prorated. Storage payments will be limited to the period of storage in all instances where the grain is delivered or redeemed earlier than the reseal maturity date. As in the past, reseal loans are subject to call by the Commodity Credit Corporation prior to the maturity date. In the case of 1963-crop hard wheat, as well as of resealed 1962-crop wheat, settlement will be based on sedimentation values at the time the wheat went into storage.

Reseal will not be offered on 1959-crop wheat, and 1961-crop barley and oats. As a normal practice in the reseal operation, the older crops are periodically dropped from the program to lessen the possibilities of deterioration and put the quantities into a position for movement into various outlets before loss or deterioration occurs.

Chairman Knutson pointed out that the reseal program encourages the holding of stocks of grains

BUTTER will no longer be pulled from this 1,500-pound capacity aluminum churn at Farmers Cooperative Creamery Association of Newfolden. The plant will cease operations Saturday and cream bought by the association at its downtown produce plant will be picked up by Thief River Cooperative Creamery association for churning in Thief River Falls. Butter will be sold through Land O'Lakes Creameries as it has been in the past. Newfolden Creamery Closes Plant Saturday

Plan To Operate Produce Division, Continue Buying

Faced with decreasing returns resulting from fewer dairy herds, Farmers Cooperative Creamery association of Newfolden will cease operations on Saturday. Last deliveries of cream are bing taken this week at the creamery which has been in operation as a cream-buying plant since 1906.

Hjalmer Martin, who has been operator of the creamery for the past 30 years, is only the fourth operator in the 58-year history of the plant. In his 30 years as operator, he has seen the total of about 150 patrons dwindle over the years to approximately 40 at the present time.

With the closing of creamery operations, Farmers Cooperative Creamery association will re-open its produce plant which has been closed since last summer. Lester Lindquist will manage the plant which will serve as a cream-buying station. Cream will be picked up by Thief River Cooperative creamery, churned in Thief River Falls and marketed through Land-O'Lakes as in the past. The produce plant will also sell butter, eggs, seed, feed and chemicals.

First operator at the creamery was Frank Pace who held the position for 13 years before being succeded by Ole Rhodegaard. Rhodegaard was buttermaker for nine years, followed by William Lindahl who served for six years. Hjalmer Martin, who had worked in the creamery at Erskine for seven years, was selected as operator in 1934.

In 1947 the creamery churned its highest total of butter with 240,000 pounds. In 1954 the total was 221,117 pounds, but from that point the amount of cream received began to diminish each year. Last year the creamery churned only

Co-op Creamery At Newfolden To Cease Operations

88,000 pounds of butter and showed a loss of $4,312.

Stockholders of the association authorized closing of the creamery at the annual meeting held in February. Plant equipment, which includes a 1,500-pound capacity aluminum churn, two 800-gallon storage and cooling vats with steam pasteurizing coils, hand-operated butter printer and butterfat testing equipment, will be sold by the association.

Martin has operated the plant by himself, with occasional help from members of his family, for about the past 12 years. He plans to take some time to do several things he has not had time for before he seeks different employment.

Working six days a week, and sometimes on Sunday when necessary, he has had little time away from his job. He took a vacation when he got married 28 years ago, was away from the job two weeks because of surgery a few years ago and last year took a week to visit his son-in-law and daughter in Utah.

Hjalmer ranked as one of the better buttermakers in the Land O'Lakes Creameries organization. Three times in the last six years he had the second highest efficiency score in the Land O'Lakes organization. His highest score was 99.90 in 1961.

Hjalmer's wife teaches second grade at Stephen where their daughter Kay is a high school junior. They have four other children. Audrey is teaching in a Crookston elementary school, Mrs. Gerald (Carol) Elseth lives in Logan, Utah, Mrs. John (Renee) Erickson lives in Brown's Valley and Neil is a freshman at Bemidji State college.

Edgar Rokke is chairman of the association board with Vernon Olson as vice chairman, William Waterworth as secretary-treasurer and Harold Haaseth and Henry Engelsrud as directors.

Phone Co. Asks Caution Against Breaking Cable

Spring Construction Has Hazards for Buried Lines, Company Manager Says

Northwestern Bell Telephone company has issued a plea to help protect its underground telephone cable in this area, according to J. M. Wilson local company manager.

"With the start of spring, bulldozers are busy pushing away ground for road and street improvement, ditch diggers are slicing for sewers, and inevitably some of these earth movers disable our cables," he said.

Anyone planning to dig in the vicinity of an underground cable should call the telephone company first and a telephone man will be dispatched to the scene immediately to show the path of the metallic subterranean cable.

"The yellow warning signs do not pinpoint the exact location of the cable," he said. "The cable may not follow a straight line between the signs and it isn't practical to place signs so that one is visible at all points along the route. That's why it's important to call the company before digging."

Northwestern Bell is increasing its placement of buried cables and the digging dilemma is becoming more acute. In 1963, a telephone cable was accidentally cut off every working day somewhere in the company's five-state area.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Most Unenviable Job

The most unenviable position on the Prowler athletic coaching staff this season is, perhaps, the up-from-the-cinders job that is facing track coach Roger Solheim. Roger, a former Crookston Central athlete, has taken over the Prowler track duties succeeding Rod Max, who is now the track mentor at International Falls.

An indication of the losses that the Prowler track squad suffered, through graduation and ineligibility and transfers, can be gained by a recital of the point-scoring in last season's Northwest Conference track meet. The Prowlers, for the third successive year, won the Conference track title, and in accomplishing this feat the blue-and-gold thin-clads piled up a total of 78 points.

Paul Klungness won four firsts, picking up 20 points by winning the 100 and 220-yard dashes, the 180-yard low hurdles, and the broad jump. And Paul is now at Dartmouth. Ron Olson gained runner-up honors in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, gaining eight points. Ron is still in school but ineligible for this season's competition. Steve Mittelstadt won the high jump event, and was second in the low hurdles. Steve is at Minnesota Duluth. Brian Lofberg and Jim Ranum, both of whom have been graduated, were one-two in the shot put.

Art Koglin and Murray Dow scored a second and a third in the 880-yard run, and they, too, have been graduated. And Rolf Wangberg, who was second in the mile run, is now doing his running as a frosh at Luther College.

Ron Shaff, who had a fourth in the 100-yard dash, and a fifth in the 220-yard dash, has transferred to Bemidji. And Eli Lee, who added four points to the Prowler total by scoring a second in the pole vault, has been graduated.

About the only point-winners that coach Solheim has on hand for this season's competition are Orrin Joppru, Joel Headley, and Roy DeLorme in the middle-distance events, Larry Joppru in the shot put, and Jerry Forsberg in the hurdles. Joe Taylor, Rich Nelson, Gary Hagen, and Brian Collver are lettermen who are expected to gain some points for the Prowlers in this year's track.

But it's a tough job that faces Roger and his assistant, Quent Jones, as they prepare the Prowlers for the defense of their District 31 and Northwest Conference track titles.

In Western Canada Finals

The senior hockey Warroad Lakers gained the Western Canada intermediate hockey finals on Monday night when, in the third and deciding game of a best-of-three series played at North Battleford, Sask., they defeated the Maidstone, Sask., team, 6 to 2.

The Lakers will now enter the best-of-five Western Canada intermediate finals, and the first game of the series will be played on Sunday afternoon in the Winnipeg Arena. All of the games are slated for the Winnipeg Arena, with the second game being scheduled for Monday evening, and the third game of the series billed for Wednesday night.

The opponents of the Lakers in this finals series will probably be the Kamloops, B. C. club. Kamloops is engaged in a series with the Red Deer, Alta., club for a berth in the Western Canada finals, and are holding an edge in the series.

I am sure that the Warroad Lakers will appreciate all the support that they can get from the hockey fans in northwestern Minnesota as they move into the Western Canada finals. And it is just a two and a half-hour drive to the Winnipeg Arena.

Miscellany

There will be a contingent of local bowlers participating in the 16-game singles bowling tournament being held this weekend at the Red Ray lanes at Grand Forks. Bowling on the 12:00 p. m. shift on Saturday will be the foursome of Red Thyren, Charles Hasned, Carl Onkka and Lloyd Samuelson. And rolling on the 12:00 p. m. shift o Sunday, Bob Evenson of the Sjoberg's TV team will be an entrant. I am willing to make a modest wager that Sam will post the highest total, that is the aggregate total, for the local bowlers. He is a very consistent bowler, and in a 16-game marathon, consistency is a valuable asset. . .There were a couple of upsets as the Service and National league concluded their 1963-64 schedules on Monday night. The youthful Joppru's, in a man-against-man match with the KTRF squad, swept the four-point series to win the league title. The KTRF team had been the league leaders for much of the season, and came into the final week holding a one and one-half game lead over the Joppru's. . .And in the National league the Land O'Lakes came up from third place in the league standings to win the championship, edging out the Rotarians and the Tunberg Motors. . .In my comments on the Edmonton Oil Kings vs. Brandon Wheat Kings junior hockey game at Winnipeg last week, I expressed admiration for the polished play of the Edmonton club, who are the defending junior hockey champions of Canada. I explained that much of this hockey know-how and polish was learned through competition against intermediate division hockey. But do you know that Friday night's game at Winnipeg was the seventy-ninth of the season for the Edmonton squad! And these games are all twenty-minute period contests, with pro rules in effect. And the high school games down here are limited to twelve-minute periods. . .The local curling club's "Good Will" rink—Everett Amundgaard, Ken Liden, and Wally and Roger Tunberg—made its annual trip to Winnipeg this past weekend. On Sunday afternoon they met a Granite rink on the Granite Curling Club, and the locals received a trouncing. But they created plenty of good will. . .And speaking of curling, it was an all-Winnipeg finals in the first event of the Last Chance bonspiel held in Hibbing. The Norm Houck rink, one of Winnipeg's top-ranked rinks, defeated the Barry Fry rink, also a top-flight Winnipeg squad, in an extra-end match to win first place. . .Larry (Shorty) Perkins, local golfer and curler, and former Prowler football and baseball star, is track coach of the Plummer Cardinals. Larry, who has been teaching at Plummer for the past couple of years, has a District 31 and Region Eight contender on his squad in half-miler Marv Walters. Competing in the Fargo-Moorhead Indoor Meet in the Moorhead State college fieldhouse last Saturday, Walters gained a second place in the half-mile event, which was won by Grand Forks Central's Eric Fritzell.

RICK Jensen, a senior letterman on coach Ralph Skay's Prowler baseball squad, exhibits fine technique as he goes through the base-sliding drills at the armory. The armory's concrete floor is heavily waxed, so the wear and tear is at a minimum, but the bumps and lumps that develop are a nuisance.

THROWING strikes is the verdict of Billy Erickson, the Prowler baseball squad's team manager, as he operates the "pitching machine" during the indoor practice sessions being held in the armory. The pitching machine, which was a joint purchase by the Lincoln high school and the American Legion, throws plastic baseballs during the indoor batting drills. While in use outdoors, the machine throws regulation baseballs.

'64 Smelt Fishing to Start Shortly

Fisheries Supervisor Announces Regulations

Those persons planning on going smelt fishing were advised today of a new regulation which goes into effect this year for the first time.

State fisheries supervisor Hjalmar Swenson said the new rule prohibits the transporting of live smelt anywhere in the state. He said the purpose of the new regulation is to prevent the introduction of smelt into Minnesota's inland lakes and streams where they might have an adverse affect on sport fishing.

Swenson said weather conditions will decide when the smelt run will start, but it generally begins sometime between the 15th and 20th of April. Th run usually reaches its peak between the 25th and the 28th.

Aside from the new regulation, the rules for taking smelt are the same this year as they were last. nets or with minnow seines not more than 25 feet in length or four feet in width.

Seines may not be used in any stream except the St. Louis River, nor in Lake Superior within 100 feet of the mouth of any stream except the St. Louis River. This regulation does not apply to dip nets which may be used in the streams or near their mouths.

There is no limit on the number of smelt which may be taken and they may be bought and sold at any time. However, live smelt may not be possessed or transported for any purpose.

Smelt fishermen must have an angling license. A peddler's license is required of anyone who uses a motor vehicle in his fish sales business.

$10.3 Million Highway Job Bids Are Invited

Bids on 16 trunk highway projects estimated to cost $10.3 million will be received at 9:30 a. m. April 17 in the Minnesota highway department central offices, St. Paul, the department announces.

This is the second major highway construction letting in two months. Projects totaling $14.3 million in apparent low bids on 25 projects were received on March 20.

The projects in the April 17 call for bids involve grading and surfacing of 40.3 miles, construction of 20 bridges, including two pedestrian bridges over TH 12 at the University of Minnesota, construction of a scenic overlook in St. Paul across from Fort Snelling, traffic signs and devices and building removals.

The biggest project calls for grading, base, concrete paving and plant-mixed bituminous surfacing on 4.2 miles of TH 94 between 59th avenue in Brooklyn Center and the junction of TH 52 in Brooklyn Park and construction of eight bridges in Hennepin county.

One of the major projects calls for construction of a portion of the new TH 10 freeway through the north section of Anoka. It involves a realignment of about 2½ miles of this highway from 4th avenue to TH 242. This connects with a section under construction from Park street to a new bridge over the Rum river, which is slated for completion about July 1.

Overall plans call for completing TH 10 to full freeway standards in the next two years from the west limits of Anoka to TH 47 at Spring Lake Park. The new highway will bypass Anoka's main business district and when completed down to TH 47 will eliminate the traffic congestion on Main street (present TH 10) caused by the heavy volume of through traffic. Next spring a project will be let to build TH 10 from TH 242 to TH 47.

Another major project involves gravel base, concrete paving and plant-mixed bituminous surfacing surfacing on 11.6 miles of TH 94 between one-half mile south of the north Grant county line and .3 mile south of junction TH 79 west of Evansville in Douglas and Grant counties.

Home Agent Offers Tips on Keeping Furniture Clean

Wood Furniture Requires Special Attention To Keep Fine Appearance

Is your wood funiture dull and tired-looking? Spring is a good time to restore its beauty by cleaning and waxing it. Miss Carolyn Offerdahl, Pennington county home agent, suggests cleaning furniture woods by using one of the following:

(1) Commercial cleaners. Creams and liquids are on the market which will clean away the soil or will clean and polish at the same time.

(2) Homemade cleaner. To a quart of hot water, add 3 tablespoons of boiled linseed oil and 1 or 2 tablespoons of turpentine. The turpentine will remove the soil, and the linseed oil will polish and feed the wood. Dip a soft cloth into the cleaner, wring it out quite dry, and rub and wood well to remove the soil. Then, with another clean cloth polish the wood. Keep the solution hot in a double boiler, but never place it over a flame.

(3) Soap or synthetic detergent and water. Make a thick suds of warm water and mild soap of synthetic detergent. Wash a small section at a time with a soft cloth wrung out quite dry. Wipe with another cloth wrung out of clean, warm water, and then wipe with a dry cloth. Follow with polish or wax.

Miss Offerdahl gives this precaution: Unless you know the kind of finish that has been used on your furniture pieces, you may cause damage by using water on them. A finish such as shellac has low resistance to water; while spar varnish, penetrating seals and oil finish have high water resistance.

Follow cleaning the furniture with a coat of wax or polish. Silicone polish, liquid or spray-on waxes, or paste wax may be used. To apply paste wax, place about a tablespoon of the wax on a thick ppiece of cloth, fold up the edges around the wax and rub the cloth on the surface so a thin film filters through. Coat the entire wood surface, let it dry until it becomes dull or cloudy, and then buff with a soft woolen cloth. On much-used surfaces you may want to apply two or three coats of wax. Buff well betweenneach coat.

Small Business Agency Approves 40 Loans in Area

The first quarter of 1964 was one of the busiest on record for the Small Business Administration, reports Paul Olander, Fargo branch manager. $1,696,000 in loans was approved for forty firms in the branch office area.

Only three of the approved loans were direct to the borrower, the remainder being participated in by a local bank. In these loans the banks participated for amounts ranging from ten to fifty percent.

Most of the funds made availabe were for the expansion of a business such as for the purchase of assets or the increase of working capital funds to carry inventories. Several loans assisted individuals in the purchase of a business and nine were used to start a new small business.

Safety Chief Sets Check on Vehicles

Statewide Program to Be Held in May and June

Minnesota's voluntary vehicle safety check program again will be conducted by the safety division of the Minnesota highway department, Garnet E. Hall, state safety director announced today.

The safety program is aimed at discovering those mechanical defects of motor vehicles which, if not repaired, could result in serious accidents.

Hall urged Minnesota communities to participate in the statewide safety program in May or June immediately preceding summer and vacation driving.

The importance of periodic checking of cars was pointed up during the 1963 national program, according to Hall. "Out of 3.5 million cars checked, more than a half million failed to pass. Lights, brakes, turn signals, stop lights, exhaust systems, tires, wipers, glass and horns were found deficient in the vehicles to a degree considered dangerous."

The nationwide program is sponsored annually by the Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee and Look Magazine, with the cooperation of the Association of State and Provincial Safety Coordinators. Minnesota is one of the 30 states not requiring periodic inspections and therefore one of the states where voluntary programs are conducted.

Interest is gaining at the community level, Hall said, as safety check lanes are now being planned in more than 20 communities.

Editorials . . .

"I believe in the spirit of peace, and in sole and absolute reliance on truth and the application of it to the hearts and consciences of the people. I do not believe that the weapons of liberty ever have been, or can be, the weapons of despotism. I know that those of despotism are the sword, the revolver, the cannon, the bombshell; and therefore, the weapons to which tyrants cling and upon which they depend are not the weapons for me, as a friend of liberty."

—W. L. Garrison

Guaranteed Credit

Congressman Walter Norblad of Oregon didn't think much of having an agency of the United States guarantee the credit of the Soviet Union in their purchase of wheat from the United States.

"In my opinion,' the congressman said, "the Sovet Union is getting enough of a break in being able to purchase our wheat subsidized by our taxpayers to the tune of about 60 cents a bushel, without our guaranteeing their credit. Why we should, in effect, give a credit card to Russia to purchase our wheat is absolutely beyond me. Starting with World War I the Russian government has had a sorry credit record and it is no better today. . . .The United States will certainly bankrupt itself and its citizens if such foolish stunts as this are not called to a halt."

If sales to communist nations are economically desirable for our country, and our nation's leaders apparently believe that they are, then these sales should certainly be made on a cash basis. This should be the policy and strictly followed, no questions asked. Our nation is not in economic condition to deal in credit with our cold war enemies, especially when we have to guarantee their credit.

Soviet Superiority?

A few years ago, it will be remembered, the Soviet leaders promised, without equivocation, that the Soviet Union would surpass this country in every major field of production by 1970. How is that tremendous program doing?

An answer is provided by the authoritative Intelligence Digest, which is published in England and has responsible and proven sources of information almost everywhere. It states:

"There was less milk in the Soviet Union in 1963 than in the year before and also fewer eggs. It may be added that three-quarters of all vegetables and four out of every five eggs consumed in the country were supplied by the collective farm peasants from the tiny backyard plots which they have been allowed to cultivate privately. . .

"Within the last year, the number of pigs on the collective and state farms has been reduced by half, and meat production in general, which the state plan had stipulated would be 16 million tons in 1963, did not actually exceed 10 million tons."

There is much other evidence of Soviet failure to meet announced goals. An outstanding one was a major cutback in the production facilities of a huge power dam which was supposed to assume the lead in overtaking the vast superiority of American electric capacity.

So, to make up the lack, the Soviet Union is trying to get her needs from the West, through long term loans and credits. The Digest's concluding line: "All that we send will be a direct contribution to our own downfall."

For Women Only

Those of you who are resigned to being hunting season widows may take note of the following. Annie Oakley, the greatest female marksman in American history, was a firm believer in women knowing how to handle a gun. She estimated that she taught 15,000 women how to shoot, and the National Rifle association believes she was doing the right thing.

"I have been teaching women how to shoot for many years, without compensation, because I think they should be capable of protecting their homes," she wrote in an NRA publication in 1919. One of her students was a walthy woman from Boston. Upon arriving at home one day, the woman found a man in her home, about to leave with her silverware. She covered him with her revolver and phoned the police.

"She wrote me saying that her successful capture was due to the training she had with me. If she had not learned the proper use of a revolver she would have fainted and the crook would have gotten away," Annie wrote.

"It would be ideal if every school house could have a rifle range with a competent instructor in charge. If children were taught how to handle guns so as to avoid danger, there would be fewer accidents in the world, especially the 'I-didn't-know-it-was-loaded' kind.

"I think of all the fool pieces of legislation, the law in New York which forbids people to have firearms in their homes is about the worst. It protects the burglar. He has the advantage because he has no conscience about the law. And he knows that most people are law-abiding, so the element of danger is greatly lessened, for him.'

In one day, Annie Oakley broke 4,772 out of 5,000 glass balls thrown in the air, proving that women have the ability to shoot as well as or better than men. All of which means, ladies, that you are missing a good thing if you don't ask hubby to teach you the fine art of shooting. (But don't tell him we told you to ask!)

Not Enough Statesmen

Political bandwagons are beginning to roll and they will gain momentum (and passengers) as the election campaigns near election time. While politics may be considered by some to be a nuisance, there are few who will argue that it is not essential to our system of government. Conducted on a high plane, political campaigns are informative and interesting.

There are too many people in the world of government, however, who confuse politics with statesmanship. We can't help but feel that this is wrong and breaks faith with the supporters of those elected. Politics should be a stepping-stone to statesmanship —a method of gaining positions of prominence—a useful tool in constructing an effective machine.

Many would-be statesmen trip over this stepping-stone, find the prone position comfortable, and do not attempt to rise to the ranks of statesmen. They are content to play politics, devoting more of their time and energy to the perpetuation of their office than to fulfilling its obligations. There is an ever-expanding group of these people in both major political parties.

It takes men and women of great conviction and devotion to their task to rise above the petty world of politics, with all its concessions, pressures and favors. Those who have done it are worthy of the respect of all Americans. We have a surplus of politicians but not nearly enough statesmen.

That Was Some Forum

Fred Sorensen and his Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee can well be proud of the first annual Northwestern Minnesota Farm Forum held Friday of last week. Attendance could have been better from the standpoint of numbers, but the 700 or so attending were given an interesting program.

Sen. Eugene McCarthy, Rep. Odin Langen and Dr. Elmer Learn are all in great demand as speakers and their work requires a great deal of time. The fact that the committee was able to secure all three for the program is in itself a credit to the members.

As the discussion progressed throughout the day, and differences of opinion were expressed, it became increasingly apparent that there are no answers to some of the problems surrounding foreign trade. This was also emphasized by Dr. Learn in his keynote address to the morning session. Those who missed the morning program undoubtedly missed many of the points brought out at the afternoon program.

Rare are the educational programs that can be presented in a highly interesting fashion, but the farm forum was one of these rarities. The speakers were able to hold attention of the audience, not only by their speaking ability but by the information they had to offer.

We were particularly impressed with the knowledge Congressman Langen displayed on the relationship of foreign trade to American agriculture. Judging by the audience reaction, the crowd was also impressed. Using statistics gleaned from U. S. Department of Agriculture reports, Rep. Langen drew comparisons between imports and falling farm prices. He stated that in the past 30 years, U. S. farmers have never produced more than the nation consumed.

Sen. Eugene McCarthy apparently received favor from the crowd when he told his audience that he believed a cutback in beef imports was necessary, Dr. Learn raised some eyebrows when he said that no group is strong enough to regulate both the amount of a commodity that will be sold and the price that will be paid for it.

All speakers fielded questions in professional fashion during the panel discussion. At this point the differences of opinion became more evident, but the answers to questions were candid and adequately expressed. In all it was a fine event and well worth the effort of presenting and attending.

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

U. S. Senator Clifford Case of New Jersey believes the Bobby Baker operations deserve a more thorough investigation, and he is asking the Senate Rules Committee to support his request that all senators be questioned in connection with their dealings with Bobby Baker. He suggests that all members of the senate be asked to answer the following two questions:

> "Did you ever have any business or financial dealings with Baker, directly or indirectly? If so, what were they?
> "Did Baker ever give you, get for you, offer you or offer to get for you any help in making up campaign deficits by gifts, purchase of tickets or otherwise; any retainer or employment; any preferment in committee assignment or otherwise; anything of value?"

Senator Case's request would of course be opposed by those members of the senate who speak for the Democratic party. Our Senator Hubert Humphrey, majority leader, has made it clear that he thinks this Bobby Baker scandal has gone far enough. As quoted editorially by the St. Paul Pioneer Press:

> "Humphrey claims the probe exposed 'a miserable, deplorable, corrupt situation,' but that no useful purpose would be served in 'exposing more stink.' "

That is an interesting quote. In this statement Senator Humphrey admits that a "miserable, deplorable, corrupt situation" has existed, and it is reasonable to assume that the leaders of the Democratic majority, including Senator Humphrey, were aware of the fact that the "deplorable, corrupt situation" did exist. It is also reasonable to assume that their opposition to any questioning of the members of the senate is based entirely on a fear that further questioning will reveal facts that will be damaging to the party and to the party leadership. Senator Humphrey is not in character when he opposes the exposure of "more stink".

It would be awkward for any member of the senate to refuse to answer the questions suggested by Senator Case on the grounds that the answer might incriminate them. And I can see no good reason why President Lyndon Johnson should not be invited to answer similar questions. He was the master-mind of the majority group in the senate, and when this Bobby Baker "deplorable situation" first made the headlines, President Johnson came to Baker's defense by referring to him as his pal.

There obviously was a close association between Bobby Baker and party-boss Lyndon Johnson. During the years of this association Baker built up a fortune estimated to be worth two million dollars. During that same period Lyndon Johnson, as Congressman, Senator and Vice president, built up an investment of a few thousand dollars into a radio and television empire estimated to be worth seven million dollars. Responsible reporters have attributed this remarkable growth largely to favorable decisions by the Federal Communications Commission. It probably is true that Lyndon Johnson personally never asked any federal agency for special consideration. But there is reason to suspect that Bobby Baker was one of Lyndon Johnson's errand boys.

I do not agree with Senator Hubert Humphrey that "No useful purpose would be served in exposing more stink." It is fair to assume that partisan considerations enter into all matters of this kind, but in the background the important thing in dealing with such matters is not the effect it may have on a small group of professional politicians. The important thing is what is in the best interests of good government - what is in the best interests of the people as a whole.

In every political organization there are rascals. We have never had, and never will have, a political party that is not to some extent corrupt. That is why we should always be alert to the possible evils and be prepared to take steps against political corruption at whatever level it may threaten our system of government of the people, by the people and for the people.

Contrary to what Senator Humphrey states, I am satisfied that a thorough investigation of government activities, even though it does increase the stink, is better than a whitewash that merely makes less unsightly a rotten weakness in our political structure.

KC Councils to Fight Obscene Literature

The regular April meeting of the Our Lady of Lourdes Knights of Columbus Council No. 4619 of this area will be held at 8:15 p. m., Thursday, April 9, at St. Bernard's Hall in Thief River Falls.

Two discussion leaders from Bemidji, Mike Ford and Ed Hughes, will head the program which has been arranged by Lecturer Andrew Vanjo. Lunch will be served.

Grand Knight DesRoches will review the progress being made on the KC Drive against obscene literature in this diocese.

The Our Lady of Lourdes Knights of Columbus council, in cooperation with other KC Councils in this diocese, is sponsoring the drive. This is in keeping with a resolution passed by the Supreme Council urging all Knights throughout the United States to combat the sale of some two billion dollars of obscene literature,, and pornographic literature.

It is reported that seventy to ninety per cent of this literature is purchased by youth. J. Edgar Hoover reported, "Obscene literature is one of today's leading causes of crime."

Three hundred dollars has been raised by several KC councils in this area to purchase a motion picture film, "Perversion for Profit." This is a documented color film which graphically illustrates the obscene material which is readily accessible to all, including our youth.

"It is the duty of every parent and other citizens to safeguard our youth by not doing business with those merchants and publishers who sell filth for a living. We urge our people to become more alert and check the reading material where magazines and books are sold. It would be well for every parent to check the reading material of his offspring," stated E. J. Shukle, publicity chairman for the KC's.

The film is made available to interested groups who wish to extend the efforts of the groups fighting indecent literature and pornographic materials. Andrew Vanyo of Red Lake Falls in in charge of scheduling the showings to adult groups in this northwest area. Anyone desiring the use of this film may contact him by writing him in care of Box 386, Red Lake Falls.

The film has been scheduled for the Knights of Columbus at Mahnomen on April 13; Red Lake County Homemakers in Oklee on April 14 and on April 15 a community wide showing sponsored by the American Legion and the Rotary Club and all clergymen of Bemidji.

Inventors Plan State Congress

Scheduled June 12 to 14 at Redwood Falls, Minn.

Plans are well underway for the seventh annual Minnesota Inventors Congress to be held at Redwood Falls, Minn., June 12-14.

The three-day show, which was originated at Redwood Falls, annually attracts more than 100 inventors from a 10-state area and Canada, and dozens of manufacturers.

"This year's show is slated to be among the best," pointed out MIC president Robert J. Feldt. "We have six years experience beyond us, and with the fine assistance we get from the state department of business development, U. S. department of commerce, U.S. small business administration, Minnesota Patent Law association, U. S. patent office and national inventors council, we can assure inventors a good attendance of manufacturers and business promoters."

Minnesota Inventors Congress is a non-profit organization, its only function to provide a place for inventors to display their products. The inventor has no obligation other than to pay $10 for his display space.

Information can be obtained by writing to Minnesota Inventors Congress, Box 71, Redwood Falls, Minnesota.

Earnings Reports Due from Those on Social Security

Recipients under Age 72 to Report Earnings in Excess of $1,200

April 15 is the deadline for Social Security beneficiaries under age 72 to file annual reports of earnings with the Social Security Administration.

Anyone who became 72 in January 1963 or earlier does not need to report, according to Clifford Kittelson, manager of the Grand Forks social security district.

A report is due from any beneficiary under age 72 who earned over $1200 in 1963. This includes dependent beneficiaries.

Some beneficiaries needing to make annual reports received cards and instructions in the mail earlier this year. Those who have already sent in these cards should not report again.

Any beneficiary under 72 who earned over $1200 last year and did not get this report form should ask his social security office for it NOW. He must file this report by April 15 in addition to filing his Federal Income Tax Return.

Re-examination of Drivers Is Sought

Highway Dept. to Offer Bill to Legislature

A law requiring re-examination for renewal of a driver license in Minnesota is of major importance to highway safety, according to the Minnesota highway department.

The department says it is second in importance only to a substantial manpower increase in the Highway Patrol as a measure to reduce the state's mounting death toll.

The department hopes to win enough support for this measure, as well as for several others, to have it enacted by the 1965 legislature.

Re-examination would consist of tests for vision, knowledge of traffic laws, and the ability to read and interpret traffic signs and signals. It would not ordinarily require a road test.

One indication of the need for re-examination may be seen in results of eye checks made at the state fair last year by driver license examiners: of the 6,357 licensed drivers checked, almost seven per cent, or about 400, failed to meet minimum standards for a driver license.

Perhaps more than a million Americans licensed to operate motor vehicles are doing so with a serious mental or physical handicap, according to some reports.

Nearly half of the Minnesotans with legal licenses acquired them prior to 1948, when no test was required, according to the department. Many thousands of them, officials believe, are now handicapped in some way but are legally driving cars and trucks.

Final Word Issued on Income Taxes

Returns Must Be Filed Not Later Than April 15

More than a half-million 1963 Federal tax returns are yet to be filed by Minnesota taxpayers by April 15, according to George O. Lethert, district director of Internal Revenue in St. Paul, based upon a comparison with last year's filing records.

It is not too late to "start early" in getting your 1963 tax return ready for filing, Mr. Lethert said. Don't wait until the last day, then hurry and commit errors that complicate the processing of your return.

He reminded taxpayers that returns must be postmarked before midnight, April 15 to be considered not delinquent.

Don't wait until Tuesday night, April 14, to prepare your tax return for 1963, Mr. Lethert advised. Work on your tax return now. Before you mail it in, check for errors in arithmetic, verify forms W-2 and all schedules are attached, that you have reported your Social Security number, and that you have listed your allowable exemptions and have signed the return.

Those precautions will eliminate errors that delay the handling of your return, Mr. Lethert said.

Civil Defense Parley Slated in RLF Apr. 29

One-day civil defense conferences to instruct Minnesota county and municipal officials and state legislators on the role of local governments in an emergency will be conducted by the University of Minnesota general extension division in 11 communities during April and May.

They will be the final of a series of 40 such meetings which started November 19. The one for Pennington, Red Lake and Polk counties will be held in the Legion club rooms in Red Lake Falls Wednesday, April 29.

The Minnesota State Department of Civil Defense is cooperating with the University in presenting the conferences.

Dean Willard L. Thompson of the general extension division said the conferences will cover topics "vital to our defense and perhaps to our survival".

"We hope to give local officials the answers to questions which they, as elected officials responsible for the people of the community, are likely to ask about emergency operations," he said.

The conferences will open at 8 a. m. with registration and will continue until 3:15 p. m. each day.

Topics to be covered will include the Emergency Broadcast System, Minnesota fallout patterns, local government problems resulting from emergency conditions, the national warning system, how local government is organized to act in an emergency, the community civil defense plan, statewide training and education programs and state and federal resources for local governments.

The conferences for local officials are part of a civil defense training program being conducted by the University's general extension division during the 1963-64 school year under a $58,000 contract from the United States Office of Civil Defense, Department of Defense.

Approximately 1,300 state legislators and county and municipal officials have attended the first 29 conferences. Minnesota is leading other states conducting similar conferences with an average attendance of 41 for each conference.

State College Will Be Host to Regional Event

Bemidji State college will host more than 500 high school science students from Northern Minnesota Saturday, April 11, at the eleventh annual regional science fair held in conjunction with the Minnesota Academy of Science.

Dr. Richard E. Beitzel, associate professor of chemistry, is the fair director and he expects more than 130 student science projects to be exhibited from at least 16 schools.

Top prize of a trip to the State Science Fair to be at Moorhead State College May 1 and 2 will be awarded winners in their respective divisions. Material prizes plus blue (superior), red (honorable mention) and green (participation) ribbons will also be awarded.

Participants may set up their exhibits from 7 to 9 p.m. April 10 or from 8 to 9 a.m. April 11. Exhibits will be set up in Sattgast Hall of Science. The lecture-demonstration and the presentation of awards will be made in Memorial hall after 2:30 April 11.

A long, hard winter can do a lot of damage to streets and highways, according to the Chicago Motor Club. Watch out for the chuck-holes and rough spots. An unnoticed break in the pavement can be dangerous.

THE Twenty-Third PSALM

You've got to have your arms around a warm, wooly, wobbly lamb before the real meaning of the Twenty-third Psalm grips you.

You begin to realize how awkward, bewildered, helpless a lamb really is.

David wasn't merely singing of the Lord's faithfulness. He was confessing his own helplessness!

The key to religious faith is not simply the discovery of God's power. It is the discovery of our own need.

The Lord is OUR Shepherd.

1 The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want;
2 he makes me lie down in green pastures. He leads me beside still waters;
3 he restores my soul. He leads me in paths of righteousness for his name's sake.
4 Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff, they comfort me.
5 Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of my enemies; thou anointest my head with oil, my cup overflows.
6 Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

OPENING of the new Montgomery Ward catalog store in Thief River Falls will be observed Thursday, Friday and Saturday, according to James Dale, store manager. Penney's To Open New Auto Center

Thief River Falls will be the site of J. C. Penney company's first auto center in Minnesota, according to Morris Goddard, company manager here. The auto center will be located adjacent to the new Penney department store now under construction at Third street and Main avenue, and is scheduled to open along with the new store in August.

The new auto center will carry a full selection of the chain's new line of tires, batteries and auto accessories. The building, presently occupied by Bishop Auto company and Joringdal Radio & Television repair, will be remodeled for the new auto center. The Third street front of the building will be faced with brick and elevated to conform to the exterior appearance of the new 17,500 square foot Penney store, Goddard said.

Clarence Joringdal told the Times that he will be moving his radio and television repair business to the former Singer Sewing company building in the 300 block of Main avenue north between May 1 and May 10. O. M. Bishop, owner of the auto company, has not made definite plans for the future.

When completed and ready for use, the building will have 50 feet of frontage on Third street and extend back 100 feet from Third to provide 5,000 square feet of space. It will include four car-bays with a selling area of nearly 1,000 square feet. Motorists will enter the building's servicing area from a parking lot to be located at the rear of the building.

Identified by a large "Auto Center" sign over its Third street entrance, the building will provide full services for motorists including brake adjustment and repair, wheel alignment, shock absorber, muffler and tailpipe installation, lubrication, oil changes, exhaust system check-ups, tire and battery servicing and the sale of auto accessories ranging from seat covers and convertible tops to car air conditioning.

The Thief River Falls auto center will be only the 12th such operation by the company in the United States. The first was opened in August of last year.

The trouble was found, after some delay, in a transformer at the Fargo substation. The break affected a wide area, and television and radio stations at both Fargo and Grand Forks were off the air for a short time.

Eleven Directors Elected from 5 County Districts

Approximately 85 people attended the first annual meeting of the Pennington County Rural Areas Development (RAD) committee Wednesday afternoon at the Thief River Falls city auditorium. Guest speakers were George Donohue, rural sociologist and Howard Newell, district extension supervisor, both from the University of Minnesota.

Eleven directors were elected at the business session to represent the county's five commissioner districts and the county at large. They included the following directors and lengths of terms: Harold South, 2-year and Mrs. Silas Hanson, 3-year, district one; Rev. A. Dean Headley, 2-year and Cy Carpenter, 3-year, district two; Maurice Steiger, 1-year and Carl R. Anderson, 2-year, district three; Francis Hamerlinck, 1-year and Jon Metussalem, 3-year, district four; Oscar Houske, 1-year and Mrs. Orlando Chervestad, 2-year, district five; and Henry Thorson, 1 year, at large.

"Area development was conceived to help communities make economic and social adjustments," Donohue stated in addressing the meeting. "All services of technically-trained personnel employed by any level of government are made available to help people help themselves."

Reviewing changes in rural and urban America, the sociologist pointed out that 4.7 million new jobs were created in America from 1957 to 1964. He said that 13 million new jobs would be needed to absorb the people entering the labor force by 1970. To keep unemployment levels down, the economy would have to grow about two and one-half times as fast in the next seven years as it did in the previous seven years.

Growth of RAD organizations was described by Newell, who stated that 19 counties now have RAD committees with articles and by-laws. There are 23 counties with formal steering committees which are doing RAD work and 24 counties have completed or are in the process of forming Overall Economic and Social Development Plans (OESDP).

ASCS Wool Payments to Start This Month

Shorn wool payments for the 1963 marketing year will amount to 27.8 percent of the dollar returns each producer received from the sale of shorn wool during the period April through December 1963, the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee reminded growers today. The rate of payment was determined recently by the department of agriculture as the percentage necessary to bring the average wool price of 48.5 cents per pound up to the previously announced incentive level of 62 cents per pound under the national wool program.

Producers thus will receive an incentive payment of $27.80 for every $100 received from the sale of shorn wool during the ninth year of the program. This compares with a payment of $30 per $100 of marketings for the 1962 marketing year.

The payment rate on sales of unshorn live lambs to compensate for the wool on them will be 54 cents per hundredweight. This payment on sales of live lambs that have never been shorn is based on the shorn wool payment and is designed to discourage unusual shearing of lambs before marketing. The payment rate compares with 57 cents per hundredweight for the 1962 marketing year.

ASCS county offices will begin making payments within a few days. Applications for payment had to be filed not later than January 31, 1964. The payments will be made on shorn wool and unshorn lambs marketed from April 1 through December 31, 1963. This year completes the shift of the wool program from a marketing year to a calendar year basis. Payments on 1964 marketings will begin in April of next year.

On February 1, 1964, payments under the National Wool Act for the 1962 marketing year totaled $36,509.60 in Marshall County.

Dianne Wikstrom Bride of Derwin Tabor March 21

Dianne Marilyn Wikstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wikstrom of Grygla, and Derwin D. Tabor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clair D. Tabor of Austin, Minn. were united in marriage at the St. Petri Lutheran church west of Grygla, on Saturday, March 21 at an afternoon ceremony performed by Rev. Norman Madson of Trail. He used the double-ring service which was read before an altar graced with Easter lilies and candelabra.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Lowell Hagberg of Argyle, cousin of the bride, who also accompanied Lowell Hagberg as he sang, "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white lace over net and taffeta, the fitted bodice featuring a scalloped neckline sprinkled with sequins and pearls. The long sleeves terminated in points over her wrists. The bouffant skirt was styled with lace inserts over tiny ruffles down the sides. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of sequins and pearls, and her crescent bouquet of pink carnations and stephanotis was centered with pink garnet roses. The crystal necklace and earrings which she wore as accents were her gifts from the bridegroom.

Attending her as maid of honor was Miss Lemay Marquis of Minneapolis, who was gowned in a mint green brocade taffeta street-length gown. Bridesmaids were Loretta Tabor of Rochester, sister of the groom, and Gwendolyn Wikstrom of Karlstad, the bride's cousin. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the maid of honor. They wore white gloves and mint green veiled headpieces, and each carried a large white mum. Their gifts from the bride were pendant necklaces set with an Alaskan pearl.

Ann Adams, a cousin of the bride, was the flower girl, wearing a gown of white lace, with a white veil headband, and white gloves. The crocheted basket which she carried held pink and white French nosegays and roses.

Ringbearer was Timothy Lind, also a cousin of the bride. Carrying the rings on a heart-shaped pillow, he wore a dark suit with a carnation boutonniere.

The groom was attended by a friend, Wilfred Wikstrom of Minneapolis, as best man. Serving as groomsman were Allen Wikstrom of So. St. Paul and Keith Wikstrom of Grygla, brothers of the bride. They wore dark suits with white carnation boutonnieres. LeRoy Johnson of Goodridge and Brian Vermilyea of Austin ushered the guests. All of the men of the bridal party wore black ties, gifts of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a beige knit suit with brown accessories, and the groom's mother wore a pink suit with beige accessories. Both wore corsages of feathered carnations and roses. Mrs. John Anderson, Thief River Falls, grandmother of the bride, wore a dress of blue satin brocade accessorized with black. Her corsage was of red roses and white carnations.

A wedding reception given by the bride's parents and catered by the St. Petri Ladies Aid, was served to 160 guests in the green and white decorated dining room. The bridal table was centered by a four-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bridal pair and decorated with green and white roses. The cake was baked by Mrs. Lester Hook of Crookston and cut and served by Mrs. Hilmer Lind of Newfolden and Mrs. Oscar Johnson of Strandquist. Mrs. Clarence Borsvold of Strandquist and Mrs. Allen Torkelson of Faribault were at the coffee service. Karol Sevre of Goodridge, Donna Anderson of Grygla, Sharmaine Johnson of Strandquist, and Beulah Wikstrom of Holt served as waitresses. Their white organdy aprons were gifts of the bride. Guest registration was in charge of Mrs. LeRoy Johnson of Goodridge, sister of the bride, and the gifts were arranged by Patricia Seavey of Austin. Guests attended from Holt, So. St. Paul, Trail, Argyle, Strandquist, Greenbush, Minneapolis, Karlstad, Thief River Falls, Austin, Goodridge, Rochester, Crookston, Faribault, and Grygla.

The bride, a 1963 graduate of Goodridge high school, is employed at LeMaurs' in Minneapolis, and the groom, a 1957 graduate of Austin high school, is with Wendell's Northwestern Inc., also in Minneapolis.

For her travel costume, the bride chose a three-piece beige suit with lace trim and with blue accessories. The couple is at home at 2501 17th avenue South, in Minneapolis.

REMOVING ADHESIVE TAPE

Q. Is there any way to remove adhesive tape without "taking the skin off?"

A: When asked the question, "What is the best way to remove adhesive tape?" most professional persons are likely to say, "Just rip it off!" Though speedy, "ripping it off" can be very painful. A North Carolina doctor suggests an alternative method. Gently lift a corner of the tape with the thumb and index finger. With fingers of the other hand, gently and slowly press the skin just beneath the tape. The pressure should be away from the tape and toward the center of the dressing or bandage. Continue to press away from the skin until the tape has been removed. This method isn't painless but it is said to cause less pain than "ripping."

Joyce Ramserran Feted on Becoming American Citizen

Several important events which occurred recently in the life of Miss Joyce Ramserran were celebrated with a 5:30 o'clock dinner at the Marshall Hankerson home on April 8. Assisting Mrs. Hankerson as hostesses were Mrs. Dick Edlund and Carol Ellingson. The dinner was attended by a dozen guests.

Miss Ramserran, a native of Trinidad, who teaches Spanish language classes here, became a United States citizen last month in impressive ceremonies at the American Embassy in Winnepeg, Manitoba, Canada. The oath of allegiance was administered outside the country because Miss Ramserran was here on a visitor's visa visa.

The second event of import was the publication of a Spanish textbook in which Miss Ramserran assisted Dr. Paul Waldorf, head of the Language Department at Mankato State college. She did a considerable amount of research, and compiled the vocabulary portion of the textbook.

Table centerpiece at the dinner was a three-tiered cake decorated in a patriotic theme, with a replica of the Liberty Bell and an American flag, with the words, "Welcome" and "Congratulations" as part of the legend on the cake. Mint cups featured Liberty Bells of sugar, and the favors were marshmallow "drums" topped with flags.

The guest of honor was presented with a jeweled pin as a memento of the occasion.

The theme of the 1964 meeting is "The Master is Come and Calleth for Thee." Speakers will include Mrs. Clarence P. Jackson of Louisville, Ky.—the president of the North American Area of the World Federation of Methodist Women.

A major item of business will be the implementation of the national Woman's Society's 25th anniversary observance goals, with Minnesota women aiming at 25 per cent increases in both membership and their national pledge, plus the recruitment of four persons for full-time church service.

In 1962-63 Minnesota's 28,915 local society members raised $410,836 for local church work in addition to their national pledge.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. HANS PRESTBY

"Mystery" cake, like the Chinese fortune cooky, contains a "hidden" something, that makes it quite special. You'll never be able to detect its presense, however, but you'll appreciate the creamy lusciousness it gives this cake, making it perfect and excitingly "just right," for practically any occasion. The "mystery" is in the way the Miracle Whip blends so unobtrusively with the other ingredients and does such a fantastic job of lifting this far above the ordinary "run" of cakes. Try it...you'll like it.

It was obtained from a storekeeper-homemaker who expresses her love for cooking, and especially baking. She calls this recipe one of her "treasures."

MYSTERY CAKE

½ lb. dates, cut up
2 teaspoons soda

Pour 1 cup boiling water over this and let stand while mixing the following batter:

In a large bowl, place:
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
1 cup Miracle Whip (no other dressing will do, according to Mrs. Prestby.)
1 teaspoon vanilla
Broken nutmeats (the kind and amount is up to you)

Stir all together, adding the nutmeats lastly, with the date mixture. Mix. Bake in a greased, deep jelly roll pan, at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Cool. Frost with the following icing:

2 cups sugar
1 cup thin coffee cream
3 tablespoons caramel syrup

Boil the sugar, cream, and caramel syrup to the soft-ball stage on a candy thermometer. Remove from heat and let cool. Add 1 tablespoon butter and 1 tablespoon grated orange rind. Beat to spreading consistency and spread on cake.

To make the caramel syrup, melt 1 cup sugar in a large, heavy skillet over medium heat until it turns a deep, golden brown. Very slowly add 1 cup boiling water, being careful that it does not boil over. Cook to the consistency of syrup. (This will keep indefinitely in the refrigerator...You need only 3 tablespoonfuls for this recipe)

Mrs. Prestby, who say she "just plain loves people", operates the H and M Grocery with her husband. They came here from a farm near St. Hilaire in 1952, buying the store which they have operated since that time. She hasn't time for hobbies, but she immensely enjoys visiting and travel. Crocheting was an earlier hobby but no longer, for time does not permit it. Church activities include the ladies aid and a circle at Trinity Lutheran Church. She is chairman of the circle and assistant treasurer of the Trinity Lutheran Church Women (TLCW).

Their two children are both married, and each has two sons and one daughter. Eileen lives at Boulder, Colo., and Hanlon in Canton, Minn.

Present were Mrs. Levorson; manager Harold Stroble; Jerry Stevens, Mrs. Donald Erickson, Mrs. Vernon Lee, Mrs. Duane Green and Miss Bonnie Schenke.

Miss Elsie Koglin returned Tuesday from Mankato where she visited her niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nicholas for a week.

Mrs. Inga Melby and Mrs. Helen Bendickson were visitors at a Grand Forks, N. D. hospital on Wednesday, with Mrs. Louis Lund, who is a patient there.

Delegate Assembly of MEA Meets Last Week

Four representatives of the Thief River Falls Education association attended the delegate assembly of the Minnesota Education association held recently in St. Paul. The assembly is the legislative voice of MEA's more than 33,000 members.

Attending the session were Francis Hamerlinck, Lawrence Brown, Ted Hellie and Ted Mills of Thief River Falls and Dr. David Brown of Goodridge.

The assembly joined Gov. Karl Rolvaag "...in mutual concern for the welfare of education in Minnesota", but urged the governor to rescind the order calling for a five per cent reduction of state financial aids to education. The assembly noted that "recent reports of income tax receipts indicate that the state is financially able to carry out the appropriations for education as enacted by the 1963 Legislature."

Included in goals of MEA's 1965 legislative program were the following:

A foundation aid program that would provide a minimum of 50 per cent support to school districts from the state; elimination of the diversion of school funds; a strengthened teacher tenure law; nonresident transportation levy to be made on districts that do not maintain secondary schools;

Also governmental immunity liability protection provided by school districts for teachers; passage of the taconite amendment to the state constitution; repeal of per capita tax limitation laws; repeal of the law permitting pupils to be absent from April to November of each year.

In other actions, the delegates went on record supporting the proposal now before the state board of education for a fifth year of preparation for teachers and urged the repeal of laws that curtail expenditure of public funds for education;

Also recommended that all districts without public elementary and secondary schools be dissolved; supported the principle of teacher involvement in educational policy making activities; observed that every teacher has the right and obligation to be an informed active citizen with opportunities for political and social equality with other citizens in the community; supported the principle of desegregation in the public schools of the nation, as set forth by the U. S. Supreme Court; and condemned all advertising that tends to corrupt youth.

GRADUATES of McConnell Airline school in Minneapolis are Marvin, left, and Ernest Hanson, sons of Mrs. Annie B. Hanson of rural Grygla. Marvin, who attended school in Grygla and served in the U.S. Army from 1958-1960, has been appointed ramp agent for Delta Air Lines and is based at O'Hare Field in Chicago, Ill. Ernest, who graduated from Goodridge high school and served in the army from 1960-1963, is ramp agent for American Airlines, also at O'Hare field.

Rev. V. Schroeders to Observe Their 50th Anniversary

Pastor and Mrs. V. E. Schroeder of Bismarck, N. D. will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Wednesday, April 15 at Zion Lutheran church in Bismarck, N. D.

Rev. Schroeder is a former pastor of St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls, serving the parish for 27 years from 1926-1953, when he retired due to advancing blindness.

In the Sunday worship services on April 12, Pastor Paul R. Belgner read a letter of congratulations from the congregation, accompanied with a purse. The letter read in part: ". . .we offer special intercession on your behalf as we also implore the Heavenly Father to make us sharply aware of and deeply grateful for the gift of your lengthy ministry in our St. John parish. Please accept the enclosed love-gift. . .as a small return on St. John's large indebtedness to you both for 27 years of sacrificial service, and as a token of our esteem in the love of Christ."

Pastor and Mrs. Schroeder's six children will come from all parts of the country for the celebration which will feature a service of praise followed by an open house reception at Zion Lutheran church in Bismarck.

The Library Corner

"Reading is the key"

National Library Week, April 12-18, is being ushered in with this phrase! It is a good one to remember because it is so true.

Reading is the key, you know, to better living, better working conditions, more pleasure, more know-how. There isn't any door that knowledge cannot open wider...and reading is the key that turns the lock.

How many of you actually remember learning to read? Perhaps you remember being taught, but do you remember "learning"? No. The pleasure of learning to read is a gradual process. The average person doesn't remember the first word, or the first sentence or the first paragraph or the first volume he lumbered through. He retains only the knowledge it contained and the feeling of pleasure within, not the effort involved.

Unfortunately, there are some people who have not learned to enjoy reading. They have never found the key that unlocks that door to pleasure. Why? Many reasons, one perhaps being the way they learned to read...the process was not a pleasant one for them. Parents with young children, even babies, can begin the written word learning process long before the little one toddles off to school. Children should be aware of the magic of books long before they begin to cart them to and fro.

Parents can spend many pleasant hours reading to the very young child. Usually, by the time a child is two he'll have memorized nursery rhymes. He may even turn the pages for you as you read to him.

There are other ways to interest a child in reading. One is to be sure and pick the same story hour each day. Soon the child will be reminding you it is reading-time. It is wise, too, to make the child a participant. First, you point out the characters in the illustrations and before too long, he'll be pointing them out to you.

As soon as he enters school and begins to learn the mechanics of reading, ask him questions and encourage him to read to you. As his ability increases, broaden his horizon. Take him to the library. Secure a card for him. Let him pick and choose his own books for borrowing. Soon, he'll develop an interest in a particular subject. Encourage him to find out as much as he can about that subject.

Encourage him to ask the librarian questions, and to ask help in ascertaining the proper sources of information. Soon he'll begin to learn the catalogue. Before he reaches junior high school he'll be able to find any book in the library he is interested in reading. He'll learn at an early age that "Reading is the key".

There are two excellent reasons why one should develop the hobby of reading...one is, you're never too young and the other is...you're never too old! Age is no barrier to the enjoyment of reading. And lack of funds is no barrier...read the list of books below (featured on our bulletin board):

"Black Robe and Grass Skirt", "Sharing of Joy", Cooper's Creek", "Ripples from Iceland", "La Legion", "Mexico", "Hill Towns of Italy", "The Swiss Alps", "William Shakespeare", "Fall of the House of Hapsburg", and there are more on the shelves.

Those books will take you to most any port-of-call...no passport, no inoculations, no packing and unpacking...visit any city, town, village or country in the world.

"Reading is the key".

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Carolyn Offerdahl

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

Do you know that you may actually be throwing money away when you spend too much, or even too little, on the things you buy? "Just what do I expect from this purchase?" is a question you should ask each time you shop.

Nearly everything today is sold in a wide range of quality or excellence of design and construction. To get the most for your money you will have to choose which level of quality is best for each purchase you make. Use the following questions as a guide when purchasing.

1. How often will you use or wear the item?
2. Where will you use or wear the item?
3. How long should it last?

If the quality of an item is not good enough for your purposes, it may be worn out too soon. But if it is higher quality than you need, you may simply be wasting money.

There are some items you will want for just the present season or school year but would not dream of using or wearing a year later. This is especially true with fads which are "out" nearly as soon as they are "in". Usually it is a good rule not to spend money on expensive models of this kind when less costly versions will serve the same purpose.

From other items, however, you will expect several years of good us. High quality is important here. In a winter coat which will be worn many times for several seasons, durability and long-lasting good looks should be prime considerations. In this case, the best quality you can afford will usually prove to be the best buy.

Keep in mind that this all-important quality question applies to more than clothing. In buying records, for example, it is smarter to choose higher quality in an album you will enjoy a year or two later than a hit tune of the week.

Princess Kay Entry Rules Are Unchanged for the 1964 Contest

It's that time again. The time when pretty dairy farm girls throughout Minnesota might be caught doing a little extra primping in front of their mirrors.

The time when they show what their folks might consider extraordinary interest in the details of dairy farm operation.

In short, it's the time of year when "Sally Blue Jeans" starts wondering whether she has a chance of becoming Minnesota's best-known girl — Princess Kay of the Milky Way.

Reports to the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee office in St. Paul indicate that plans for community, county and regional contests which lead up to the 11th annual state contest are progressing at full steam.

"Preliminary indications are that there will be more than 1,000 dairy farm girls participating in the dairy princess contests at various levels again this year," according to MDIC Manager H. R. (Shorty) Searles.

"Everything points to a most successful round of preliminary contests which will make our 11th annual state Princess Kay contest something to which we can look forward with real enthusiasm," Searles said.

The state contest will be held prior to the 1964 Minnesota State Fair with coronation ceremonies scheduled for opening night on the grandstand stage, August 29.

Searles said the 1964 dairy princess contest rules and application blanks were distributed throughout the state from MDIC headquarters last week.

"He said the rules as established over the years would remain unchanged this year. Requirements for candidates include:

Residence in Minnesota.

Dairy farm home background with parents who are currently active as producers of milk or cream.

Age 16 through 21, inclusive

Being single, not engaged, never married.

Agreement to a full year of full-time employment from the date of her coronation during which time she can become neither engaged nor married.

Searles said judges were being asked again this year to base their decisions on the girl's appearance, poise, posture, health, weight, photogenic qualities voice quality and speaking ability.

Complete rules and further information are available at all county agent offices and at the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee office, 2239 Carter Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota.

85 Attend RAD Annual Meeting Here Wednesday

nty agricultural agent, stated that most of the time to date has been devoted to study. Pennington had the first OESDP completed in Minnesota.

Project Reports

In presenting the secretary's report, Mrs. Silas Hanson noted several of the projects underway or being given consideration. Among these are a tourist guide in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce, alfalfa dehydrating plant, further processing of turkeys, specialty crop production, county fair improvements and Rural Life Sunday.

Soon to be distributed, the tourist guide will include sections on education churches, industry, agriculture, parks, hotels, cafes, motels and historical description of the community and area.

M. R. Hankerson, chairman of the local junior college committee, stated that more than 500 letters and 81 resolutions had been received in support of a junior college here. He urged all letters and resolutions be sent to the Junior College Committee, Union State Bank, Thief River Falls. Miss Carolyn Offerdahl, Pennington county home agent, said a house-to-house survey has revealed that many people in the city would be interested in housing junior college students, even though they may have to install new facilities.

Truck Stop Report

Commenting on study work done by a committee in regard to the feasibility of a truck stop in Thief River Falls, Jon Metusalem mentioned concern expressed by a number of businessmen that the proposed business may hurt other businesses in town. He pointed out that truckers now have no place to park and have no easy access to dining facilities, and that there is a shortage of dining areas for large groups.

Facilities to handle large trucks and trailers for service and fueling are non-existent, he said, and no diesel fuel can be purchased after 10 p.m. Traffic counts indicate a need for a truck stop here, Metusalem stated, and eight local organizations and 21 individuals have handed in signed requests for such a facility.

A local corporation is planned to develop the truck stop and $100 shares will be sold to all interested citizens. Oil companies are presently being contacted to see which can supply gas and diesel fuel to the corporation at the lowest prices on a yearly basis.

'We hope, through RAD, to study and know the potential of the area, develop the natural and human resources and to activate some projects," stated Cy Carpenter, president of the organization. "RAD is not expected to perform miracles." He thanked the many people who served on committees and the executive board for their cooperation in promoting study of the area and in activating projects.

Side Line Observations
By Bill Dahlquist

James Reston, writing for the New York Times Service, points out that while the senate committee's investigation of the Bobby Baker scandal has been laid on the shelf, the matter is still very much alive. He states that the hearings have come to a close "in a torrent of rumor and suspicion," and reviving charges that the Johnson family is benefiting from favorable rulings from the Federal Communications Commission, the members of which "serve at the pleasure of the President."

Reston believes that the failure of the committee to deal with the scandal realistically "has raised more questions than it has answered and it has hurt everybody in the whole cast of characters." He states:

"First, it has damaged the already stained record of Congress. The more the committee looked into Baker's stock manipulation and influence peddling, the more he appeared to be a symbol of the poisonous atmosphere of Congress itself.

"The very fact that he could inflate a few thousand dollars into a couple of million in a comparatively short time without actually breaking the law merely added to the conviction that the whole conflict-of-interest problem is more serious than even this suspicious and skeptical city had realized.

"Moreover, there is no evidence that the inquiry into Bobby Baker's financial adventures will lead to important corrective measures. No doubt Congress will adopt new rules forbidding servants of the Congress from using information gained in their jobs for private gain, but this will not deal with the problem of senators and representatives who do the same thing.

"Second, the investigating committee has been hurt, for while it was restricted by the Senate from inquiring into the activities of senators whose names turned up in the inquiry, the majority gave the impression that they were determined to end the hearings without exploring politically sensitive questions.

'Third, President Johnson and his confidential aide, Walter Jenkins, have been hurt. At no time did the hearings produce any evidence that Mr. Johnson used his influence as majority leader in the Senate to promote Baker's investments, but he was less than candid about his close personal relations with Baker, and seems remarkably casual about where his protege was getting all his money."

Discussing the situation editorially, the New York Times concludes:

"Congress must carry out the painful and courageous task of investigating itself. Its own sense of self-esteem and its reputation with the public are at stake. Unless it undertakes a full examination of the facts, however unsavory and distasteful, it will be doing irreparable damage to its own position. If it closes the Baker investigation now, it will be paying the price for a long time to come."

Malcolm X, the Negro leader who broke away from the Black Muslims to organize a group of terrorists of his own, predicted that 1964 will be the bloodiest year yet in the civil rights fight. He urges Negroes to learn how to use rifles and shotguns. He told a press conference that it is legal to establish rifle clubs in this country and that in most states it is legal to carry shotguns.

Well, we have asked for it. The emotionally upset writers and politicians who have advocated speedy action in solving a problem that only time can solve have done a great disservice to the nation as a whole and especially to those they hope to help. For every act of violence committed by either the whites or the blacks there will be retaliation. Congress should defer action on all new civil rights legislation until the violence has subsided and the problems can be considered calmly.

Greater emphasis should be placed on the progress that has been made peacefully under existing laws. Those who speak for us in Washington fail to tell us, and the world, how much progress already has been made.

Former Grygla Resident Escapes Alaskan Quake

Mrs. Ross McCoy Loses Husband Who Disappears While Loading Freighter

Editor's Note: The following article appeared in the Seattle Times on April 3. Mrs. McCoy is the former Jean Barrie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Barrie who resided in Grygla for many years. The item was sent to us by Mr. and Mrs. Orville Orheim of Seattle.

Mrs. Ross McCoy of Valdez, Alaska who faced the loss of husband, home and town in the Alaskan disaster with the superb courage of all rugged Northerners, has yet another and possible greater test ahead.

The mother of three children today revealed that she is "living on borrowed time" because of a spinal ailment.

As she calmly discussed her future and the future of her children Mrs. McCoy displayed only the faintest signs of emotion.

"The children must go to school, and I don't know yet just what I will do, but ther's no use going around in hysterics," she said. "That isn't going to help."

Mrs. McCoy is a cook but she said she will not be able to work. She and her children, Rossane, 7, Sandra, 10, and Bucky, 14, are living temporarily with her sister, Mrs. Stan Jones, 2841 S. Othello St.

Her father, Leon Barrie, of Aberdeen, S. D., will arrive Monday.

Mrs. McCoy left a brother, Darwin Barrie, in Valdez to look after things.

"There isn't much for him to look after," she said. "There's only half a house and my friendship cups."

In one of the freaks that accompany disasters Mrs. McCoy's 50 cups and saucers remined on the shelf. Not one was broken.

McCoy was out on the pier loading the frieghter Chena when the earthquake struck. He and the truck he was driving were lost in the bay.

"We were getting ready for supper when the quake struck, and I grabbed my husband's coat and the kids grabbed their coats and we got out fast," she said.

Mrs. McCoy left her purse. Her husband had a substantial amount of money in his wallet.

The family waited several hours before returning about 10 o'clock to mop up the water in what remained of their house.

"Then the fire siren sounded and the oil tanks were turning and there were explosions, and we left and never returned," she said.

Her son, Bucky, 14, came down with mumps.

"We stayed at a road house four days while Bucky recovered, and then I didn't want to go too far away until they found my husband's body, but there has never been a trace," Mrs. McCoy said.

As Mrs. McCoy discussed the tragedy, the telephone rang to reveal that an old friend, Tom Johnson, Valdez fisherman, had survived.

"How wonderful!" Mrs. McCoy said, "I'm sure glad he made it."

Mrs. McCoy, who cannot be helped by further medical treatment and who finds relief from pain only by pills, permitted herself no self pity.

"Something or Someone looked after me and my children," she said, "and I think I'm luckier than a lot of people."

Mrs. McCoy praised the people of Fairbanks who aided those of Valdez.

"They were fabulous," she said. "If I'm able, I would surely like to return."

In Memoriam

Mother was tired and weary,
Weary with toil and with pain,
Put away her glasses and rocker,
She will not need them again.
Into Heaven's missions she entered
Never to sigh or to weep,
After long years with life's struggles,
Mother has fallen asleep.
Angels through Heaven will guide her,
Jesus will still bless and keep.
Not for the world would we wake her,
Mother has fallen asleep.
Beautiful rest for the weary,
Well deserved rest for the true,
When our life's journey is ended
We shall again be with you.
This helps to quiet our weeping,
Hark! Angel's music so sweet
He giveth to His beloved,
Beautiful, beautiful sleep. The family of Louise Ptacek. 1t30p

Lesson Reveals Hat Is Important Part of Wardrobe

Homemaker Session Is Held Thursday With 100 Women Attending

"Never buy a hat without first looking critically into a full-length mirror," was the message given to more than 100 women by Miss Carolyn Offerdahl, Pennington county home agent, at the millinery lesson Thursday.

Objective of the lesson was to develop in the homemaker an understanding that a hat is an important part of the wardrobe, that certain costumes and occasions demand a hat, and that hats should be selected that will harmonize with the shape of the face, the hair style and the body figure.

There are severn basic facial shapes: round, rectangular, square, heart-shaped, pear-shaped, triangular and oval. Each of these basic shapes requires that a particular type of hat be worn. Considering facial shapes is not the only important part of selecting a becoming hat style, however. Just as important, Miss Offerdahl said, is finding your figure type.

Miss Offerdahl cited several criteria to be considered in choosing hats. Since hats are essential to bring smartness and satisfaction to the wearer, they should do something for the wearer, i.e., be becoming in shape, texture and color and be the right size and proportion.

Hats should also be a planned part of the costume or wardrobe. They should be right for the costume in color, texture and trimming and be appropriate for the occasion.

A film strip was shown to illustrate that hats give an optical illusion and thus make the wearer appear to have a more perfect facial shape or figure.

At the close of the meeting hat frames were available for the women to try on in preparation for the leader training lesson in hat making to be held Thursday and Friday.

Warren Voters OK School Addition

Approve $150,000 Bonds to Enlarge High School

Voters in Warren School District 446 gave approval to the $150,000 bond issue for building a high school addition by a vote of 586 "yes" and 453 "no" but turned down a $675,000 bond issue to construct a new Elementary school 539 "Yes" and 726 "no" at a special election conducted in Warren last Tuesday.

The turn-out of voters was considered exceptionally large when 1,053 residents of the large district cast their ballots.

The board of education of the school district along with the Citizens Advisory committee had endorsed the building of an addition to take care of needs for the high school building. Neither group lent its endorsement to the building of a new elementary school, feeling that present facilities will be adequate for a few more years until the financial structure of the district will be better able to handle the additional cost.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Play Ball!

Starting this week (there will be an American league game, Los Angeles at Washington, and a National League game, Houston at Cincinnati, on Monday, and a full slate of games on Tuesday), the cry of the major league baseball umpire will be heard throughout the land. And in this area, which is Minnesota Twins country, the call of the umpires working the Twins' games will be of particular interest. The Twins will open their American League season on Tuesday, meeting the Cleveland Indians at Cleveland, with game time scheduled for 12:30 p. m.

The current issue of "Sports Illustrated" features major league baseball, with scouting reports on all twenty of the big league clubs. It is the consensus that the New York Yankees will repeat as champions in the American league, with the Chicago White Sox and the Twins battling for runner-up honors. In the National league, it is agreed that the world's champion Los Angeles Dodgers, with their exceptional pitching staff, will be the winners. The St. Louis Cardinals and the San Francisco Giants are rated as the chief contenders.

The scouting report on the Minnesota Twins makes this astute observation: "Shortstop Zollo Versalles is the man who can lift the Twins, and how Zollo feels no one often knows." And the report adds this pertinent comment: "One who believes in Versalles is First Baseman Vic Power. 'This time around,' says Power, 'Zollo is ready to be mature. He is the big man, he can make us really great. I am hoping'.

And the report continues: "Power himself is easily the most stable fielder on the Twins, flashy but good flashy, the best defensive first baseman in the league. However, if Owner Cal Griffith has his way, Power won't play much. Griffith would like to see Bob Allison shifted from right field to first base, so that rookie Tony Oliva can play right. This might add a few more home runs to the lineup, but the defense would groan. Oliva is not as good an outfielder as Allison, and Allison playing first base doesn't deserve being mentioned in the same sentence with Power."

And the conclusion: "Granted improved fielding, the Twins have the pitching and hitting to fight for the runner-up spot."

A Late-season Match

A challenge match was held at the Fairgrounds curling arena on Wednesday evening, April 8. This April 8th date is undoubtedly a late-season record for curling at the arena here, and while the ice was heavy it was remarkable that the boys could have a match.

A rink, skipped by Hans Newman, and with Ed DeLap at third, Eve Kompellen at second, and Jim Olson at lead, turned back the challenge of a "rookie" rink, winning by a 7 to 4 score. This "rookie" rink was skipped by Curtis Bottem, and had Don Harbott at third, Lloyd Samuelson at second, and Emil Harbott at lead.

Six of the rink members—Newman, DeLap, Kompellen, Bottem, Don Harbott, and Samuelson—are employed by Hartz, and it was during the "coffee breaks" held there that this challenge match was made and accepted.

They Were Impressive

The Warroad Lakers were an impressive hockey squad on Sunday afternoon as, in a game played in the Winnipeg Arena, they defeated the Kamloops, B. C. Chiefs, 8 to 6, in the first game of the best-of-five Western Canada Intermediate hockey finals.

The second game of the series is slated for tonight, Monday, and the third game is billed for Wednesday night, all in the Winnipeg Arena. If further games are needed, and it's doubtful that the series will go beyond three games if the Lakers play the brand of hockey they exhibited on Sunday, these games will be played on Thursday and Saturday nights.

The score at the end of the first period was deadlocked at 2-all, but the Lakers erupted for three goals in the second period to gain a 5 to 3 lead, and then added three tallies in the third period. One of these third-period goals was a successful penalty shot by Myron Grafstrom.

The two individual stars of the game, though, proved to be Roger and Billy Christian. They each contributed two goals to the Lakers' scoring, but it was as a pair of harassing fore-checkers that they proved to the Arena fans that they are complete hockey players. In one spurt in the third period, with Warroad having a player in the penalty box, the Kamloops club, largely through the efforts of Roger and Billy, were unable to get the puck out of their defensive end. The fans gave the two brothers a fine hand.

The Kamloops club appeared to be a veteran outfit, and they didn't have the speed or stamina to stay with the Lakers. Odie Lowe, who will be remembered by States-Dominion hockey fans as playing center for the Grand Forks Amerks, was at center for the second line of the Chiefs on Sunday.

Bowling Notes

The men's bowling league schedules closed this past week, and would you believe it, in two of the leagues—the Northern and the City leagues—playoffs were required to determine the league champions.

The Thursday night Northern league ended in a tie between the Miller Ford team of Red Lake Falls and the St. Hilaire Elevator. A playoff was held on Friday night and the Miller Fords won the title. And in the Friday night City league, the Hamm's Beer, winning three points from the Western Oil in the final match on Friday night, forced a playoff as they tied the Western Oils for the league championship. In a playoff held on Sunday afternoon, the Western Oil, with games of 918 and 858, took two straight from the Hamm's to clinch the first place trophy.

This week, tournament bowling will take over the Family Bowl lanes, with team events being slated. The men's singles and doubles tournament will be bowled next week.

Power Pools Aired by Otter Tail President

Operation of power pools to provide the most efficient and uninterrupted service possible was outlined Thursday evening by Albert Hartl, president of Otter Tail Power company, at a press dinner held at the Top Notch cafe in Fertile.

Hartl noted that there has been agitation in Washington, D. C., for a national organization to regulate electric power companies. The accusation has been made, he said, that private power firms are thinking only themselves and that federal regulation is a necessity.

Using a sectional map of the United States to illustrate his point, Hartl showed how existing companies have already joined forces to provide more efficient and economical service. He mentioned Mid-Continent Area Power Planners (MAPP), an organization of companies planning together how to best meet the electric needs of the future. This area includes all or part of the states of Montana, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Missouri, Nebraska and Wyoming.

As a further expansion of electric company cooperation, Hartl mentioned the Interconnected Systems Group which includes power producers in the eastern two-thirds of the United States. We have been organizing, by ourselves, much on the same basis as advocates of a federal organization have said is necessary, the Otter Tail company president said.

Hartl noted that there has been a 25 per cent decrease in the mine price of lignite in the past 18 months and that successful negotiations had been conducted to effect lower freight rates. This has progressed to the stage of "unit train" shipments, where an entire train of lignite is delivered and then returned to load for the next shipment. This permits the building of steam generating plants in the eastern part of the system.

"We have heard much about the blossoming of the area encompassed by the Tennessee Valley Authority," Hartl said of the huge federal power authority. "Did you know that 72 of the 95 counties in the TVA area of Applachia, as covered by President Johnson's recent address, are still considered depressed areas? What happened to all the progress we have been hearing about?"

Hartl also noted that Otter Tail can not buy firm power from the federal government, but can buy only surplus or dump power from the government after firm power users have been supplied. He noted that 60 per cent of the customers now served by REA cooperatives are non-rural and that four out of each five new customers of REA cooperatives are non-farm users.

Attending the event from Thief River Falls were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mattson, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Helfner and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lundin of the Times staff and Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Olson of KTRF radio.

Donald Stewart Tells of Tour in Erfoud, Morocco

Local Young Man Makes Visit to Desert While Working in Peace Corps

Dear Family,

I was sitting here Friday evening and Peter Stork walked in. He said he and his mother were going to Erfoud and they wanted to know if I'd like to come along. Would I? It is a trip that I never thought I'd get to make because without a car it would just be too difficult and not much fun. I'd been looking forward to a boring weekend here at home and instead I had one of the nicest times that I've had since we got here.

As we drove northeast from here we followed the foot of the mountains for about 60 miles, then headed east into the Middle Atlas towards Midelt. In Midelt we stopped and visited two Volunteers who are living there. It's up on a very high plateau and is extremely cold. After leaving Midelt we started climbing into the High Atlas which were covered with snow and obscured by a cloud cover that held until we dropped into the desert.

The road followed the Oued Ziz through its valley which was between sheer cliffs a lot of the time and then would break out into huge, flat basins that were sometimes five to ten miles across. Everything was very barren except for right along the river where there were palms and little plots of cultivated land.

About 20 miles north of Ksar es Souk we came over a rise and there in front of us for as far as the eye could see lay the Sahara. To say the least, it was breath-taking. Well, to go on and try to explain all the scenery, the flatness, and the bareness would be next to impossible.

Erfoud is just a small, walled city surrounded by palms and nothing else. Fortunately, the government has a hotel there for tourists which is very nice and expensive. There's no other choice, though, so that's where we stayed. Before sunset we went for a walk around the city.

I thought the people here were dirty and sickly, but this is nothing compared to those down in the desert. It was really pitiful to see the little kids that were running around in utter filth with all sorts of sores and open wounds all over their bodies. We got up Sunday morning and after breakfast drove further south into the desert to a little place called Rissani where they were having a big (market). We got there about nine and there were very few people around, but by 11 they'd all come in on their camels, donkeys, etc., and the souk was in full swing. I hadn't planned on buying very much, but Peter was buying like crazy because this will probably be his last outing before they return to Holland. This is one of the few places that is still fairly untouched by the tourists, so the prices were quite low. I ended up buying quite a few things after all.

I think the real prize is the ugliest thing we brought back. It's just a dirty old board all covered with scribbling. The thing that makes it wonderful and maybe valuable is that it is very old, and the scribbling is Arabic writing. It is a part of the Koran which used to be used in the schools here many, many years ago in religious studies. Peter says he has looked and looked, but the two we found yesterday were the only ones he'd ever found.

I just hope some of my pictures turn out. The weather was not as nice as it could have been and coming back over the mountains last night it was snowing.

I'll be leaving a week from this coming Thursday or Friday. I have dentist appointments on the 24th & 25th and then Dan and I are going to Gibraltar for a few days. After that I'll be in Tanger till the end of March. I'll write again before I leave for Tanger and then it might be a couple of weeks before you hear from me again. I imagine I'll be plenty busy.

Love to all,
Don

Tell Who's Liable to Heart Attacks

State Medical Assn. Reports on Findings

Is one man more likely to have a heart attack than another man? If so, what type of man is he? These are some of the questions, says the Minnesota Sate Medical association, that medicine is desperately trying to answer. Heart disease is America's number-one killer, taking well over 900,000 lives a year.

Studies are providing surprising clues to what type of man is "coronary prone". Most persons think the "heart-attack candidate" is a harddriving, ambitious lover of strenuous activity. A completely different sort of person, however, emerges from the studies thus far conducted.

An outline of the coronary-prone man might describe him this way: he is most likely overweight, and may drink, though is hardly ever an alcoholic. He smokes heavily. He has mental stress concerning his job—which is usually a sedentary one. He doesn't engage in many, if any, strenuous sports. He would rather read, socialize, or watch television. There may be family background.

By getting to know this type of man better and studying his life and habits, says the association, medicine hopes to find the clue that will enable them to prevent heart disease.'

"Justice is the only worship. Love is the only priest. Ignorance is the only slavery. Happiness is the only good. The time to be happy is now. The place to be happy is here. The way to be happy is to make other people happy." —R. G. Ingersoll

Frontier of Chaos

It has been computed that since the New Frontier took over in Washington in 1961, federal spending has increased by $16 billion a year; the national debt has increased $19.1 billion; unemployment has risen from 3.9 million to 4.6 million; bankruptcies and mortgage foreclosures have risen greatly; and the cost of living has reached an all-time high.

If the New Frontier politicians can blame all this on the minority, convince the public that it has done a good job for the people, explain how its policies mean increased prosperity—and as a result get reelected—they will have accomplished a public relations feat which defies imagination.

No Way Out

There are those among the United States population who would like to see major revisions in the Social Security laws to bring them closer to the purposes for which they were supposedly intended. Through the years that Social Security has been in effect, it has compounded its restrictions and provisions into a vast network of complexities.

Addition of the King-Anderson bill, which is said to be designed to provide medical care for the aged, would further complicate the situation. Provisions of this legislation would be inter-twined with existing laws. We could best describe this as "quack grass" legislation, and all farmers know the difficulty of controlling quack grass with its rapid spreading and self-perpetuating root system.

If the King-Anderson bill is approved, we may expect that benefits would soon be liberalized even more than the bill provides in its present form. In a relatively short time the legislation could be expected to expand to include medical care for everyone.

E. R. Annis, president of the American Medical association, told a California symposium recently about a conversation he had once had with an Englishman, well acquainted with socialized medicine.

"When the Tories got back into power, why didn't they change the Labour Party's health scheme?" he had asked. The Englishman's reply was with another question, "How do you unscramble an omelet?"

There Must Be A Reason

We have just finished reading a publication of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and entitled, "Our Manpower-Employment Situation". The booklet was written by E. J. Niederfrank, rural sociologist for U.S.D.A. We quote from this report:

> "It appears that many young people of today and the next few years can expect to be at least partially unemployed during the first 10 years they are in the labor force. And this period could be even longer if they do not seek to become better qualified through more schooling or other training. Their's is a national problem infinitely more perplexing than that of the so-called 'Lost Generation' caught in the backwash of World War I."

The report notes further that idle teenagers seeking work account for 30 per cent of the nation's total unemployment. Groups hardest hit by unemployment are young people who have dropped out of high school, other young people who are just starting out in the labor force with only minimum training and experience, adults who are generally qualified for only unskilled or semi-skilled work, older people whose jobs have run out because of the greater abilities needed, and the non-white people in the labor force.

Of particular interest, however, was the statement that about one in three of the country's workers in 1962 was a woman, with 37 per cent of all women in the nation's population being in the labor force. Women have accounted for more than 60 per cent of the increase in the labor force since 1940, and the number of women workers will continue to increase at nearly twice the rate for men. It is estimated that by 1970 there will be about 30 million women workers—approximately 35 per cent of the labor force.

With the change in attitude toward married women working outside the home, and the introduction of products and appliances making household work easier and less time-consuming, many married women are included in this total. In a good many instances, husbands and wives are both working, with the women holding jobs that could well be filled by men who are now listed as unemployed.

While the problems of unemployment are many, including the fact that there are many people who would rather not work at all, the trend toward husband and wife both holding jobs is a definite factor in the unemployment problems of the nation.

It Pays to Advertise

Edward R. Engle, official of the National Retail Merchants association, recently referred to the importance of newspaper advertising to retail trade. His findings were based on a study made of the results of the New York newspaper strike.

It was found that there is no substitute for newspaper advertising, and that without advertising, retailing would be in a chaotic state. Stock needs and turnover would be impossible to predict. When advertising of big stores is absent, the entire shopping complex (including the smaller stores) feels the ill effects.

The utimate loser from inadequate advertising, again, is the consumer who pays for losses due to slow turnover, waste and high per-item selling costs. The basic principle is simple: If people don't know what you have to offer, they can't and won't come seeking it. Advertising pays—for both the advertiser and the consumer.

With an apparent ear to the ground and eye on the coming elections, members of the House of Representatives some time ago rejected a proposal to raise salaries from $22,500 to $32,500 per year. The President has launched an economy drive which includes such major items as turning off lights in government buildings when they are not being used.

Under construction for some six years now has been a new House office building, estimated to cost $122 million and provide office space for 170 members of the House of Representatives. Simple arithmetic reveals that this comes to $720,000 per member—more than half the cost of our total expenditure in Thief River Falls for a new junior high school and 10-room elementary school.

A move is now starting in Washington, it is reported, to start another such building for Representatives who won't have space in the new structure. The mathematical puzzle in economy is this: How many lights will have to be shut off for how long to save enough money to finance construction of the new office building(s)?

For Your Information

Whether you choose to believe it or not, it won't be too long before the grass grows green and commands cutting. If you are one of those who takes pride in having the greenest lawn in the neighborhood, here are some tips from people who are in the business of making grass grow.

Many people in this country leave clippings on the lawn to decompose on the theory that they help the soil texture by putting back some of the material lost by mowing. In England, where well-kept lawns are admired by most visitors, it is impossible to buy a mower without a contrivance for catching the clippings.

The fact of the matter is that the value of clippings is negligible and there is a lot to be said against them. When they turn brown they give a lawn an unpleasant, burned-out look. Worse than that is their tendency to form a mat or "thatch", and matted grass makes a good breeding ground for fungus diseases.

Moral: If you want a healthy lawn, catch the clippings or sweep up cut grass. Grass doesn't have to be greener on the other side of the fence.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"The proposed legislation to increase the rate charged REA electric borrowers in the future (to) an amount that equals the cost of such funds to the federal treasury should be no handicap to REA operations, be more equitable to the taxpayer who otherwise must bear the loss of interest to the treasury, and be fairer to the electric customers of investor-owned utilities who bear the full burden of taxation."

—Harry G. Guthmann

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"Certainly," replied the waiter. "Sit down. We serve anyone."

In Minnesota... at a picnic, beer is a natural

When you're relaxing at your favorite outdoor beauty spot with friends or family, and your thirst's whetted by fresh air and exercise—that's the ideal time for a cool, refreshing glass of beer. In fact, you can name your recreation—swimming, hiking, or just watching TV—and chances are nothing in the world fits it quite as well as beer.

Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasurable reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

In Minnesota...beer goes with fun, with relaxation

Plant Some New Ornamentals

What new ornamentals can Minnesota gardeners look forward to this spring? This is a perennial question indicative of the avid gardener's zeal to experiment.

The University of Minnesota is introducing two new garden chrysanthemums, this spring, Goldstrike and Zonta, both of them early flowering varieties.

Goldstrike, aptly named for its prolific display of bright yellow, fully double 2-inch flowers, reaches a height of 15 to 18 inches and a spread of 24 inches when grown in full sun. The stems are stiff and sturdy with dark green foliage. Blooming usually begins in late August or early September in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area.

Zonta is slightly taller than Goldstrike. It will attain a height of 18 to 21 inches and a spread of 24 inches when grown in full sun. Flower color is apricot-bronze. The large flowers, 2¼ inches in diameter, are fully double. Blossoming usually begins by early September in the St. Paul-Minneapolis area.

These new varieties will be available from most nursery and garden centers this spring.

Recent testing of azaleas has led to the recommendation of several types for the Twin Cities area. Basic requirements for good culture must, of course, be met. Recommended are: Rhododendron roseum, R. yedoense poukhanese, R. canadense and R. calendulaceum.

Hardy azaleas should not be planted in exposed sites. They prefer an acid soil. Since they enjoy cool soil, partial summer shade and mulching are helpful. Oak leaves may be used as the mulch.

For the 3rd time in three years, Fred Lorenzen takes the grueling Atlanta "500" at the wheel of his Ford.

FORD TOTAL PERFORMANCE WINS ATLANTA "500" FOR 3RD YEAR IN A ROW!

Latest win gives Ford 11 out of last 12 NASCAR 500 milers!

ATLANTA, April 5: In a blazing exhibition of total performance, ace driver Fred Lorenzen piloted his specially modified '64 Ford to a stunning victory in the Atlanta "500" before a cheering crowd of 75,000 spectators.

This victory marks the 11th time that Ford has captured a NASCAR stock car event of 500 miles or more starting in May, 1962.

In the past two years, tough, dependable Ford-built cars have carved out an incredible history of victories in virtually every kind of automotive event possible—from stock car races to economy runs, from milers to endurance tests.

This is the dramatic way to show that Fords have changed . . . and the sure way to be certain they keep on changing.

Ford enters special cars in open competition, in addition to its extensive laboratory and test track programs, because competition provides an intensity of testing that no proving ground alone can provide.

The lessons Ford has learned in racing have already led directly to such refinements as a stronger rear axle, streamlined "fastback" styling, better brakes and an improved ignition system.

Because Ford enters open competition, the cars at your Ford Dealer's are better performers—better handling, safer and thriftier in the long run. They're built for total performance.

Public Opinion

To the Editor:

This letter should be of interest to the taxpayers of the Goodridge School District.

A couple of months ago, voters of the Goodridge School District approved a bond issue of $228,000.

Since Grygla has received preliminary approval to build their own high school, to me it seems certain that they will go ahead.

Previous to the election the general feeling seemed to be that if we didn't build in Goodridge, we would be building somewhere else. This seems to be false.

Last Friday the citizens committee was called in. They were told the bonds had been sold, but could be reinvested. They were also told by Dr. Brown, that if Grygla builds, we would not need the additional classrooms. I understand the State Dept. has advised us not to build, not even a new gymnasium.

In spite of all this, the majority of the committee members felt we should go ahead with the original plans. One committee member said that if Grygla can build, so can we. We're just as good as they are.

To me this seems foolish. Why burden ourselves with a huge debt, when it is not necessary.

I can see why the committee is reluctant to give up the plans now after years of planning, but let's use our heads.

Dr. Brown and the school board are in an awkward position and I think they would appreciate hearing from the rest of you as well as the citizens committee.

I think we should delay building ~~a year and~~ in the meantime tell Grygla to make up their mind. We are entitled to know. I also think we can have a high school in Goodridge longer if we don't spend our money now on building that we may not need.

Yours Sincerely,
Bennie Svanjord

Safety Director Warns of Danger in Making Turns

"It can be a short step from lawbreaker to life-taker," Safety Director Garnet E. Hall of the Minnesota highway department, said today, speaking of the increasing traffic toll on Minnesota highways.

"It is also true that bad driving and not bad luck causes traffic accidents. Driver error is the cause of more than 90 percent of the mishaps that occur," the safety director added.

Accident records for 1963 reveal that 5,757 of the 73,567 Minnesota traffic accidents were due to unsafe turns, while improper passing accounted for 6,440 accidents and 575 were blamed on drivers who gave incorrect signals or failed to signal at all.

Warm spring weather encourages drivers to drive faster and feel more confident behind the steering wheel, Hall declared. Winter's driving troubles seem a long way past. But "open roads don't mean open up," he said. Instead, it should prompt closer attention to driving manners.

The faster one travels, the faster things happen.

This makes it doubly important that drivers signal intentions of maneuvering a long way in advance of actual maneuvers. Give the other driver a chance to react. He's not a mind reader, Hall added. Remember, just because you have signalled, do not think you have the right to maneuver. First, you must see if it's safe to turn or change lanes.

Red Lake Indians Announce Sale of Fishing Permits

Improvements Planned For Recreation Area to Attract More Tourists

In preparation for the coming fishing season, permits for fishing on the Red Lake Indian reservation are now being offered for sale, according to Dan Needham, treasurer of the tribal council, Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians.

Permits will be available for sale May 15 through October 31 at a cost of $2.50 for a daily permit, $5.50 for a weekly permit and $10.50 for a yearly permit. The permits may be used on the Red Lake river west of the dam and on all inland lakes. There are no permits issued for lower Red Lake.

The recreation area on Sandy beach will open on or about June 10, Needham said. Admission fee will be $1 for cars, $3 for trucks and $5 for buses with season permits for cars being $10.50. Camping permits are $2.50 daily and $5.50 weekly.

A proposal for recreation services at the reservation was approved at the February meeting of the tribal council. The resolution calling for adoption of the proposal noted that the reservation has much to attract tourists but that not enough is being done to hold tourists in the area.

It was stated that the Great River Road, the official road following the Mississippi river from its source to New Orleans, will join highways 1 and 89 approximately at the southeast end of the present recreation area on the reservation. A section of the road is planned for construction this summer.

The tribal council has provided that an area 2½ miles in length and ¾ mile into the lake, extending southeast from the Farm Station road, will be open for picnic area, swimming and camping. It is planned to have three rafts anchored in the lake for use by swimmers and to surface the gravel road in the area to control dust.

Will Make Hockey History

The Warroad Lakers are on the verge of making hockey history. The Lakers, with a two games to zero advantage, will be playing the third game of their best-of-five series tonight, Wednesday, at the Winnipeg Arena against the Kamloops, B. C. Chiefs. The odds are that the Lakers will win tonight's game, and by this win coach Dayton Grafstrom's Warroad team will be the first American club to win a Canadian hockey title. The Lakers and the Chiefs are meeting for the Canadian intermediate hockey title. Warroad won the opening game of the series on Sunday afternoon, 8 to 4; and then scored a 6 to 4 win on Monday night.

The Warroad club, while it is rated as an American club, is supplied with a number of Canadian players, and these Canadian players have played important roles in the success of the team this season. Such Canadian players as goalie Allie Reynard, forwards Murray Balagus, Ron Shalley, Bob Batlett, and Reggie Morelli, and defensemen George Goodacre, Bill Mathews, and Buck Forslund would be assests to any hockey squad.

But the Lakers do have a number of American players on their roster, and these native sons are some of the finest hockey players in the country. There are the Christian brothers, Roger and Bill, with Roger at wing and Billy at center, and the Grafstrom brothers, Myron, Sam, and Dayton. And of course you have Jim Stordahl of Roseau, the former Roseau Rams all-state tournament center and later a star with the Minnesota Gophers. And Bobby Lund, a defenseman, is a Roseau native, too.

It's a cinch that hockey fans in this area will be cheering for the Lakers tonight.

And speaking of hockey, the senior hockey Winnipeg Maroons are engaged in a Western Canada Allen Cup finals against the Saskatoon Quakers. The Maroons will meet the Quakers on Friday night and Sunday afternoon, with both games in the Winnipeg Arena.

Danny Summers, the former senior hockey Thieves defenseman, is playing with the Maroons. And Gordy Simpson, who will be remembered as a Roseau Cloverleaf in the States-Dominion hockey league, is coach of the Maroons.

His Finest Prospect

Coach Dick Siebert of the University of Minnesota baseball Gophers is reported as having rated Frank Brosseau, the former Drayton American Legion junior baseball star, as the best sophomore prospect that he has had on his squad in the seventeen years he has been at Minnesota.

Siebert has had such major league prospects as Fred Bruckbauer and Paul Giel, both of whom were given sizable bonuses when they signed their major league contracts. And when the personable Gopher coach makes this comment, 'I don't mean that Brosseau will be better han Giel or Bruckbauer, but at the comparative stages, Frank has more potential. I have now been as high on any pitcher."

I surely hope that Brosseau fulfills the expectations of coach Siebert.

Some years ago the Drayton American Legion junior club had a remarkable southpaw pitcher in Tommy Knoff. Knoff signed a contract with the New York Yankees, receiving a modest bonus, but the lefthander didn't have a very successful professional career. He pitched a season or two in the New York State league, and then was stricken with an illness that cut short his baseball career. He is now back in Drayton.

Will Try Again Today

The four-squad indoor track-meet—Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks, Bagley, and Crookston—which was to have been held on Tuesday afternoon at Crookston, was, because of Monday's heavy snow, postponed to Wednesday afternoon. The heavy snow which was whipped into deep drifts by the gale-like winds, made it impossible to move the track equipment into the Winter Shows building in time for the Tuesday afternoon date.

Coach Roger Solheim will take a large squad of Prowler hopefuls to Crookston, and it will be interesting to watch the youngsters perform, And there are some promising freshmen in the group. Roger has high hopes for Mark Hanson and Dave Halvorson, a pair of ninth graders who will compete in the 440-yard dash.

And it will be interesting, too, to watch senior Bob Olson run the dash events. Bob is deceptively fast. And this was in evidence during last fall's football season when the rangy Olson would gather in a pass and outrun the opponent's secondary defense.

The Lady Bowlers

The Land O'Lakes team of the Nite Hawk league, the Fountain Cafe team of the Coffee Cup League, and the Bridgeman's of the Moon Beam league were the 1963-64 champions in the local women's bowling competition.

The Land O'Lakes squad had Helen Ellingson, Marvel Carlson, Hildie Hamre, Ardy Mattson, Bea McLeod, and Kathy Jordet on its roster. For the Fountain Cafe the team members were Stella Botten, Elland Anderson, Myrtle Stromberg, Norma Heyn, and Eleanor Bothman. And for the Bridgeman's, the members were Eula Kvikstad, Kathy Karlstad, Joanne Wedul, Min Ruane, Martha Narverud, and Judy Erickson.

The season's high-average bowler in the women's competition was posted by Mary Washnesky of the Ekeren's Pharmacy. Mary, for the Ekeren's, who gained runner-up honors in the Nite Hawk league, had a fine 166 average. Bess Lang, also of the Ekern's, had a 161 average, while Kathy Jordet of the league-champion Land O'Lakes posted a 160 average.

SWANS have made their appearance at Agassiz National Wildlife refuge, pausing there while on the way to their Arctic breeding grounds. Jim Thompson, clerk at the refuge, took this picture of the whistling swans in courtship display. He has titled the picture "Courtship on an Icecake." Other species of waterfowl are also becoming more numerous at the refuge.

1,161 Acres Are Added to Agassiz Wildlife Refuge

Addition of 1,161 acres to the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge has been authorized by the Migratory Bird Conservation commission, according to Ralph Town, acting refuge manager. The addition includes Elm Lake, a former 800-acre marsh that was once drained for agricultural purposes.

It has been noted that the Elm Lake area added to the refuge includes that portion of Elm Lake lying north of Ditch 200, and should not be confused with the state wildlife management area also known as Elm Lake. Land for the addition is being acquired from private holders and the state.

The old lake bottoms will be reflooded to provide maximum benefit for waterfowl, Town said. The new marsh area is expected to have great potential as a Canada goose production and management area. The refuge also expects to raise enough grain on the uplands around Elm Lake to help alleviate crop depradations by waterfowl on surrounding privately-owned lands, the acting manager added.

Al Becker Sports Show Scheduled Monday, Tuesday

Al Becker, who formerly conducted a sports show on KJB-TV, will present a one and one-half hour program of hunting adventures Monday and Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. The sound and color films will include hunting scenes from Alaska and the southwestern United States.

Indicating the amount of effort put into the films, Becker said that the filming in Arizona requires 5,000 feet of film being taken before editing into a 90-minute movie. A considerable amount of scenery is also included in the film program. Further information is contained in an advertisement in today's issue of the Times.

Now Is Time to Start Tomatoes from Seed

Want some particular varieties of tomatoes for your garden this year? A way to be sure of getting the varieties you want is to start some seeds indoors.

Tomato plants can be seeded in the house now, since it takes about six weeks to grow a good plant for setting outdoors, according to O. C. Turnquist, extension horticulturist at the University of Minnesota.

For dependable, continuous production of high quality tomatoes, he recommends four varieties: Firball, Hybrid E. E. Moreton Hybrid and Big Boy. Fireball and Hybrid E produce early, medium size fruits but become less productive in late summer. They are bush-type plants, not suitable for staking. In addition to one of these early varieties, Turnquist suggests Moreton Hybrid, which will start producing as Fireball and Hybrid EE taper off. For large, smooth fruits, Big Boy, a midseason to late variety, is still the most popular of all tomatoes.

Plant Early Salad Hybrid if you want some of the small fruited or cocktail or eat-whole tomatoes. One paint may yield up to 400 fruits.

If you like yellow-fruiting tomatoes, try Sunray, midseason variety milder and less acid than most red tomatoes and suitable for staking.

A good soil mixture for starting seeds is three parts garden soil, two parts organic matter and one part sand. If you broadcast the seed in the container, avoid getting plants too thick. Planting two or three seeds directly into a 4-inch peat pot has been found successful. After the first true leaves appear, thin the seedlings to one plant. At the appropriate time the pot can be set directly into the garden.

Plants will grow best if kept in direct light where there is good air circulation.

Don't set tomato plants into the garden too early, Turnquist warns. Usually the latter part of May is recommended, when soil and air temperatures are warm enough to establish the transplants.

Soil Stewardship Week Will Begin On Sunday, May 3

"To Each Among Us a Share" Will Be Theme of Annua Soil Observance

"To Each Among Us a Share" has been selected as the theme of this year's Soil Stewardship according to Robert Kloubec, work unit conservationist for the Marshall-Beltrami Soil & Water Conservation district.

Soil Stewardship week, May 3 to 10, is set aside for the promotion of soil and water appreciation. Lyndon Magnuson, district board chairman, has announced that this district will be working with all local churches prior to Soil Stewardship week.

The conservation district board has distributed hand-out material to all churches in the area. Anyone attending church during Soil Stewardship week will receive a copy of this literature. In addition all clergymen have been given booklets on ideas for soil stewardship sermons.

"To each among us," Kloubec said, "God has assigned a share in the expanding brotherhood of stewards. It is a membership of service, dedicated to the husbandry of the lands, waters, forests, fish and game. He has placed at our disposal."

2,200 Will Attend State FFA Parley

Convention to Be Held on St. Paul Campus May 3-5

More than 2,200 Minnesota rural boys will take part in the Future Farmers of America (FFA) convention and leadership training conference, May 3-5 at the University of Minnesota's St. Paul Campus.

The theme of this year's convention, "Agriculture . . Dynamic, Challenging," will give the participants an opportunity to explore modern agriculture as well as take part in contests, business sessions and tours.

The three day meeting will kick off Sunday evening with a talent show and wind up Wednesday with a training session for newly-elected state FFA officers.

An annual highlight is the hand milking contest between the State Star Dairy Farmer and Minnesota's Princess Kay of the Milky Way. This unique event will take place in front of Coffey Hall on Tuesday at 8:45 a.m.

The delegates will leave the campus Monday evening for the 28th annual convention banquet in the St. Paul Municipal Auditorium. Governor Karl Rolvaag, Mayor Vavoulis of St. Paul and National FFA vice president, Joseph Coyne, Minooka, Illinois, will be the principal speakers.

Wisconsin Votes Down Gas Tax Hike

Voters Reject Proposal by One-sided 6 to 1 Margin

A vote in Wisconsin, where an advisory referendum calling for an expression of voter sentiment on a proposal to increase the state gasoline tax was defeated by a six to one margin, was hailed today as "an encouraging victory for motorists everywhere."

Robert T. Thornburg, Minnesota Petroleum council, noted that close to one million votes were cast in the Wisconsin referendum April 7. He said the vote showed "beyond the shadow of a doubt that motorists believe they are already paying gasoline taxes that

He noted that motorists in Minnesota now pay 10 cents in taxes (6 cents state and 4 cents federal) on a gallon of gasoline. This amounts to a sales levy of 47 per cent. The total gasoline tax is the same in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"We have been hearing for too long a time that the highway user doesn't mind paying higher gasoline taxes to finance huge road building programs. Now we know how the highway user really feels." Thornburg said.

Arthur Godfrey Cites N. St. Paul Truck Operator

A Minnesota truck driver, whose heroism on the highways has saved numerous lives, was honored in New York last Monday on a nationwide radio broadcast.

Andrew Hurd, of North St. Paul was hailed by radio and TV personality Arthur Godfrey as a "Gentleman of the Highways."

The award was announced on Godfrey's daily radio program. A citation, signed by Godfrey and by John M. Akers, president of American tracking Associations, will be presented to Mr. Hurd.

The 47-year-old driver for Minn.-Wisconsin Truck Lines, St. Paul, has driven a tractor-trailer nearly two million miles during his 24 years with the company without a single accident,

On one occasion in downtown St. Paul, Mr. Hurd witnessed an automobile go out of conrol and smash into an iron pole on a heavily traveled bridge. Rushing to the scene, he administered first aid to a woman who had received several injuries to the face and legs.

Plan To Organize Garden Club for Area Youngsters

To determine interest in starting a young people's garden club, an informational and organizational meeting will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the council rooms in the basement of the city auditorium in Thief River Falls. Boys and girls from 10 through 18 are encouraged to attend the meeting.

According to Mrs. Inga Geving, who has expressed interest in forming the club, there are several projects in flower growing which could be accomplished by young gardeners to help beautify the city. Interested businessmen are also encouraged to attend the meeting.

State Dentists to Convene April 20

The spotlight will be on teeth and better ways by which the dentist can save them as the 81st annual meeting of the Minnesota State Dental Association gets underway in St. Paul auditorium on Monday, April 20.

Two of three visiting lectures will concentrate on periodontal diseases, a group of dental ailments which attack gums, mouth tissue and the bony structure supporting teeth. Periodontal diseases — familiarly known as pyorrhea and gingivitis — far overshadow cavities as a cause for tooth loss.

Backbone of the three-day conclave are more than 200 clinics conducted by practicing dentists from throughout Minnesota as well as visiting practitioners from some 20 other states.

Correct Address Requested by U.S. Veterans Agency

Hundreds of veterans each month risk delay or possible error in the handling of their GI insurance accounts by the Veterans Administration if they fail to identify themselves properly.

John R. Parrish, director of the VA center in Fargo, said these veterans fail to use their GI insurance policy number to identify themselves.

"With over five million veterans holding GI policies and with thousands of cases of identical or similar names, the individual number assigned to each policy is the only way to assuring speedy, positive identification," Mr. Parrish said.

He urged veterans writing the VA regarding their GI insurance to use their policy number including the prefix letter, H K, V, RH, RS or W to identify immediately their own account. This will allow the VA to quickly take the action tat veterans desire.

In the event that the veteran has mislaid his policy number, he should furnish his service serial number and his date of birth to enable the VA to identify his account.

Speaker of the evening will be Dr. Curtis Akenson, president of Northwestern College in Minneapolis. The Bible Institute choir, under the direction of Mr. Dale Grover, will provide special musical numbers.

Receiving diplomas will be 20 young men and women who have completed the three-year course of study at this nondenominational school.

Editorials . . .

"It is an instinct with me personally to attack every idea which has been full grown for 10 years, especially if it claims to be the foundation of all human society. I am prepared to back human society against any idea, positive or negative, that can be brought into the field against it."

— George Bernard Shaw

Thanks, Fellas

Now that spring is officially here and winter has discarded the surplus snow it doesn't need any more, area residents have been given a reminder of what winter used to be. Snow manages to disappear just in time to have the ground ready for another blizzard.

We believe a note of appreciation is in order to the city street department for its judicious efforts in clearing streets for travel. Men in this department have performed their task in admirable fashion during the winter and after heavy snows this spring. From those of us who are lazy enough to prefer driving to walking—thanks, fellas.

A Good Job — Well Done

REA cooperatives throughout the United States are to be commended for the job they have done in providing electric service to rural America. We well remember the stringing of electric wires past our home farm not so many years ago, having the house wired well in advance of the day when current was turned on, and testing every switch in the house to be sure the lights all worked.

We doubt that electricity for rural America would have been as swift in coming if it had not been for local cooperatives formed to handle REA financing. We believe that REA was the spur which goaded private power utilitiest into major expansion and service programs.

Electricity is just now "coming of age", however, and some of the push from private utilities may be attributed to the times in which we live. As much as we appreciate the work done by REA cooperatives, however, we feel that the good job has been well done. That is to say, it is virtually finished.

There is a danger that the "spur" of REA may be applied to private power companies to the extent that a good horse may be ridden to death. Rural America has now been provided with electricity, but REA is not content to play the role of an agency which has completed its task. It has liberalized its lending policies and is expanding into urban areas.

At the present time, in fact, 60 per cent of the customers of REA cooperatives are non-farm customers and four out of every five new customers are non-farm subscribers to electric service. This expansion is being done to the detriment of tax-paying private power companies—business firms which operate at top efficiency and contribute much to local, state and federal governments through the taxes they pay.

We think the REA has accomplished its purpose. Now let the cooperatives serve their patrons, repay their loans and leave expansion to the private enterprises that help make our nation great.

The Common Man

It seems that we have reached a point in our society when the value of the individual has been replaced by the collectiveness of the group. Individuality is being suppressed and we are rapidly developing into a nation of people who do as others do for fear of offending someone or of being criticized.

This is wrong. When our Creator created all men equal, He did not intend that all men should be content to be average. He did not intend that none should be higher than others in positions of leadership or that initiative, development and hard work should go without earthly reward. The fact that all were created equal should not be understood to mean that all men should remain equal.

Newsmen have found that many people today are inclined to minimize the accomplishments of the individual. This type of thinking is prevalent among administrators of the lower grades in area school systems. Students with special abilities in athletics, music, scholarship and other fields are not being given the public recognition they can and should have.

Administrators apparently believe that special recognition of students is bad at the impressionable age of elementary students. They believe that students of lesser ability would be penalized by comparison with more developed or gifted classmates. They tend to emphasize the group, the club, the team or the class—creating a cellophane-wrapped package of humanity.

We believe that this is also wrong. By failing to give individuals credit when credit is due, they are penalizing the gifted students. They are failing to recognize the worth of the individual. They are giving the student with better-than-average ability the least possible incentive to improve himself. They are creating the false impression that it is wrong to try to rise above the average. This early impression will likely continue with the child as he grows, and he will find out too late that success does not come easily to those who are content to be average.

Students content with a C average in school when they could raise their averages a few points with a little extra effort, are hurting themselves for the future. Giving recognition to those who merit it will not hurt the other students as much as withholding such recognition will harm those who deserve it. There is no common man, and the sooner the youngsters of today realize it the better our world will be tomorrow.

Keep America Singing

People who have a place in their hearts for good harmony will be sure to enjoy the "Parade of Quartets" Saturday evening in the Lincoln high school auditorium. The program will be part of the charter night for the local chapter of the Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc.

Quartets and choruses from several communities having SPEBSQSA groups will be included in the program. Headline quartet will be the "Fort Garry Four" from Winnipeg, a quartet which has performed at hundreds of functions throughout the United States and Canada.

The local chapter is anxious to meet expenses incurred for the event. We are sure the program will be worth the price of admission and hope that a large crowd is on hand for the "Parade of Quartets".

Chapter members locally have found a ready public to hear their offerings. One of the chapter's quartets has made numerous appearances at public meetings and organizational events during the past few months. All SPEBSQSA members are doing their part to keep America singing.

Emotions and Driving

Experts in the field of highway safety are beginning to take a long look at the part emotions play in highway accidents, according to a recent report from the Minnesota highway department. A person who is emotionally disturbed and not giving his full attention to driving is as much of a menace behind the wheel as one who has been drinking, the department says.

Examples cited by the department are the man or woman who steps into the car after an upsetting family quarrel, the expectant father about to take his wife to the hospital or the man who drives home after an argument with his boss or employee. These persons likely have their thoughts entangled with incidents of the conflict they just left or the ordeal just ahead.

Just how big a part emotions play in traffic accidents is unknown, and it is difficult to determine. We are sure that lack of proper attention to driving, whatever the distraction might be, is a major cause of most mishaps.

As the department says: "Remember the young fellow who proposed to his heart's desire, was turned down, raced from the house, jumped onto his horse, and galloped off in all directions? It is even more dangerous in a car."

Where Did They Go?

Not too long ago, in a conversation with an area resident, we were told that Thief River Falls better wake up or would be faced with having more empty buildings in the business district. There were a couple of vacant buildings at that time. They were not the best of buildings, but their locked doors and drawn shades did not look good.

As we look up and down the streets of the business district today, we get the impression that Thief River Falls has awakened. New or remodeled buildings have replaced the eyesores in question at that time.

Notable among these was the Montgomery Ward building which is being replaced by a new J. C. Penney store soon to open. Also notable was the former Avalon Theater which was razed and replaced by a new building housing Elaine's women's clothing store and Tischart's Fabrics and Yarns.

There were other vacant buildings during the past few years, but for the most part these vacancies paved the way for further improvement of the community. Today it would take even a dyed-in-the-wool pessimist a fair amount of time to find many vacant business buildings.

It is fun to be part of a growing community where each passing day brings greater hope for the future. Let the knockers do their knocking—the builders are keeping pace with them.

BY BERT MILLS

Washington Editor of "National Publisher"

Voters in many communities throughout the nation are faced with the problem again this year of either returning to Congress a powerful incumbent who is obviously too old to render full service or rejecting an experienced and influential legislator in favor of a younger challenger who is relatively unknown.

In such cases, the odds are almost always heavily weighted against the youthful challenger. The "ins" have organization support, ample campaign funds, vast publicity resources and numerous other advantages.

Often the final verdict of the voters is rendered in the party primaries, many of them this spring. In some states and many Congressional districts, a primary winner is virtually assured of election next November.

A case history in point is the 19th district of Ohio, comprising Youngstown and a few suburban communities. One of Congress' more colorful characters, Rep. Michael J. Kirwan (D., Ohio) is town and has been for 28 years.

'Iron Mike' is 77 years old — a fact he does not disclose in his 15-word biography in the Congressional Directory. Many of the senior members of Congress in recent years have trimmed their biographies to a bare minimum and omitted birth dates.

Kirwan is a candidate for reelection to a 15th term. He has three opponents in the Democratic primary May 5. One of them was in Washington recently to gather campaign information and your correspondent had a talk with him.

Portrait of a Challenger

Bob Hagan is this candidate's name. He is a former businessman who got into politics two years ago when elected to the board of commissioners of Trumbull County, situated just north of Youngstown. His salary as one of three men directing county affairs is $8,000 a year. He supplements his income as a paid after-dinner speaker and by renting scaffolding equipemnt he developed.

Hagan is a 43-year-old Catholic who was in high school when Rep. Kirwan was elected to Congress in the 1936 landslide that gave President Franklin D. Roosevelt his second term in the White House. Like Kirwan, Hagan is a pro-labor liberal.

However, this does not mean Hagan will have union support against Kirwan. The incumbent has a 100 per cent record of pro-labor votes, so the unions will continue to back him as they do every election year. One union official warned Hagan against running, saying Kirwan will use his power to insure that Hagan is never elected to any post.

One of the big problems that a rump candidate has is the fear that strong Congressmen inspire among constituents. Hagan claims many supporters who would not dare declare their support in public. Whether they will dare back the challenger in the privacy of the voting booth on May 5 remains to be seen.

Another major problem is money. Hagan figures he needs a minimum of $7,500 to conduct an effective campaign, and he would like to make it $10,000. No such sums are in sight yet. A fund raising dinner April 12 was to mark Hagan's big effort. He hoped to sell 350 tickets at $10 each.

Incidentally the fear element is a factor in fund-raising. Hagan had arranged to have some printing contributed by a company in the district. Apparently this word got back to Representative Kirwan. At any rate, the company found it expedient not to do the printing.

Backers Seek Anonymity

Many of the tickets sold to the Hagan dinner were purchased with the understanding that the purchaser's name would not be disclosed and he would not appear at the dinner.

Candidate Hagan, although still lacking money to pay the bill, has ordered 12 billbords backing his candidacy. His information is that Rep. Kirwan will have 30. Hagan also hopes to buy newspaper advertising in Youngstown's only daily paper, which supports Kirwan strongly. Also projected is $3,000 worth of television time, if enough money can be raised.

Campaign funds will be no problem for Kirwan. In addition to his widespread local support, Kirwan is chairman of the House Democratic campaign committee which dispenses funds to deserving Democrats. As a member of his party's hierarchy and a ranking member of the House appropriations committee, Kirwan can command any sum he thinks necessary.

Hagan thinks Kirwan is politically vulnerable on grounds other than age. Any man in office 28 years acquires some enemies, even if some of them decline to show thier colors in public for far of reprisals. It would be a major upset if Hagan won but he thinks he has a chance.

Hagan has one boast that few candidates can match — a family of 14 children. The theory that large families are a political asset will get a real test in the Youngstown primary on May 5.

In addition to better quality and yield, fertilized grasses usually start growing five to 10 days ahead of unfertilized grass, reports the North Dakota State University College of Agriculture.

High-yielding grasslands may produce 12,000 to 15,000 pounds of milk or 600 to 700 pounds of beef or lamb per acre per year.

Side Line Observations

—BY BILL DAHLQUIST—

A proposal for a study of state highway safety measures was presented to the legislative highway study commission recently. The study, as recomended, would be made by a consultant and would cover accident reporting, use of accident records, driver preparation and improvement, highway patrol and highway traffic operation and services, traffic safety promotion, vehicle and driver licensing and other facets of highway safety. An appropriation of $100,000 should be made available for this study.

I am sure we all recognize the need for a continuing study of highway safety problems, but I am not impressed with the idea that $100,000 should be spent for this special purpose. This is a problem that deserves the constant attention of the highway patrol itself, with the full cooperation of other law enforcement agencies at the local level.

I was very faborably impressed with the good results achieved a few years ago as the result of an order issued by Highway Commissioner James Marshall shortly after he took office. The accident record through the month of November had been very bad, as I recall it, and near the end of November, moving into the holiday season, he ordered that all violators should be arrested and that the courts should impose upon guilty offenders the maximum penalties. As a result of the more effective policing by all law-enforcement agencies and a tougher attitude by our judges, the December record for that year showed great improvement.

I am not impressed by the idea that we will reduce the hazards of our streets and highways by spending $100,000 for a study. I am satisfied that most of us already know the answer to that problem—the need for better policing supported by stern court action. The problem does deserve serious consideration.

President Lyndon Johnson didn't help the cause of highway safety by his own performance during the Easter holiday in his home state of Texas. A few weeks earlier, according to Newsweek, he had issued a special appeal to traffic officials all over the country asking for a stepped-up war on traffic accidents, in which he said, "We cannot tolerate this terrible loss of life." That his own bad conduct recently is getting international attention is indicated by the following Southam News Service report written by Bruce Phillips and front-page headlined in the Winnipeg Tribune:

"The president's highway antics during his Easter holiday in Texas—where he has been noted more for horseback riding—have stimulated an uproar that is fast making him the world's worst advertisement for good driving.

"If the reporters present are to be believed, the president in a playful mood one day violated several cardinal rules of the road.

"Consider the following:

'If you drink, don't drive'. The president, by one account, was charging along the highway in his cream-colored Continental with 'his paper cup of pearl beer within easy sipping distance.' This story, in Time magazine, said the president, "sipped beer through all the fun. . .and took off. . . to get more.'

" 'Speed kills', Newsweek magazine said, 'Breezing down the highway, LBJ gunned the big Continental well beyond the 70-miles-an hour speed limit.'

" 'Never pass on a hill." Back to Time magazine: The president. . .flashed up a long Texas hill, swung into the left lane to pass two cars poking along under 85 miles an hour, and thundered on over the crest of the hill—squarely into the path of an oncoming car. The president charged on, . .the other motorist veered off the pavement surface to safety on the road's shoulder.'

"All this happened one day last week when the president went for a drive, taking some reporters in his car and followed by a convoy of other newsmen and a frantic carload of secret service men.

"In an expansive mood, he went bouncing over the range, barrelling down the roads and generally imperilling himself, his passengers, and other drivers.

"He even went so fast at one point that he lost his secret service tail, which had become stuck in a line of traffic far behind, thus leaving himself totally unprotected—if anybody could catch him.

"The president himself is reported to feel hurt by the press reports of his escapade. He felt that since he was being candid and since the newsmen were guests on the premises, they should have allowed him to enjoy a little private fun."

Henry Cabot Lodge has suddenly moved out in front as the favorite Republican candidate for the presidency. This may be attributed to the fact that Henry Cabot Lodge has not been seeking the office. Maybe we are getting back to that desirable combination of circumstances where the office is seeking the man. For the American run-of-the-mill voters that would be a refreshing situation.

Alabama's segregationist Governor Wallace upset all of the predictions by getting a surprisingly large vote in the Wisconsin primary election as a candidate for nomination as the Democratic candidate for president. The large vote has been interpreted as an indication that Wisconsin is not solidly behind the program for fast changes in the racial segregation field. The Wisconsin vote may be an important factor in determining the action at the national level.

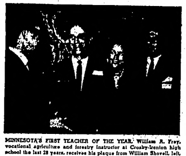
Crosby-Ironton Man '64 Teacher of Year



MINNESOTA'S FIRST TEACHER OF THE YEAR. William A. Frey, vocational agriculture and forestry instructor at Crosby-Ironton high school the last 28 years, receives his plaque from William Shovell, left, executive secretary to Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag, who was out of town on emergency business during presentation ceremonies in Minneapolis' Sheraton-Ritz hotel. Beaming approval are representatives of the organizations that co-sponsored the search for the 1964 Minnesota Teacher of the Year, Dr. Irvamae Applegate, president of the Minnesota Education association (MEA), and Lyman Walters, chairman of the promotional committee of the Downtown Council of Minneapolis. Frey's nomination was one of some 100 from 79 communities.

A 56-year-old northern Minnesota high school vocational agriculture and forestry teacher will be nominated next fall as the 1965 national Teacher of the Year.

He is William A. Frey, who has taught the last 28 years at Crosby-Ironton and who is the 1964 Minnesota Teacher of the Year.

Sponsor of the national competition is Look Magazine, in cooperation with the U. S. Office of Education, and the Council of Chief State School Officers.

Frey, a native of Leonard, N. D. was selected from some 100 nominees entered from 79 communities in a search co-sponsored by the Downtown Council of Minneapolis and the Minnesota Education association (MEA). Among the nominees was Quentin Jones of Thief River Falls.

Purpose of the state promotion, according to the sponsoring groups "is to bring to public attention the thousands of outstanding teachers in the state, who are symbolized by Mr. Frey."

"Mr. Frey," observes Dr. Irvamae Applegate, MEA president and dean of education at St. Cloud State college, "is an excellent example of the outstanding qualities we seek. He will be a fine spokesman for teachers and education."

Before going to Crosby-Ironton, Frey taught for two years at Carrington, N. D., and four at Drake, N. D. His 34-year career includes a wide range of activities, both in education and in community affairs.

He holds a bachelor of science degree from North Dakota State college in Fargo ('30) and a master of science degree from the University of Minnesota, St. Paul ('49). He also has done additional post-graduate work at Minnesota.

He is a member of many professional organizations and has been an officer in most. He has authored numerous articles and two books.

Regional Science Fair Conducted at Bemidji Saturday

Bagley Student Winner of Double Honors; TRF Student Wins Blue Ribbon

Junior and senior high school students from 13 northern Minnesota communities displayed 169 exhibits at the 11th annual Northern Minnesota Science Fair held Saturday on the Bemidji State College campus.

Nearly 600 area students listened to Dr. Phillip G. Younger, chairman of the department of physics at St. Cloud State College speak on "Fun with Physics — Some Unusual Demonstrations." The presentation of awards followed the keynote address.

One highlight of the presentation was the double honor awarded Sally Hadley from Bagley. Sally's project, "The Correlation Between Finger Dexterity," was selected as one of the 13 purple ribbon projects entered in the fair and her essay entitled "Intelligence in the Seventh and Eighth Grade Students' was chosen as a winner in the Minnesota Junior Academy of Science research essay program.

Both of these awards entitled Sally to enter her project and essay in the state science fair to be held May 1 and 2 at Moorhead State College.

Other purple ribbon winners who will advance to the state event are Kim Culp for his "How does a Radio Transmitter Work?"; Roger Wegener, "A Binary Digital Computer", Roberta DeGuiseppi, "Radioisotop P-32 Injected"; Alan Truhn, "Desposition and Distribution of P-32 in the Mouse", and Larry Dahl, "The Desotition and Dsitribution of Iodine 131 in the Geranium". All of these winners are from Grand Rapids.

John Veranth of International Falls received top honors for his "Anatomy and Physiology of Planarians", and Elden Elseth of Warren was awarded a purple ribbon for his "Generation of Snow Crystals". These two boys also won trips to the state science fair.

Among blue ribbon winners was Wayne Pound of Thief River Falls. The forty-five red ribbon winners included Eugene Pearson, Middle River; and Richard Bischel, Thief River Falls.

has the church SERVED ITS PURPOSE?

Depressing sight, isn't it? And what is it we say when something old, familiar, once-cherished, once-useful has succumbed to the ravages of time? It served its purpose!

Could all the churches in our town someday look like this?

They could!

Maybe they will . . .

if they have served their purpose . . .

if we don't need them anymore!

Even if you haven't been getting to church of late, I think you'll protest that we DO need our churches. We need the truth they teach — the faith they instill — the hope they inspire — the God-given strength with which they undergird our life.

This is the very point: We ALL need our churches.

And to bring ALL of us to realize and fulfill our need . . .

That is their purpose!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly, and read your Bible daily.

Periodic Inspection of Vehicles Is Sought

A highway safety measure calling for periodic inspection of motor vehicles is under study by the Minnesota Highway Department for proposal to the 1965 legislature, the department reports.

The law, if enacted, would require annual inspection of all motor vehicles and would include three parts of the vehicle critical to its safe operation: Headlamps, brakes, muffler, steering, windows and horn.

As contemplated, inspection would be carried out by filling stations and garages licensed by the highway commissioner. It would cost about $2 for the inspection.

The measure was proposed to the 1963 legislature.

Last year, defective motor vehicle equipment was blamed for 2,020 traffic accidents, which included 19 fatalities. There are probably a great many more accidents caused by faulty equipment, the department says, but it is difficult for investigators to determine an underlying cause such as defective equipment when a vechicle is demolished.

Even safe drivers can have an accident with an unsafe motor vechicle, the department points out. In modern fast-moving traffic, a driver must be able to depend on his vehicle if he is to maneuver quickly and smoothly without endangering himself and others.

Three other measures also have been under consideration lately for proposal to the 1965 legislature. They include a substantial increase in the manpower of the Highway Patrol, re-examination upon renewal of driver license and establishment of uniform maximum speeds on all rural roads.

These measures were also proposed to the 1963 legislature.

At the present time, 19 other states have laws requiring periodic inspection of motor vehicles.

Students Confer on Cigaret Habit

300 Attend Conference at Hastings Saturday

Three hundred Minnesota high school students and teachers met Saturday, April 11, in Hastings high school for briefing sessions on the risks of cigaret smoking. Included was a delegation from Goodridge high school.

The faculty assembled to conduct the sessions which covered such subjects as smoking and its link to lung cancer, the persuasive effect of cigaret advertising and teen-agers' views on the smoking habit. Other topics discussed were psychological and social aspects of smoking and the professional athlete's attitude toward use of cigarettes.

The students were encouraged to use this information in speaking engagements before youth and adult groups back home.

The conference was staged to enlist the teen-agers in the American Cancer Society's life-saving program. The conference was co-sponsored by the American Cancer Society's Minnesota division, and the Hastings Junior Chamber of Commerce.

"The gathering is expected to attract upwards of 700 ministers from all over the northern section of the state and will be held at the high school auditorium," Wetenkamp stated. He explained that such assemblies are held every six months for all congregations with a representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society from New York assisting with the arrangements.

Roger C. Mullin, presiding minister of the Hibbing Congregation has been named convention manager. He will be assisted by John Snyder of Virginia.

503 Community Attitude Survey Forms Are Returned

Jaycee Project Success Assured, Chairman States

Returns in the Jaycees community attitude survey numbered 503 when they were collected Thursday evening at the regular meeting of the chapter, according to Rick Contos, project chairman. Forms not yet returned and work on areas where contacts were light are expected to substantially increase this total, Contos said.

Since some of the volunteers working on the project have not had time to complete their surveys, tabulation will not begin until late this week or early next week. All members with assigned areas were urged to complete their assignments as soon as possible so that the analysis of returns can be started.

Persons not contacted at their homes are encouraged to fill out survey forms which are available at Northern and Union State banks. The forms may be completed and left at the bank or taken home to be completed and returned by mail.

Doug Remick, chairman of the 1964 Aquacade, announced that the 10th annual event will be held on the first weekend in August. The Miss America preliminary pageant will be held Saturday, August 1, with Sunday events scheduled for August 2.

James Wilson, chairman of the Boy Scout Exposition to be held April 25 in the Thief River Falls municipal auditorium, noted that plans for the event were progressing normally. He requested and received volunteers for construction of display booths on Friday evening, April 24.

A slate of officer candidates for the coming year was presented by the nominating committee comprised of Ralph Foster, Bruce Hall and Glenn Peterson. Election will be held Thursday, April 30, at the Thief River Golf club. Two candidates were proposed for each office with nominations also to be open from the floor on April 30.

Candidates proposed for office include the following: George Hildre and Rick Contos, president; Doug Remick and James Wilson, first vice president; James Dale and Keith Spindler, second vice president; James Fisher and Al Berg, secretary; Jon Larson and Lee Gustafson, treasurer; Marvin Lundin, state director; Dr. Donald Goodrich, William Ness, Duane Glass, James Carlson, Maynard Troland, and Dell Christianson, directors for 2-year terms.

Marvin Lundin, chairman of the Jaycees queen committee, mentioned the District I Miss Minnesota pageant to be held Saturday, May 2, in Little Falls. Judy Iverson Miss Thief River Falls, will represent the chapter in the contest with two finalists to be selected for participation in the Miss Minnesota pageant at Rochester.

George Hildre, first vice president in charge of membership, stated that an orientation meeting will be held on May 7. He also commented on the state convention to be held May 8 and 9 in Minneapolis.

Announcement of the appointment of Rene Peppin as chairman of the annual bicycle safety check and Aubrey Johnson as chairman of the auto safety check was made by Silas Glere, director in charge of public health and safety.

Hearing Held at Red Lake Falls On RR Petition

Hearing was held in Red Lake Falls Wednesday on a petition by the Great Northern railroad to dualize depots at Red Lake Falls and St. Hilaire. The plan called for having agent service at St Hilaire from 8 to 10 a.m., with the agent to drive to Red Lake Falls and serve that station from 10:15 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.

A previous petition by the railroad was rejected by the state railroad and warehouse commission. The railroad contends that the economy move would not hinder or curtail service to either community. Red Lake Falls opposed the proposal. A ruling on the petition is expected in about a month.

Ask Water Use for Potato Processing

Use of water from the Thief river for potato processing and irrigation will be the subject of a hearing to be held Wednesday, May 13, at 1:30 p.m. in the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls. The hearing has been called by Wayne H. Olson, commissioner of conservation for Minnesota.

The hearing is on an application by Ore-Ida Foods, Inc., of Ontario, Ore., to pump 121.5 acre feet of water per month for 12 months each year from the Thief river in Sections 8 and 9 of North township north of Thief River Falls. All the water will be used in processing potatoes and irrigating agricultural land.

Evidence from all interested parties as to whether it is in the public interest to grant the permit will be received at the hearing. Application for permission to use the water was made by the Ore-Ida Foods company by its president, F. Nephi Grigg.

County DFL Acts on 11 Resolutions

The following 11 resolutions were adopted by the Pennington county Democratic-Farmer-Labor organization at its convention April 12:

1. Whereas candidates now run without party designation for legislative offices and whereas they must identify themselves by caucusing with liberal or conservative elements upon election, and whereas the liberal group is identified with the Democratic party and the conservative with the Republican party and whereas, we feel the voting public is entitled to proper and adequate identification prior to election, now therfore be it resolved that the Pennington County DFL support a measure requiring all state legislators to run with party designation.

2. Whereas agricultural commodities in foreign trade, both exports and imports, have a decided effect on the pricing and markets of American agriculture, and whereas the Secretary of Agriculture does not now have the authority to regulate many of these products, therefore be it resolved that we, the Pennington county DFL, support giving the Secretary of Agriculture the authority to regulate the flow of imports of commodities that are now considered in surplus or are excessively depressing the American market.

3. Whereas, Eugene J. McCarthy has done an outstanding job of public service for his constituents and whereas, the senator has received national and world recognation for his ability as a states-

Employment Shows Slight Increase On Local Records

First Quarter Rise in Manufacturing, Finance And Construction Noted

Employment in Thief River Falls as of mid-March showed a slight increase over mid-December, according to the quarterly report of the Minnesota State Employment Service office in this city. The report is prepared by R. S. Eldevik, local manager.

There were a total of 2,752 workers employed in mid-March, an increase of seven over mid-December. Local trade decreased 28 workers due to the lay-off of extra help during the Christmas rush and government decreased four workers during the period.

Losses were more than offset, however, by gains of 19 employees in manufacturing, 14 in construction and six in finance. Service and transportation and utilities remained unchanged.

Demand for workers is now very light, Eldevik said, with the exception of service workers such as waitresses, housekeepers and babysitters who are in steady demand. Continued winter weather has left a light demand for construction workers but the outlook is very bright with much more than normal construction work to be done in the area this summer.

Employment by industry statistics include the following:

This includes public schools and all city, county, state and federal employees.

County Board Buys New Motor Grader

The Pennington county board completed its April session at an adjourned meeting last Friday, when it decided to purchase a Caterpillar Model 12 motor grader from Wm. H. Ziegler Co. of Crookston on its bid of $22,795, including the trade-in of a 1950 model. The bid, although highest of three received, was favored because of past experience with the equipment. Low bid was $20,600.

The board instructed County Engineer Joseph Seidel to advertise for bids, to be opened Tuesday, May 26, on grading and graveling four miles of the Wylie road, CAR 12, between SAR3, extending west of St. Hilaire, and the south county line.

Also discussed with Sheriff Charles R. Richards was the necessity of relocating the radio antenna serving the sheriff's office, now located on the old city water tower, due to be razed.

FHA Office Here Open on Mondays

Beginning today, Monday, the Thief River Falls office of the Farmers Home Administration will be open at the court house each Monday from 8 to 5, and at Oklee each Wednesday, 1 to 3 it was announced by Albert H. Mattson, county supervisor.

Work Continues in District Court Term This Week

Following dismissal, on motion of the attorney for the defense, of the case of Elmer L. Johnson vs. the Soo Line, involving a personal injury, a jury in Pennington county district court last Thursday began hearing testimony in the case of Ervin and Evelyn Voecks vs. the city of Thief River Falls et al. The case was scheduled to go to the jury today. Next case slated for trial is that of Gordon LaBree vs. Walter Jung, involving a contract.

Signup Period for New Wheat Law to Start Wednesday

Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office announced today that the sign-up period under the new wheat law would open Wednesday, April 22 in the following counties: Pennington, Red Lake, East Polk, West Polk, Clearwater, Beltrami, Roseau, Kittson, Marshall, Lake of the Woods, and Mahnomen.

Culkins said that under the new wheat law cooperating farmers would be assured of approximately 47½ cents per bushel more on their 1964 crop than they would have received under the old law. He stated further that in order to be eligible for a Commodity Credit Corporation loan on the 1964 wheat crop, producers must sign up and comply with the provisions of the new legislation.

He pointed out that under the provisions of the old law a wheat producer would be eligible for a Commodity Credit Corporation loan if he planted within his allotment. However the old law is now terminated, and replaced with new legislation which requires signing up and complying with the provisions of the program.

Wheat producers are urged to sign up at their county ASCS office at their very earliest convenience if they want price protection on their 1964 wheat crop.

Gas Tax Payments Reveal Sharp Gain For Year to Date

Net gasoline tax collections for the year to date are up 14.7 per cent over last year, Tax Commissioner Rolland Hatfield said Thursday.

Net collections for the January-March period totaled $14,693,307, compared with $12,802,276 last year. Net collections from March amounted to $5,348,115, an increase of 25.14 per cent over last year.

A one-cent increase in the gasoline tax became effective last July 1.

800 Attend SPEBSQSA Charter Night

"Parade of Quartets" Held Saturday Night At L.H.S. Auditorium

More than 800 people were in attendance Saturday evening at the charter night program of the Thief River Falls chapter of the Society for Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. The "Parade of Quartets" was held in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Jay Austin, president of the Land O'Lakes district of SPEBSQSA, presented the chapter charter to Harold Janneck, Goodridge, president of the Thief River Falls chapter. Assisting with the presentation was J. L. Gurr, region vice president.

Quartets and choruses from Thief River Falls, Bemidji, Fargo, Grand Forks & Winnipeg chapters participated in the program. Featured quartet was the Fort Garry Four from Winnipeg, a group which had headlined the charter night programs of 13 new chapters.

Dr. O. D. Belch was master of ceremonies for the evening. The local Northernaire chorus, under the direction of Bryant Ulseth, opened the program for the evening. Bemidji and Winnipeg choruses were also on the program.

Quartets presenting numbers included the Borderchords from Thief River Falls, Imperials from Grand Forks, Bunyans from Bemidji, Far-Mor quartet from Fargo and Sorenson Brothers from Fisher as well as the featured Fort Garry Four.

Following the program, an afterglow reception was held in the high school cafeteria for program participants and their wives.

Lost River 4-H Wins Play Event

Lost River Ramblers 4-H club won the Red Lake county one-act play contest held recently at Oklee. Darrel Christianson of the Lost River club was named best actor of the evening and Joanne Frolland of Plummer was named best actress.

Girls State Winners

Scharlene Carlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Carlson of Plummer, was selected by the Plummer American Legion auxiliary to represent Plummer at Girls State this year. Alternate selected was Faith Clausen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Clausen. Both girls are juniors at Plummer high school.

Youngquist Speaks at FFA Parent-Son Event

Many Awards Won By Members; Two Are State Farmers

Stressing improvement of the individual rather than the improvement of agriculture, Dr. B. E. Youngquist addressed the annual parent and son banquet of the Thief River Falls Future Farmers of America chapter Wednesday evening. Approximately 200 FFA members, parents and guests attended the event.

Drawing on his personal experiences in FFA work, the superintendent of the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston challenged chapter members to grow into important positions in their community. He urged them to become builders and not "...content with the labors of tearing down".

Dr. Youngquist emphasized the importance of the spiritual aspects of life. He also expressed optimism for the Red River Basin, stating that it had the most undeveloped potential of any major agricultural area in the world. Value of water management must be learned if the area is to develop, he said, and he expressed the belief that there are enough groups working on water management now to assure that the problem will not be neglected.

David Torgerson, winner of the public speaking award in the chapter, opened the meeting with the invocation. Mark Bruggeman, chapter president, called on his fellow officers to explain their duties. The officers include Loris Reierson, vice president; Alan Newton, reporter; Bruce Hanson, secretary; Robert Haupt, treasurer; and David Peterson, sentinel. Paul Brown, vocational agriculture instructor, is advisor to the chapter.

Bruce Hanson gave the welcome and appreciation to parents and his father, Lowell Hanson, gave the response. Guests were introduced by Brown who also presented the chapter awards. Among the awards were state farmer degrees conferred upon Mark Bruggeman and Charles Carlson. State farmer degree is the second highest award attainable in the FFA program nationally.

Honorary chapter farmer awards were presented by the chapter to Oral Johnson, Donald L. Olson, Peter Probasco, Charles Kotaska, Donovan Bruggeman and Alton Carlson. Awards to chapter members are listed with a picture of the winners in today's issue of the Times.

Waitresses for the evening banquet, prepared by school cooks under the direction of Mrs. Clarabelle Cloutier, were members of the Future Homemakers of America chapter at Lincoln high school.

Social Security Payments Made to One in Seven Here

1,667 Recipients Given $92,198 Monthy, Report From District Indicates

About one out of every seven residents in Pennington county is getting a monthly social security check, according to Clifford Kittelson, manager of the Grand Forks social security district.

On January 1 of this year, 1,667 county residents were receiving $92,198 in benefits monthly. This is a gain of 3.9 per cent in beneficiaries over a year ago.

As the table below shows, the retired workers make up the largest single group. Among the other groups the largest gain has been among disabled workers.

Group	Number of Beneficiaries	Monthly Totals
Retired Workers	1003	$63,736
Wife, husbands	265	9,050
Widows, widowers	118	6,747
Mothers and children	214	9,338
Disabled workers and dependents	66	3,262
Dependent parents	1	65

"Social security benefits are important not only to the individual," said Kittelson. "Most social security benefits are spent each month in the local community for food, clothing and other necessities. Thus they also have a stabilizing effect on the local economy."

Rita Flom Is Bride Of Robert D. Dincau

Miss Rita Claire Flom and Robert Dale Dincau, both of Duluth, Minn., spoke vows of marriage at Trinity Lutheran Church of this city on April 4 at a 7 o'clock evening ceremony. The double-ring service was used by Rev. Reuben Wangberg. Several baskets of white gladioli and carnations graced the church and lighted candles in candelabra at the altar and candles along the aisles added a soft glow. There were 125 guests present.

Miss Flom is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flom of this city and Mr. Dincau's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alfus Dincau of Duluth.

The traditional wedding march was played by organist Mrs. Walter Larson as the bride entered the church on her father's arm and was given by him in marriage. Ruby Dincau, the groom's sister, sang, "Song of Ruth," and also sang, "O Perfect Love" in a duet with Bryant Ulseth. Mrs. Ulseth also sang, "The Lord's Prayer."

Chantilly lace enhanced with iridescent sequins was used to fashion the fitted bodice and long sleeves of the bridal gown. The skirt of organza was styled with scissors front, with an insert of Chantilly lace, and a sweeping train. The slim waist was banded by a pleated cummerbund of organza and highlighted by a back bow. The silk illusion veil was held by a cluster of orange blossoms with the forward look. The bride carried an arm bouquet of pure white roses. Her jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Attending as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Mary Lou Flom of Duluth. Bridesmaids were Misses Janet Flom, Thief River Falls, also a sister of the bride, and Janice Engen of Duluth, a friend. They were identically gowned in pale blue peau taffeta sheath-style dresses with detachable floor-length overskirts. Their headpieces were matching roses with blue blush veils. They carried cascade bouquets of white and deep pink roses and carnations. Jewelry accents were pendants of a rhinestone-encircled pearl, their gifts from the bride.

Bert Dincau of Mountain Lake, attended his brother as best man. Rev. Clyde Rogers, St. Paul, the brother-in-law of the groom, and Fred Helkes of Duluth, were groomsmen, and Donald Hemming of Minneapolis and John Dill of Middle River ushered the guests.

Mrs. Flom chose a knit suit of light aqua for the wedding of her daughter. Her accessories were white and her corsage was of pink and white roses and carnations. The groom's mother wore a dress of light green print with beige accessories and a corsage like that of the bride's mother.

A reception was given in the church parlors by the bride's parents, with about 125 guests present. The wedding cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Gil Sannes, was cross-shaped with an arrangement of wedding bells atop three layers of cake. Centered on the cross was a cascade of roses which ascended to the top of the cross.

Hostesses were Mrs. Torjus Flom and Mrs. Nels Flom, both of Thief River Falls. The guests were registered by Norma Dincau, Duluth, sister of the groom. Gifts were arranged by Miss Beverly Anderson of Roseau and Mrs. Charles Bryant of Grygla. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Bert Dincau, Mountain Lake, sister-in-law of the groom, and Mrs. Clyde Rogers, St. Paul, sister of the groom. At the punch bowl were Loren Flom of this city, the bride's brother, and Karen Dincau, Duluth, the groom's sister. Two of the bride's aunts, Mrs. Thilfer Lykken of Milton, N. D., and Mrs. Carl Myrvik of Adams, N. D. poured. Waitresses were Misses Cindy Unruh, Nancy Christensen, Marlene Gustafson, all of this city, and Sheila Lykken of Milton, N. D.

For their wedding trip to Grand Forks, N. D. and the Twin Cities, the bride chose a navy blue and white suit with white accessories.

Miss Flom is a 1960 graduate of Lincoln high school of this city and of the Area Vocational school of Practical Nursing and is an LPN at St. Luke's Hospital in Duluth. Mr. Dincau, a graduate of Morgan Park high school in Duluth, class of 1959, attended the U of Minn., Duluth branch, and is employed by Elk River Concrete Products Co. They are at home at 1503 E. 2nd Street, Duluth.

Guests attending the wedding were from Procter, Minneapolis, Mountain Lake, Holt, Shelly, Baudette, St. Paul, Duluth, Virginia, Grygla, and Middle River, all in Minnesota; Superior, Wis.; Park River, Grand Forks, Adams, and Milton, all in North Dakota.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Mrs. Robert Hillyer

Wherever women gather, the conversation eventually turns to foods and cooking, and that is the manner in which we heard of Mrs. Hillyer's spaghetti. "You should call Mrs. Hillyer...she makes the BEST spaghetti!" ...We learned that she serves it traditionally to the friends who gather at their farm for New Year's Eve. And of course, it's quite in keeping with the trend to informal entertaining for any occasion.

The lady in question obliging us, we pass on to our readers this "tried and true" favorite of today's homemaker.

ITALIAN SPAGHETTI

2 tablespoons chopped parsley
4 cloves garlic...(or the equivalent in garlic powder, to your taste)
½ cup butter
½ cup olive oil (optional)
2 8-oz. cans tomato puree, juice, or whole tomatoes
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 lb. ground beef
1 lb. long spaghetti
Parmesan cheese to taste

Cook parsley, onion and garlic in the butter until soft. Add tomato puree and Worchestershire. Add the meat, which has been browned. Cook slowly together for about 3 hours; slow cooking draws out the full flavor; however, one hour will do, if you are rushed.

Cook spaghetti in boiling, salted water until done. Drain and rinse. Mix the sauce with the cooked spaghetti, or pour over it. Sprinkle with the cheese and serve to 8 hungry people.

The Hillyers farm four miles north of town. Mr. Hillyer has been confined to a wheelchair for the past four years, but he mows the lawn of their parish church (Silver Creek Lutheran) and teaches a Sunday school class. He tends their yard at home, also on a riding mower, and since their car has been equipped with hand controls, they "get around." He also presides at the outdoor barbecues and meals which they all enjoy so much.

The household also includes a daughter Connie, 11, and Mr. Hillyer's brother, who operates the farm. Connie, like her parents, loves to read. She draws and sketches and, her mother tells us, is "very happy" with school. Her mom enjoys cooking, reading, and TV, along with her husband, and is currently (although possibly prematurely, in view of the "undecided" spring we're having.) dreaming of yet another gardening season. She grows a quantity of vegetables, many of which she cans for the winter season. She especially likes pickling.

Julie Diane Vatsaas Notes 4th Birthday

Julie Diane Vatsaas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Vatsaas, celebrated her fourth birthday at her home on Sunday, April 12. Dinner guests entertained in honor of the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Benedict Vatsaas and Mrs. Theodore Halbasch. Other guests, coming with greetings and gifts in the afternoon, were Mrs. Bill Halbasch, Nancy and Jane; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hendrickson, Jeff, Kristi and Nancy; Mr. and Mrs. David Praska and Debra; Mrs. Del Ray Offerdahl, Tammy, Terri and Tawny. Julie's sisters Jean and Jodie also were present and helped with the entertainment.

Full Delegation from Pennington Co. at 7th Dist. GOP Convention

Pennington county was represented by a full delegation at the Seventh district Republican convention in Moorhead Saturday. Serving as delegates were Stuart McLeod, county chairman; Mrs. Robert Bredeson, chairwoman; Dr. R. G. Anderson and Mrs. Eugene Sjoberg; while alternates were A. J. Rau and Mrs. Grundy Ankhus.

The convention elected two uncommitted delegates to the GOP national convention. They are Robert Bigwood, Fergus Falls, district chairman; and Mrs. Waneta Haugan, Park Rapids, district chairwoman.

Both stated that they considered themselves uncommitted in the Minnesota dispute between supporters of Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater and former Rep. Walter Judd of Minneapolis.

In the election for two alternate delegates, supporters of Goldwater for president, were defeated by a combination of Judd uncommitted delegates.

Mrs. Marvin Gelb, Moorhead, district Judd chairwoman, defeated Mrs. Charity Elmes, Long Prairie, Todd county GOP chairwoman, who was backed by Goldwater forces.

Lowell Thorson, Hendrum, a district vice chairman who said he was uncommitted, defeated for the other alternate spot Aurel Parenteau, Brooks cheese manufacturer, who is the district's Goldwater chairman.

Mrs. Gelb defeated Mrs. Elmes by a vote of 98.7 to 71.3. Thorson beat Parenteau, 94.25 to 75.75.

During its endorsements session, the convention backed U. S. Rep. Odin Langen for re-election and Wheelock Whitney as Republican nominee for the U. S. Senate but deadlocked over three candidates for railroad and warehouse commissioner.

The voting for endorsement for that post was 82 for P. K. Peterson, former Minneapolis mayor, 52 for Art Hanson, former commission employee, and 24 for Earl Ramstad life insurance agent and former lumberman.

The convention also deadlocked over efforts to endorse for president, with Goldwater receiving 75.5 votes, Judd 71.5 and 19 for no endorsement. Sixty per cent of the vote was needed.

The Larry Forsbergs are vacationing in Arizona. During their absence, their children are being cared for at the home of their maternal grandparents, the Orvin Andersons of rural Thief River Falls.

man and scholar, now therefore we highly commend him for his service in government and strongly support his re-election.

4. Whereas, President Lyndon B. Johnson, Senator Hubert Humphrey and Sec. of Agriculture Orville Freeman have distinguished themselves nationally and internationally for their service to mankind, their dedication to equal rights and peace and humanitarianism, now therefore we most highly commend them for their outstanding service and dedication.

5. Whereas many elder citizens are not now given adequate care and protection from illness and health hazards and whereas, this nation can most certainly afford adequate health care and security for our Senior Citizens, now therefore we support a Medicare program that would give this protection to our senior citizens and we feel this program should not be confined to those under Social Security but should give this protection to all our senior citizens.

6. Whereas, Thief River Falls is the location that would give the most access of educational opportunity to the great number of young people who do not now have this opportunity in Northwestern Minnesota, be it resolved we strongly support the location of a junior college in Thief River Falls and urge the state legislature to appropriate the necessary funds at the earliests possible opportunity.

7. Whereas our late President, John F. Kennedy received international recognition for his dedication to humanitarianism and his deep consideration for education and youth of our nation, now therefore, we suggest that Thief River Falls give honor to their city by naming the new public school the "John F. Kennedy School".

8. Whereas Ron Anderson has done an outstanding job as railroad and warehouse commissioner and has proven his interest and dedication to the rights of individuals, now therefore the Pennington County DFL endorses Ron Anderson as candidate for railroad and warehouse commissioner.

Grand Forks Wins Sioux Track Meet

Coach Ken Rio's powerful Grand Forks Central track squad, scoring a total of 34 points, won its second successive Sioux Indoor track title in the meet held in the University of North Dakota fieldhouse on Saturday. Gaining runner-up honors with 21½ points, and largely through the efforts of Tom Stuart, was the Breckenridge high school team. Moorhead, with 20 points, was in third place in the team totals.

Other team totals were Bemidji, 13; Fargo Central, 8; Barnesville, 6½; Grafton, 6; Grand Forks St. James, Cando, and Carrington, 5; Thief River Falls, Fargo Shanley, Plummer, Portland, Westhope, Dilworth, Ada, and Osnabrook, 4; Valley City, 3; Bottineau and Hallock, 2; and Argyle, 1.

Three records were set during the running of the 11th annual indoor tournament. Stuart, with a leap of 6 feet 4¾ inches, bettered the old mark of 6 feet 2 inches set by Moorhead's Byron Gigler in 1961. Grafton's burly Wayne Welter heaved the shot a distance of 52 feet, 11¼ inches to surpass the old mark of 51 feet, 8½ inches set by Bill Farren of Grand Forks Central in 1961. And the Grand Forks Central foursome of Bruce Kihlstrom, Eric Fritzell, Bill Marti, and Dave Tufte flashed through the mile relay in 3:36.5 to slash several seconds off the old mark of 3:41.2.

A record number of 65 schools were entered in the meet. Stuart of Breckenridge gained the individual honors with 13 points as he won the high jump and gained seconds in the high hurdles and the low hurdles. Bemidji's John Warford, winning both of the hurdle events, earned runner-up honors with 10 points.

The Prowlers' four points were gained by Jerry Fosberg, who scored a third in the high hurdles, and Larry Joppru, who had a fifth in the shot put.

The summaries:

Prowler Baseball Starts Tuesday

Coach Ralph Skay's baseball Prowlers will begin play on their 16-game schedule on Tuesday afternoon, when at 4:30 p. m. on the Fosston diamond, they meet the Fosston Greyhounds. On Wednesday, April 22, the Prowlers will open District conference play by meeting coach Jim Oftedahl's Warren Ponies at Warren, with game time slated for 5:00 p. m.

According to present plans, and this takes into consideration that the Prowlers have not been able to do any outdoor drills, coach Skay intends to give the starting assignment to sophomore righthander Tommy Cummings. Wayne Smith, who has been understudy to catcher John Aune for the past couple of seasons, will probably do the receiving.

With Cummings slated for opening-game duty against Fosston, coach Skay will have senior veterans Jack Leedahl and Rick Jensen, both of whom are righthanders, available for hurling duty against Warren on Wednesday afternoon.

The first game on the home schedule is slated for Friday afternoon, April 24, with the Goodridge Huskies meeting the Prowlers on the fairgrounds diamond, with game time at 4:30 p. m.

Canada's Intermediate Hockey Champions

That's the title that the Warroad Lakers will be proudly wearing next season. Coach Dayton Grafstrom's Warroad club, by scores of 8 to 4, 6 to 4, and 8 to 7, swept their best-of-five series against the Kamloops, B. C. Chiefs. The Lakers closed out the championship series in the minimum of three games, and gained possession of the Edmonton Journal trophy emblematic of Canada's Intermediate hockey championship.

But from all reports the trophy proved to be costly, and it may have been cheaper for the Lakers to have bought the trophy at custom duty rates. According to Cal Marvin, the general manager of the Lakers, the opening game of the series (and all games were played on the Winnipeg arena ice) cost the Lakers, the home club, about $600.00. The Arena corporation takes a fifty per cent cut of the gate, the CAHA takes a share, the players need time-off from work, and there are the travelling expenses. It all counts up.

Last Sunday's game, which was attended by a couple of thousand fans, cost, as stated, about $600. But this was a modest amount compared to the "licking" that the Lakers took financially last Monday night. That was the night of the vicious storm that hit the area, and there were but a scant hundred fans in the Winnipeg Arena for the game. The loss, moneywise, in that game was about $1,700.

The home-town Warroad players had quite a time in getting into Winnipeg that night. The team left Warroad at 2:00 p. m. in the afternoon, but even this early departure didn't bring the boys into the Arena in time as they arrived at 8:30 p. m., half an hour after the scheduled starting time.

Said Cal, "We had an obligation to the CAHA, who refused to postpone the game, but we also had an obligation on the road, like helping numerous motorists in distress and making sure we kept our own players in one piece." Cal abandoned his own car at Ste. Anne, and two car-loads doubled up to complete the trip to Winnipeg. And, added Marvin, "We've made plenty of hazardous road trips around our part of the country, and it can get plenty rough, but this trip was the worst of them all."

But I'm sure that regardless of the final tabulations of the cost, and regardless of the size of the deficit, the Warroad Lakers and the Warroad fans are agreed that Canadian Intermediate hockey title is worth-while.

On to the W.I.B.C.

The Ekeren's Pharmacy team of the Women's Nite Hawk bowling league, and the season's high average team, will be participating in the W. I. B. C. national tournament now in progress in Minneapolis.

Ole Ekeren, who has sponsored the team for a number of years, will be the "host" for the team's trip this year. The Pharmacy team, during the past season's competition in the Nite Hawk league, gained runner-up honors to the league-champion Land O'Lakes squad.

Making the trip for next week's effort in the national competition (and the team will bowl on April 26 and 27) will be Bess Lang, Mary Washnesky, Eva Sinding, Helen Ulferts, and Jane Buen.

Following the team event, the players will enter the singles and doubles competition. Bowling in the national W. I. B. C. tournament won't be a new experience for Mary and Bess; but Eva, Helen and Jane will be making their debut in the tournament. Mary and Bess have been in a couple of previous tournaments, and they have always been in the prize money.

One of the Highlights

The Sioux Indoor track meet continues to grow and grow, and it is an attraction that gains entries from most of the Class A high schools in North Dakota, and from a large number of high schools in western and northwestern Minnesota.

One of the highlights of the meet on Saturday was the duel between Bemidji's John Warford and Breckenridge's talented Tom Stuart in the hurdle events. Warford proved the winner on Saturday, winning the low hurdles in :07.3, with Stuart gaining second place, and winning the high hurdles in :07.8, with Stuart again in the runner-up spot.

I hope that the two athletes will meet again in the Sioux Outdoor meet slated for next Saturday. That should be something to see, Warford and Stuart meeting in the 120-yard high hurdles, and in the 180-yard low hurdles.

And judging by the strength that they revealed on Saturday, it is apparent that the Bemidji Lumberjacks will be rated as favorites to win the Northwest conference and Region Eight track titles this spring.

Roadside rest and picnic areas are growing more numerous in many states, and the AAA warns motorists to be extra alert near such areas for cars entering or leaving the highway.

Crippled Children's Group Sets Projects for TRF Community

Fred W. Reed, field representative for the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., was in Thief River Falls Wednesday for an organizational visit. Purpose was to launch an educational program on architectural barriers and to begin planning for the 1964 season of the Thief River Falls day camp for physically handicapped children.

"Architectural barriers," Reed explained, include any feature of a building or facility which prevents its full and complete use by ALL citizens. The people affected by architectural barriers are not just obviously handicapped persons in wheelchairs or on crutches, but include the elderly, those with heart trouble, and others with less obvious ailments," he added.

Reed stated that Roy Langevin, city building inspector, will spearhead an educational program in the community on architectural barriers. "The Minnesota Society has produced educational materials and a film, "Sound the Trumpets," which deal with the problem of architechural barriers. They are available to any organization which requests them," he explained.

During his visit, Reed also discussed plans for the 1964 Thief River Falls day camp season with Orall Johnson, local service chairman for the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

The purpose of the camp which will be held from August 10 to 21, is to give handicapped youngsters the opportunity to enjoy group living in the outdoors and to grow spiritually, mentally, socially and physically from the experience, he explained. Mr. Johnson, Lincoln junior high school counselor, will serve as camp director.

"Thanks to the many helping hands in the community, last year's Day Camp was a fine success," Johnson stated.

Artificial Limbs Topic of Seminar

Sessions Scheduled in Minneapolis April 21-22

The current trends in research and development of artificial limbs and braces will be discussed at a regional prosthetic seminar sponsored by the Veterans Administration in Minneapolis, April 21-22.

About 200 persons from a 9-state area are expected to attend the seminar which will headquarter at the VA Hospital in Minneapolis. They will include doctors and specialists from the VA and private institutions, and representatives of companies which specialize in prosthetic equipment.

Prosthetics deals with replacement of limbs by artificial substitutes. At present some 312,000 veterans require these appliances for service-connected disabilities, and the VA has achieved an international reputation for its research and programs in this field.

The VA is the largest single purchaser of artificial limbs and braces. Approximately $7 million was spent for new appliances and repairs in fiscal year 1963. The need for such appliances continues to grow, especially as the population of disabled veterans grows older.

$75 Savings Bond Honoring Kennedy Available May 1st

Minnesota banks are stocking up on the new $75 Series E United States Savings Bond which goes on sale here May 1, according to State Savings Bond Chairman Rollin O. Bishop.

"The new $75 Bond bears a portrait of the late President Kennedy," the chairman said, "and fills a gap in the lower-denomination range of Savings Bonds."

"The issue date of May 1 coincides with the launching of Operation Security, a U. S. Savings Bonds campaign which runs until July 4.

"In anticipation of a heavy demand for the new bond, many banks throughout the state will accept orders before May 1 from those purchasers who may want an early date of issue to appear in the validating stamp," the chairman concluded.

Marshall County Garage Razed by Fire at Alvarado

A fire, which may have been caused by a power line which dropped on to a fuel tank during the high wind storm last Monday about 1:30 p.m. completely destroyed the Marshall county highway patrol garage and all contents at Alvarado.

Housed in the garage was a county motor road patrol, 500 gallons of diesel fuel and shop maintainance tools. The entire loss has been estimated at about $15,000. Insurance on the building and contents totals $8,500.

Alvarado's fire department was on the scene immediately but the entire building was engulfed in flames from the oil tank and nothing could be done to save either the structure or contents.

Beltrami County ADA Reports on Progress

People in Beltrami county are moving ahead to improve health in the area, stem the growing tide of unemployment among their young people and improve the condition of older people.

It's all part of the work of the Health-Education-Welfare Committee, one of seven committees of the Beltrami County Area Development association. As with any effective program in Area Development (RAD), the secret to success with the committee has been to put it in the hands of local leaders. Some 200 different persons have assisted in some way thus far with the committee's programs.

"Once the process is started, it can become a chain reaction," says Mrs. Jean Castle, Beltrami county home agent. "You start with local community leaders who call upon other reliable, energetic and sincere persons. These persons in turn inform others and you have, in a very real sense, a people's program."

Beltrami County's RAD program is carried out by nearly 500 local volunteers. Organizational meetings of the RAD groups were initiated by the county extension service; then interested local leaders took over.

First step in the activity of the HEW committee was to make a health survey. Women from all parts of the county cooperated in the study. Since there was no county nurse, the women investigated this situation, found funds were available for the position and soon a qualified public health nurse was hired.

Interested in raising the level of family living in the area, the HEW committee called a county-wide meeting dealing with the problems of aging. As a result, the Beltrami County Senior Citizens' Council was formed, which immediately swung into action.

A study of education and the drop-out problem was another venture of the HEW committee. After digging up facts about the number of youth who leave the area upon graduation, those who find local employment and about others who end up in unemployment lines, the committee saw a definite need for vocational training in the skilled and semi-skilled trades, a need not being met in the county. A vocational training study group was set up, headed by Paul Olstad, Beltrami County treasurer and composed of local business and professional people, civic leaders and rural farmers and homemakers.

To get some concrete facts from which to work, the group sponsored a survey carried out by E. M. Outwin, area vocational training coordinator. In the study all high school juniors and seniors within a 50-mile radius of Bemidji were asked to indicate plans and preferences for further education.

Although still in the development stage, the project of the vocational training study group could mean an improvement in the level of education for many young people in the county. It could also result in greater economic growth if a ready supply of skilled workers should attract an industry to the area.

Many special interest groups have an opportunity to function under the HEW committee. One such group is the sub-committee on alcoholism and narcotic education. The group has sponsored radio programs, open meetings, a special seminar and provides a speakers' service for local club meetings.

A veteran who is permanently and totally disabled may be entitled to additional benefits if he is blind or helpless enough to require regular aid and assistance, according to the Veterans Administration.

"The country life is to be preferred, for there we see the works of God; but in cities, little else but the works of men; and the one makes a better subject for our contemplation than the other....The country is both the philosopher's garden and library, in which he reads and contemplates the power, wisdom and goodness of God."

An Interesting Pact

What appears to be a practical approach to an agreement between labor and management has been adopted by REA Express and its 25,000 employees represented by the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks. The supplemental pay plan is based on productivity.

The agreement provides for employee cash shares in shipment productivity increases in each of two six-month periods beginning July 1. The productivity gains, readily determined from regularly maintained operations data, can stem from any combination of management's capital investment and methods improvements, business growth in terms of greater shipment volume and increased individual employee efforts.

Total cost of the wage increase package through June 30, 1965, is placed at $17 million. A joint announcement issued by the company and the union states, "The novel productivity share feature gives these employees....a further direct and significant stake in the private enterprise operations and economics of the express business and a direct financial interest in the growth of the company's business volume."

Pay increases on the basis of increased productivity would not work in all cases, but there are many places where they would. The agreement adopted by the union and REA Express is non-inflationary, and that in itself makes it worthy of mention.

A Word of Warning

High school seniors throughout the nation are giving increasing amounts of thought these spring days to their possibilities for further education. Many are considering trade schools in preference to four-year college courses. Suggestions on selecting a trade school have been made by a Rosemount high school counselor as follows:

1. Ask to see the trade school salesman's permit, certifying that he has State Board of Education permission to operate in Minnesota—which permit does not mean that the Board has approved, accredited, or recommends the school he represents.
2. Beware of so-called "civil service" correspondence schools.
3. View with suspicion schools claiming to train airline stewardesses. Airlines select and train their own personnel.
4. Refuse to be threatened by so-called enrollment deadlines.
5. Don't be gullible enough to believe that you can stay home, hold a job, and learn a trade by finishing a series of correspondence courses. If it were this easy others would be ahead of you and the salesman would not have to beg for your money.
6. Don't be misled by claims of accreditation. Many schools can achieve this status simply by paying a fee.
7. Decide for yourself if the school you choose will enable you to secure the type of employment you want, and if the cost is justifiable.

Predator Control

When people in northwestern Minnesota think of predator control, they generally think of the bounties on foxes which are paid by the state and counties on a matching basis. There is much room for question as to whether or not the payment of bounties significantly affects the population of foxes. We are inclined to believe that bounties are wasteful and ineffective.

A report was recently presented at the North American Wildlife and Natural Resources conference on the effects of predator control. Presenting the report was the Department of Interior's Advisory Board on Wildlife Management. This board includes five distinguished scientists and conservationists, headed by Dr. A. Starker Leopold of the department of zoology, University of California.

In part, the report recommended that predator control costs "...should be met on a matching basis with the states" and that "....state funds should be drawn from general appropriations in support of agriculture rather than from fish and game license money." The board further recommended that "...such extension programs be developed to replace, rather than augment, bounty systems which are completely futile and unnecessary components of predator control."

Enough people in this area believed in fox bounties to persuade the county board to adopt them a couple of years ago. Bounties do provide enough incentive for some trappers to go after fox, but they will naturally do their trapping where fox populations are highest. Catching surplus fox permits more room for the remaining ones to feed and miltiply.

Trappers do not work at the job all year. They trap as soon as pelts are marketable in the fall—so they can collect the bounty and sell the pelts while the spring crop of fox pups is young and foolish enough to be easily caught. During the spring, when adult fox are feeding their young and depradations are highest, the trappers are not interested. The spring pups will still be easily caught in the fall but as adult fox will bring a higher bounty payment.

If bounty payment effects control of foxes, then the amount paid in bounty should certainly decrease in total each year. This has not been the case. Total bounty payments have generally remained constant, and in many instances have increased. If bounty is paid to reduce fox numbers, why should the number of fox taken not be reduced each year?

We believe the bounty is an unnecessary drain on both the county and the conservation department. Money spent on bounty could be better spent on more worthwhile projects.

High Cost of College

Supporters of a Junior College for Thief River Falls, if they are successful in their efforts, will be doing parents in the area a tremendous favor. Being able to send children to a college within commuting distance is a major advantage in cutting costs—and an opportunity that this area of the state has been entirely without in the past.

The cost of a college education, now running from $1,000 to $3,000 per year is continuing upward at the rate of about five to seven per cent annually, according to "Changing Times" magazine. Estimates are that the cost of four years of college for a youngster now in the sixth grade will at least range between $14,000 and $18,000.

For a student headed for college this year, annual costs are likely to be $2,000 or more. At any well-known private college the figure might run over $3,000 a year. At a state university it could be as little as $1,000. By 1970 the figures could be around $3,600 at public institutions and $4,600 at private colleges.

Most families, according to the magazine, tend to make four mistakes in dealing with the question of college costs. They underestimate expenses, are unrealistic about their ability to pay, give too little attention to low-cost education opportunities and get started too late.

Some relief from the staggering costs of preparing for the future through attending college would be offered by a state junior college here. It is a need that should be, and is, of concern to all residents of the area.

Science Aids Conservation

What is considered to be a giant step forward in solving one of America's greatest conservation problems, that of water pollution, has been made recently. It is a "soft" or bio-degradable detergent used for washing dishes.

According to an article in "Minnesota Out-of-Doors", common synthetic detergents do not completely break down or dissolve when they are flushed into our natural water sources or sewage treatment plants. They go through treatment plants and septic tanks not only unchanged, but form a protecting, non-dissolving ring or covering around other pollutants, thus protecting them from the breakdown action of bacteria and other agencies.

Because they do not break down in septic tank systems, common detergents stay "alive" in the ground, making their way eventually into the underground water reservoirs, polluting them and causing the water drawn from home wells to be "milky" or sudsy.

Common detergents create suspected danger to human health, proven harm to fish and wildlife, damage to crops and soil fertility, clogging and deactivating of septic systems, clouding and sudsing in drinking water, deleterious effects on industrial processing and deactivation of natural and municipal sewage and degrading.

Serious shortage of ground and surface water supplies has already been noted in many parts of the nation. A threat to these water supplies is a threat to life itself. The new "soft" detergent, manufactured in Anoka, should meet with approval of housewives. Watch for promotional material on the product in your grocery store.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"It is one of the paradoxes of our time that while we complain of teacher shortages we are doing our best to make the career of teaching unattractive. The fact that the education department in practically every state has made promotion dependent not on the display of teaching skills and a thorough grasp of subject matter but upon the piling up of credits derived from taking course after course in teachers' colleges, is an insult to the teaching profession and a crime against our children." —Paxton Blair

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

by Governor

KARL ROLVAAG

Do you know a young hero or an outstanding young citizen? If you do know of some boy or girl who has performed an act of unusual or extraordinary courage or who has achieved an outstanding record of endeavor, service or recognition of character, I hope that you will tell me about it.

MEDAL AWARDS

Under an Act of Congress of August 3, 1950, the Attorney General of the United States, (this year Mr. Robert Kennedy) is directed to participate annually in the awarding of Young American Medals for Bravery and Service. I received a letter from Mr. Kennedy the other day asking me to submit nominations of outstanding young citizens who have demonstrated exceptional character and heroism during the past year.

Regulations

Not more than two medals may be awarded annually for bravery, or exceptional service or character. Regulations require that the act of bravery or the record of achievement must have been performed during 1963 before the boy or girl reached his or her 19th birthday. Those nominted for service medals must be citizens. Alien children, as well as citizen children, are eligible for the Young American Medal for Bravery if they reside habitually in the United States and its territories, possessions and the Panama Canal Zone. Nominations must be received by the Attorney General in Washington not later than September 15, 1964.

Documentation

A full and complete statement and documentation covering the act of bravery or record of service must accompany each nomination. This must include the time and place; supporting statements by witnesses or persons having personal knowledge of the facts surrounding the candidate's unusual act or record; authenticated evidence of the date and place of the candidate's birth, and a biographical sketch. A photograph of the candidate, suitable for newspaper reproduction, should also be sent.

Service Medal

In his letter, Attorney General Kennedy pointed out that since 1950 only nine Young American Medals have been awarded for some outstanding and unusual service. One of those medals went to an 18 year old boy who was the only volunteer to answer a public appeal for bone donors for an 11 year old girl who had a crippling disease. He underwent a four hour operation and six months of being incapacitated, and risked permanent injury to his leg. Another service medal winner received the award for an unusually outstanding record of school and civic activities.

Reward Important

Recognition and reward for heroism and service is very important in our time. There is so much attention being focussed on the bad things that a relatively small percentage of our youth become involved with, that I feel it is extremely important to show to the world the real caliber and courage of American youth. I am confident that there are many young people in Minnesota who have performed outstanding deeds and service who deserve recognition. If you know of such a youngster, won't you please write to me at the State Capitol? I will be very happy to consider your recommendation among those to be forwarded to the Attorney General in Washington.

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

By Bill Dahlquist

Those individuals who are a part of the military machine, the industries that depend largely upon government spending for their prosperity, and those cities in which defense spending has become an important factor in the area's welfare, are inclined to look with disfavor upon any curtailment in the government's spending for defense purposes. Their opposition is understandable. It is reasonable however to suspect that that opposition is based more on selfish motives than on an understanding of what is best for the nation as a whole.

President Eisenhower, a great military leader, warned us about the dangers we face if our national policy should be controlled by an industrial-military coalition. There is some reason to believe that the danger Eisenhower warned us about has developed to the point where it has already become an actual threat to our status as a nation of free and peace loving people. The war mongers, backed by the support of individuals and communities that have a selfish interest in the perpetuation of our military machine, that now is costing us more than $50 billion a year, are supportinf a program that is contributing substantially to the danger of a runaway inflation that could be almost as disastrous as an all-out war.

Not all of our economists are crazy and on the public payroll, and a few of those who are on the public payroll are pretty sound in their thinking. It is encouraging to know that a group of economists are giving serious consideration to the problems involved in converting our economy back from a war machine to a nation interested primarily in the improvement of the world's living standards, that would greatly reduce, if not entirely eliminate, the danger of war.

Will Lissner, writing in the New York Times, discussed the problem in a recent report that deserves serious consideration. He stated:

"Helping the defense industry turn its swords into plowshares is a task of major proportions, according to a group of economists who have been studying the problem for government and business.

"But the conversion of defense industry resources to peacetime pursuits, as fulfillment of national security needs and the international political situation permits, offers the country a "tremendous opportunity" to bolster long-run economic growth and progress, investigators report.

"The economists say that conversion is a large problem for several reasons.

"For one thing, a new shift has been developing in defense business.

"During the mid-fifties, defense procurement shifted from the automotive and ordnance largely in the upper Middle West to aerospace and electronic systems on which East and West Coast companies have concentrated.

"But in the last six years the major aerospace companies, taken as a whole, have received a declining share of prime defense contracts. A rising share is being allocated to research and development and production facilities along the Gulf Coast.

"The bulk of the work will continue to be performed at existing industrial complexes; notably in California and the New England-Middle Atlantic region, Dr. Murray L. Weidenbaum, senior economist at the Stanford Research Institute believes, but these facilities can not resonably expect to increase their share of defense contracts.

"This, he thinks, may be why a prospective downturn or even a plateau, in over-all defense spending causes such consternation among these companies.

"The problem of adjusting to a gradual or substantial decline in military demand is concentrated in a few industries—ordnance, aircraft, ship construction and electronics—the bulk of whose sales are to the Government.

"This problem is compounded because these four industries cluster in a few regions, notably the West Coast, where they represent a major part of the industrial base of these areas."

It is encourageing to know that this problem is being given serious consideration by competent economists, thinking in terms of the best interests of mankind an not in the best interests of a military industrial bureaucracy. Lissner's report covered many proposals considered by the economists and he summarized it with the following observations.

"Joint Industry-Government financing of certain types of commercial research and development might be arranged, along the lines of the Interior Department's mineral exploration program. Under this, the Government pays up to half the cost of exploration and is reimbursed out of the proceeds.

"Other possibilities are long-term loans and loan guarantees for certain types of commercial research and development, comparable to existing housing, small business and similar programs; leasing of Government-owned plant and equipment on favorable terms for work in behalf of industries with little engineering activity, and technical assistance on civilian applications of military research.

Michael Michaelis of the engineering concern Arthur D. Little, Inc., one of the economists who have been studying the problem, says that the defense industry's development of the capability of creating highly advanced systems 'has endowed us, as a nation, with new military powers, and with a sense of power.'

"To apply this capability to our civilian economy," he believes, "requires a deliberate and conscious national and corporate effort."

ENTHUSIASM marked the debut of milk-in-pop-bottles, a new venture in milk distribution through coin-operated vending machines which the dairy industry hopes will provide a broad new avenue for sales of its No. 1 product. Shown here is part of a crowd of more than 700 Red River Valley residents who participated in a Feb. 17 kickoff program in the Moorhead, Minn., Armory. They're shown drinking a mass toast with "pop-bottled" milk to the success of the new program. Cass-Clay Creameries of Fargo-Moorhead is first bottler of "pop-bottled" milk. A feature of the kickoff program (inset) was a one-cow, "no-pails" milking contest in which Minnesota's Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Audrey Meyer of Clarks Grove, proved that the gentle touch can be more effective than "political pull." She bested U.S. Sen. Quentin Burdick of North Dakota by coaxing about 5 ounces of milk into one of the new bottles while the lawmaker could get only three ounces. Princess Kay is shown trying to hit Burdick's bottle from a distance in an effort to even up the results.

Pruning Ornamentals

A good landscape planting is no better than its maintenance. So it is that when spring rolls around, we should prune our trees and shrubs to improve their shape, remove dead wood and rejuvenate them to make them as beautiful as possible.

Shrubs and trees to prune now are all those which do not blossom in early spring. Shrubs such as the rugosa roses, spireas and dogwoods may all be pruned now.

Almost all shade trees except maple and birch may be pruned. Heavy bleding of these species often causes concern for the home owner, although rarely does the bleeding cause any problem. To avoid the bleeding problem, prune maple and birch after they have leafed out in spring.

Most cuts that are made do not have to be treated with a wound compound; however, if the wound is over ½ inch you may want to cover it with orange shellac or other commercial wound compounds. These are now available in convenient aerosol containers.

All cuts should be made at a side branch or to a main trunk. Shearing as a method of controlling growth is not a recommended practice, since it detracts from the natural form of the shrub. Shearing is reserved for formal hedges.

When pruning, cut back some of the old wood to the ground each year to encourage new wood to develop.

TONSILLECTOMY NOT A MUST
Q. I have finally gotten enough courage to have Johnny's tonsils removed. Should I take him to a specialist or a general surgeon?
A. Did your family physician or pediatrician recommend tonsillectomy for Johnny, or is this your idea? There was a time, you know, when tonsils were considered the root of all evil. Some hospitals even had special "tonsil days" set aside for the wholesale removal of children's tonsils. Fortunately, these days are over. It's true that some tonsils need to come out but tonsillectomy isn't a must for all youngsters. The point is that the operation must be individualized just as much as an appendectomy. No one would advise the routine removal of the appendix. Let your doctor decide when to operate for appendicitis . . . and when (if ever) to remove Johnny's tonsils.
Answers do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all doctors. The diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.

DEFECT VI PAGI

MAIN STREET, U.S.A.

BY BERT MILLS

Washington Editor of "National Publisher"

Government competition with private business is an old story but one that is bringing a rising tide of protests from many industries. The problem began at least as far back as 1799 when the U.S. Navy established its first shipyard.

Now there are 11 of them and Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara has stirred up a hornet's nest by proposing that some of them be closed or curtailed. The Navy had 11 shipyards at the height of World War II when it operated 10,000 vessels. It still has 11 shipyards to serve only 866 ships.

Local communities all over the nation have a stake in the issue. For one thing, a government-owned plant pays no local taxes and diverts business away from private concerns which pay their share of the costs of providing municipal services.

Uncle Sam is in so many businesses that nobody could possibly compile a complete list. Some are obvious, like the government printing office, which brags about being the biggest printer in the world. But few people know that in addition to the huge Washington operation, there are more than 300 government-owned printing plants through-out the nation—every one taking work away from commercial operators.

For a more obscure example, consider flowers, a $1 billion-plus industry. Practically every major military post has its own green house and a retail flower ship, selling bouquets in competition with local florists.

Flower shops in many communities have declared war on this subsidized military competition. At Fort Sill Oklahoma, a victory has been scored recently. The post store no longer sells flowers and the business goes to private firms in Lawton.

Congress Will Investigate

Later this month the Joint Economic Committee plans to provide a forum for free enterprise spokesmen who complain of government competition. A newly-formed group of Washington-based representatives of a variety of business lines, calling itself the Committee to Reduce Government Competition, will tell its story at these hearings.

A score of different industries are represented on this committee. In addition to shipbuilders, printers and florists, the group includes spokesmen for consulting engineers disability insurance underwriters, employment agencies, photogrammetry concerns which make and analyze aerial photos and maps, food chains, publishers, land owners, and others.

Offending agencies are by no means confined to segments of the defense department. The department of agriculture, for example, last year launched a teletype market news service in direct competition with a private wire service. A lawsuit has been filed in that instance.

In cooperation with state agencies, the department of labor operates a massive U.S. employment service. This is a subsidized free job referral operation which competes with private agencies which must make a profit to stay in business.

Typically, there is good reason for the federal government to help find jobs for the unemployed. But operators of private agencies claim that U. S. E. S. devotes much of its effort to finding executive posts for those already employed, at salaries as high as $20,000 a year. Some members of Congress have questioned whether U. S. E. S. has not gone too far in promoting job switches rather than concentrating on placing the unemployed.

The Library Corner

"Library Corner"

Some Americans like their apple pie sweet and syrupy. Others like it with a bit of spice included Some like their pie as "mom" made it. Others like it the way it tasted at the restaurant around the corner. Some few don't like apple pie at all.

So it is with the reading habits of Americans. Some like it plain and simple. Some like it a little sugary. Others like it fancied up a bit. That is where the librarian has to use her very good judgment. She must pick and choose carefully from the books offered for sale.

Some of her patrons like to read about war, others about peace. Some like the novels, usually best-sellers. Others like to read about real people. Some borrowers like to feast on travel books while others prefer the dim, dark and fictional past. Some care nothing about yesterday...only about tomorrow. (Science fiction is their main diet!)

Always there are new books. Always there are old favorites. The librarian must spend her book-budget wisely in order that her patrons fare well.

Here's a list of new books, ready for delivery into the hands of those who will savor them most. See something you like?

Many have been awaiting "A Day In the Life of President Kennedy" by Jim Bishop. The author, already well known for his "The Day Lincoln Was Shot" has the ability to make the reader feel as though he is seeing and hearing...but not eavesdropping...He's sort of invisibly present This is a must for those who wish they had known our late President better...the man, husband and father as well as the Chief Executive.

"The People's Choice", the story of Minnesota's Eugene Rerat, by Paul A. Sevareld, is ready for lending. Rerat presented the people of Thief River Falls with autographed copies. (One bears the signature of the author, as well.) Rerat has made legal history in this state and all should be familiar with his work. (You'd enjoy, and learn from, the story of his life even if he didn't practice in Minnesota.)

If you long to back up a bit and relive the good old days try the new Charles Beaumont volume "Remember? Remember?". It'll take you back to those different (and better?) days before the "before" of World War II. You'll relive the late 20's, the 30's, the early 40's...and guided by the able author, you'll enjoy every minute of your nostalgic journey. Try it.

Far off lands are always exciting...and an armchair visit to "The Holy Land" is an experience you'll never forget. The book contains 30 color plates that bring pleasure to the eye and peace to the heart.

A novel that will delight you and make you hope the author will hurry with the sequel is "Sing for Your Supper". It is a story about a child ...but a very different sort of child than the run-of-the-mill variety. You'll enjoy the hero.

Jim Hunter has written "A Place of Stone". The author is one of England's newest and best and this new fiction book has been eagerly awaited by those who read his first, "The Sun in the Morning".

There are those who enjoy reading novels with characters other than humans. Robert Murphy, a writer with an amazing gift, (he manages to look upon the world with other than human eyes) has written "The Peregrine Falcon" Try the unusual, for a change

Before or after you read the book mentioned above, perhaps you'd like to check out "As The Falcon Her Bells'" by Phillip Glasier. There are 48 photographs in the book as well as superb line drawings. The book tells the story of one of the last professional falconers in the British Isles. There's humor and adventure and natural history and just about anything else you can think of in this book.

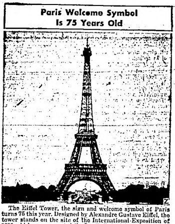
Paris Welcome Symbol Is 75 Years Old



The Eiffel Tower, the sign and welcome symbol of Paris turns 75 this year. Designed by Alexandre Gustave Eiffel, the tower stands on the site of the International Exposition of 1889 which commemorated the centenary of the French Revolution.

Constructed by 300 Frenchmen, the tower is 984-feet tall and weighs 1,543,200 pounds. It was completed on March 31, 1889 and its cost was 5,600,000 gold francs. For 50 years it was the world's tallest structure.

Throughout its 75 years, the Eiffel Tower has kept friendly contact with the world. Since its opening in 1889, according to Air France, the Eiffel Tower has seen a parade of events which have included two World Wars; and great advances in science.

Today's visitors to Paris and the Eiffel Tower can enjoy the best of two worlds. Air France, the world's largest airline, underscores the fact that the City of Light is only hours from its North American gateways. Also that countless hotels within sight of the Eiffel Tower offer true French atmosphere and comfort for about five dollars a day. Neighborhood restaurants serve meals for not more than three dollars.

In its 75th year, the Eiffel Tower remains a beacon of friendship and the Parisians, themselves, the city's greatest asset.

Good Job Outook for College Grads in 1964

For job-hunting college graduates of 1964, the "glamour" industries of aerospace and electronics have lost some of their glitter.

For the first time in recent years, hiring in these spectacular fields has slumped, following cutbacks and cancellations of various large Government contracts, along with delays in awarding others. But a bright silver lining is showing up in early spring returns from the 29th annual college employment survey now underway by Northwestern National Life Insurance Company.

Stepping solidly into the employment gap are the less romantic but old-established enterprises which supply mundane peacetime goods and services and are expanding these activities without benefit of Government contracts.

Net result: College placement officials predict another excellent employment year for their June, 1964 crop of graduates.

The job market for engineers has been more affected than the recruiting of any other collegiate group, by the aerospace and electronics cutbacks, especially on the Pacific coast. Yet some schools report their June engineering classes already "sold out;" others foresee that practically all their technical grads will be placed by commencement time who want to be, though there will not be such a large choice of openings for them as last year. Heavy demand continues for mathematicians, chemists and physicists.

Accounting majors are again the fair-haired boys of the business administration schools, with demand continuing to exceed the supply. Prospects are rated good to excellent for other business majors, in banking, insurance, retailing, and general sales fields. These same market areas are also active recruiters of liberal arts men, the insurance company's survey finds.

Competition by recruiters for the top seniors in each class is more intense this year than ever, in engineering as well as in business administration and liberal arts.

Salvaging many of the choice jobs in industry and business for the fair-to-middling students, however, are the graduate schools, which siphon off a bigger segment of top bachelor-degree men each year from the current employment maket.

In some of the principal eastern schools, as high as 75 to 85 per cent of liberal arts bachelors will enter graduate schools next fall, along with half of the business majors and a third or more of the B. S. engineers. The percentages run lower in the south, the middle west and the far west, but climb a little each year.

The booming market continues for teachers for public elementary schools and high schools from coast to coast.

One employment area that practically all placement officials agree is getting poorer each year is the summer vacation job market. "Tough," "tight," "dismal," are some of the adjectives used to describe it. The reason: Tens of thousands more young people seek vacation work each summer, but fewer unskilled jobs become available each year.

Starting salaries are creeping up only slightly this year, judging from early returns in the Northwestern National Life survey. Placement officials estimate that the averages will be up by 1½ to 3 per cent, compared with annual step-ups of about double this scale in recent years.

Salaries are expected to average out at around $610 to $625 per month for B. S. engineers without experience. Majors in math, chemistry and physics will average onoy $10 to $20 below the engineers, or around $600. Accountants should average between $525 and $550; other business majors, $500 to $520. Humanities and social science, around $500.

Individual salaries range considerably above and below these averages, it is emphasized. There is also considerable variation by geographic areas, and fields of industry.

With only seven per cent of the total federal civilian employment, the Veterans Administration last year hired 29 per cent of the government's handicapped workers. They prove to be efficient, reliable employees.

Veterans made more than half a million visits to Veterans Administration outpatient clinics last month.

It is still possible to feed that man of yours on a dollar a day, but it takes a bit of planning. And it means serving meals with larger amounts of low-cost food which are high in vitamin and mineral content (such as potatoes, dry beans and peas, flour and cereals) and smaller amounts of meat, poultry, fish and fruits and vegetables other than potatoes.

If you want to feed him better on what USDA's agricultural research service calls a "moderate-cost" plan, you will hve to spend $9.90 a week.

And for really good eating, with a flourish of extras such as steaks, you can figure upon about $11.20 a week for the man of your life.

With the cattle industry producing more animals than ever before, the U. S. department of agriculture's plentiful foods list for May puts beef in its top spot. Milk and dairy products, turkey, canned ripe olives, salad oils and dressings are the other foods expected to be in abundant supply in May.

Not only will there be lots of beef available, but lots of choice quality beef will be on the market and priced cheaply. Although prices will fluctuate at the retail level, week-end specials may offer homemakers an excellent chance at good beef buys. Supplies are at record levels.

Farm marketing of turkeys this May also will be large - probably about a fourth greater than a year ago. Cold storage holdings are up 12 million pounds. This means shoppers should keep an eye on poultry counters during May. Turkey is just the thing for a Memorial Day cook-out. You can use a small bird in your rotisserie, or a large bird cut in half for on-the-grill roasting.

Supplies of milk and dairy products will be increasing as they approach their annual peak in June. Warm weather days are ideal times to serve cottage cheese salads, yogurt, sour cream dressings and ice cream dessert. Ice cold milk makes good drinking anytime of the year.

This season's record pack of ripe olives has produced 3.7 million cases which is almost 18 per cent more than a year ago. Add ripe olives to your salads and serve olives every chance you get as appetizers and garnishes.

Also right in line with May as salad time, is the large supply of salad oils and dressings available. As of January, stocks of edible vegetable oils were at record levels, a third greater than a year earlier.

So you women can see that some foods are on the plentiful list. Why not take advantage of them?

Early traffic control signals, manned by a patrolman mounted in a tower high above traffic, were known as "crow's nests," according to the Minnesota State Automobile Association. The patrolman used semaphores labeled stop" and 'go'.

2. It is hereby found, determined and declared that by the refunding of the outstanding bonds described in paragraph 1 hereof, maturing in the years 1966 through 1982, by issuance of refunding obligations in the total principal amount of $550,000, upon the terms and conditions hereinafter provided, the interest cost to the District will be reduced, and the issuance of refunding obligations for such purpose is therefore authorized by Minnesota Statutes, Section 475.54, as amended by Laws of Minnesota 1963, Chapter 825. The proceeds of the Refunding Bonds, including any premium and accrued interest from the date of said bonds to the date of delivery thereof to the purchaser plus the sum of $16,827.64 now on hand and available for this purpose in the funds heretofore established for payment of the bonds described in paragraph 1 hereof, or on hand and available for this purpose in other funds of the School District, or so much of this sum as may be required, plus the income to be realized from the investment of the foregoing amount as provided below, are irrevocably appropriated for the payment and redemption of the outstanding bonds described in paragraph 1 hereof at their respective maturities or at the earlier dates hereinafter specified for the redemption thereof, and for the payment of interest to become due on such bonds on or before the respective dates on which they are to be paid and redeemed, plus any premium for the redemption thereof. The District Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed, simultaneously with the delivery of the bonds herein authorized, to deposit the proceeds thereof, including any premium and accrued interest, and so much of said additional sum as may be required in escrow with the Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis, in Minneapolis, Minnesota, a banking institution whose deposits are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and whose combined capital and surplus is not less than $1,000,000, and shall invest the funds so deposited in securities authorized for such purpose by Section 475.54, subdivision 5, as amended, maturing or callable at the option of the District on such dates and bearing interest at such rates as shall be required to provide funds sufficient with cash retained in the escrow account, to pay when due the interest to accrue on the bonds described in paragraph 1 hereof to their respective maturity dates or the dates hereinafter designated for their earlier redemption and prepayment, and to pay the principal amount of each of said bonds at maturity or at the dates hereinafter designated for the redemption and prepayment thereof, plus the premiums required for the redemption and prepayment thereof. A list of such securities purchased from the escrow account shall be attached to the minutes of this meeting, and the escrow fund and all investments thereof are hereby irrevocably appropriated and shall be held in safekeeping by the escrow agent for this purpose.

3. In evidence of the respective obligations of the District and the escrow agent with reference to the funds and securities of the escrow account, the Chairman and Clerk are hereby authorized and directed, simultaneously with the delivery of the Refunding Bonds herein authorized, and the deposit and investment thereof as hereinabove provided, to make and execute on the part of the District an escrow agreement with the banking institution designated above, and a form of such agreement shall be attached to the minutes of this meeting. Nothing herein shall impair or otherwise affect the obligation of the District to maintain the funds heretofore established for the payment and security of the bonds refunded by the bonds herein authorized, and to perform and enforce all of the covenants contained in the resolutions authorizing such bonds described in said paragraph 1 hereof, but the principal and interest on the bonds refunded shall be payable primarily from said escrow account in the manner provided in the escrow agreement.

4. There are hereby called for redemption and prepayment on January 1, 1967, those bonds of the Series B issue being refunded which have stated maturity dates in the years 1975 through 1982, and there are hereby called for redemption and prepayment on January 1, 1968, those bonds of the Series C issue being refunded which have stated maturity dates in the years 1973 through 1982. Notice of the redemption of said bonds shall be mailed in accordance with the terms of the resolutions authorizing the issuance of said bonds.

5. The bonds shall be dated as of April 1, 1964, and shall be 550 in number and numbered from 1 through 550, each in the denomination of $1,000. Interest on the bonds shall be payable on January 1, 1965, and semiannually thereafter on July 1 and January 1 of each year. Both principal of and interest on the bonds shall be payable at the American National Bank of Saint Paul, in St. Paul, Minnesota, and the District agrees to pay the reasonable and customary charges of said paying agent for the receipt and disbursement of such principal and interest moneys. For the prompt and full payment of such principal and interest as the same respectively become due, the full faith, credit and taxing powers of the district have been and are hereby irrevocably pledged.

This bond is one of an issue in the total principal amount of $550,000, all of like date and tenor except as to serial number, interest rate, maturity date and redemption privilege, issued for the purpose of refunding a like principal amount of outstanding bonds of the District designated as School Building Bonds, Series B and School Building Bonds, Series C, dated as of January 1 and July 1, 1957, respectively, pursuant to and in full conformity with the provisions of the Constitution and laws of the State of Minnesota thereunto enabling, including Chapter 475 Minnesota Statutes, as amended.

Bonds of this issue maturing in the years 1966 through 1977 are payable on their respective stated maturity dates without option of prepayment, but bonds having stated maturity dates in the years 1978 through 1982 are each subject to redemption and prepayment at the option of the District and in inverse order to serial numbers on January 1, 1977, and any interest payment date thereafter, at par and accrued interest. 7. The Refunding Bonds shall be printed under the direction of the Clerk and shall be executed on behalf of the District by the signature of the Chairman, attested by the signature of the Clerk. The interest coupons appurtenant to the bonds shall be executed and authenticated by the printed, engraved or lithographed facsimile signatures of said officers. On the reverse side of each bond shall be printed a copy of the approving legal opinion rendered by bond counsel, authenticated by the certificate and facsimile signatures of the Chairman and Clerk. When the bonds have been executed and authenticated, the Treasurer shall cause them to be delivered to the purchaser thereof upon payment of the purchase price heretofore agreed upon. The purchaser shall not be obligated to see to the application of the bond proceeds, but the Chairman and Clerk shall execute the escrow agreement and the Treasurer shall invest the bond proceeds and other funds and deposit such funds and securities with the escrow agent, simultaneously with the delivery of the Refunding Bonds as provided above.

8. For payment of the 1957 bonds described in paragraph 1 hereof, there were created separate sinking funds which the District shall continue to maintain as long as any of the 1957 bonds remain outstanding and unpaid. It is recognized that of the 1957 issues of bonds there will remain outstanding and not refunded by bonds of the issuance herein authorized, bonds in the principal amount of $25,000 which will mature on January 1, 1965. To the extent that the proceeds of the tax heretofore levied for the year 1963, collectable in 1964, for payment of said 1957 bonds, shall exceed the sum of the unrefunded principal of said 1957 bonds ($25,000) with interest and plus an additional 5 per cent, such excess shall be transferred when collected to the fund hereinafter created for payment of the refunding bonds herein authorized.

9. Those bonds of the 1957 issues which are being refunded by the refunding bonds herein authorized shall be payable primarily from the escrow account hereinabove described and the cash and securities held therein from time to time are irrevocably appropriated to and shall be deemed an asset of the sinking fund established for payment of said bonds. The Treasurer is authorized and directed annually to examine and determine the sufficiency of the sinking funds for payment of said refunding bonds including the sufficiency of the escrow account, and to certify to the County Auditors of Pennington and Marshall Counties on or before October 10 of each year any excess on hand in said sinking funds and to request the County Auditors to reduce or cancel the tax previously levied in such year, collectible in the following year, for payment of said refunded bonds to the extent of the excess on hand in the sinking funds.

10. The Refunding Bonds herein authorized to be issued shall be payable from a sinking fund to be maintained by the Treasurer separate and apart from all other funds of the District so long as any bonds issued hereunder, or any other bonds hereafter issued and payable from said sinking fund, may be outstanding and unpaid. Said sinking fund shall be used for no purpose other than payment of principal of and interest on such other general obligation bonds of the District as this Board shall hereafter by resolution designate as being payable from said fund. Provided, however, that if any payment of principal or interest on said bonds shall become due when there is not sufficient money in said fund to make such payment, the Treasurer shall pay the same from the general fund of the District, and said general fund shall be reimbursed for such advances out of the proceeds of the taxes levied for the payment of such bonds. Into said sinking fund shall be paid the proceeds of all taxes levied pursuant to this resolution, the proceeds of all taxes levied pursuant to resolutions authorizing the issuance of other bonds payable from said fund, and all other moneys received for or appropriated to the payment of said bonds and interest thereon.

11. For the prompt and full payment of the principal of and interest on the Refunding Bonds herein authorized to be issued as the same respectively become due, the full faith, credit and taxing powers of the District shall be and are hereby irrevocably pledged. To provide moneys for the payment thereof, together with the appropriation of taxes heretofore levied in the year 1963 for collection in 1964 as described in paragraph 8 hereof which it is estimated will be not less than $18,066 by January 1, 1965, there is hereby levied upon all of the taxable property in the District a direct, annual, ad valorem tax which shall be spread upon the tax rolls for the years and in the amounts as follows, and collected with and as a part of other general taxes of the District in the respective ensuing years:

Year	Am't.	Year	Am't.	Year	Am't.
1964	52,100	1971	48,500	1976	42,500
1965	49,400	1972	47,400	1977	41,300
1966	48,400	1973	46,300	1978	40,000
1967	47,400	1974	45,000	1979	38,000
1968	46,400	1975	43,000	1980	21,700
1969	45,400
1970	49,700

Said tax shall be irrepealable as long as any of said bonds are outstanding and unpaid; provided, that the District Treasurer reserves the right and power to reduce the levies in the manner and to the extent permitted by Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 475.61 as amended.

12. The School District Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to file with the County Auditors of Pennington and Marshall Counties a certified copy of this resolution and to obtain from said County Auditors a certificate setting forth the registration of said bonds in their bond registers in accordance with the provisions of Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 475.63, and stating that the tax required by law for the payment of said bonds has been levied.

13. The officers of the District and said county auditors are hereby authorized and directed to prepare and furnish to the purchaser of said bonds and to the attorneys approving the legality of the issuance thereof certified copies of all proceeds and records relating to said bonds and to the financial affairs of the District, and such other affidavits, certificates and information as may be required to show the facts relating to the legality and marketability of said bonds as the same appear from the books and records under their custody and control or as otherwise known to them, and all such certified copies, certificates and affidavits including any heretofore furnished, shall be deemed representations of the District as to the facts recited therein.

OTTER TAIL
KILOWATTS
WHAT THEY ARE AND HOW THEY SAVE YOU MONEY!

A watt is a unit of electrical energy. And a kilowatt is just an easy way of saying 1,000 watts.

Otter Tail measures your use of electricity in kilowatt-hours. That's the amount of energy ten 100-watt light bulbs use in one hour.

Ten years ago, if you're an average Otter Tail residential customer, you used about 2,600 kilowatt-hours of power from Otter Tail in a twelve-month period. This year the figure will be more than 4,500 KWH—because you've found so many new ways to enjoy living electrically.*

How do kilowatts save you money? Today, you're using 69% more kilowatt-hours but your bill is only 60% higher.* In other words you're using a good deal more electricity (larger electric bill) but paying a lower unit-rate (better buy!) than ever before.

While food, clothing and other commodities continue to go up, electricity from Otter Tail goes down. And it's a bigger bargain with each passing day!

Three Governor's Award plaques will be presented to winners in the district motor vehicle safety contest for accident-free performances on the part of all of their employees while using highway motor vehicle equipment during 1963.

Commissioner of Highways James C. Marshall will present the plaques to District 2 Engineer C. M. Larson at Bemidji; District 3 Engineer K. V. Pearson at Brainerd, and to District 4 Engineer Frank J. Pawlak, at Detroit Lakes.

Fisherman Told of Walleye Spots

Season Is Scheduled to Open Saturday, May 16

Minnesota fishermen trying to decide where to open the season on Saturday, May 16, were given some advice today from the state game and fish division on where to look for walleyes.

According to division fisheries specialists, the best bet is a sandy or rocky lake in the northern half of the state. The lake should be at least 1,000 acres in size but, ideally, not much more than 40 feet deep.

This is the best natural habitat of walleyes, the most sought after of all Minnesota game fish. Walleyes are also found in shallow lakes in the southern half of the state, however here populations usually must be maintained by periodic stocking.

Walleyes have a definite preference for larger lakes that are not excessively deep. The reason is that the big lakes are more open to the action of wind and waves which keeps the water aerated from top to bottom throughout the summer, and generally provide gravel and rocky shorelines for spawning.

Walleyes need a high amount of dissolved oxygen in the water and in the ideal type of lake they are able to feed from surface to bottom without encountering a lack of oxygen. Rocky, windswept shorelines provide ideal spawning areas.

The large lakes in which walleyes are most abundant make up about half of the state's fishing waters.

Crises in Family Life Is Theme of Parley in St. Paul

Governor's Conference on Children and Youth Scheduled May 11 and 12

"Crises in Family Life" will be the theme for the Governor's Ninth Biennial Conference on Children and Youth, May 11 and 12 at Hotel St. Paul.

The Conference is open to the public, youth and adults.

Lions Hear Talk by R. Kloubec of SCD

Tells of Progress Made in Soil Conservation Here

Robert Kloubec of the staff of the Pennington county soil conservation district, discussed the work of his agency and showed slides at the Lions club luncheon meeting last Wednesday noon in the Elks club rooms.

Introduced by Roger Tunberg, program chairman, Kloubec said that the Soil Conservation service helps farmers solve their soil and water problems by assisting with drainage ditches, planting windbreaks and installing stock water ponds. He said that to date the SCS has prepared 225 conservation plans, and has helped in installing 1,225 miles of ditches and many windbreaks.

Captain Harold Koughn of the Salvation Army made a belated presentation of the trophy won by the Lions club in the inter-club Christmas bell-ringing contest held in December, 1962, and he expressed the hope that the club would participate in a similar contest again this year.

Two non-conforming requests for building permits, both for commercial enterprises in the residential area, were slated for hearing at 7:30 p. m. on Wednesday, April 29. These applications were by Frank's Cities Service at 505 Riverside av. S. for a new building for tire repair and lubrication service at an estimated cost of $3,500, and Miss Margaret Brown of 101 Tindolph av. S. for a uniform shop in her home.

Junior Garden Club Promoted; Meeting Friday

Young people interested in undertaking projects in flower growing for community beautification are urged to attend a meeting scheduled Friday at 9 p. m. in the council rooms of the Thief River Falls city auditorium. Boys and girls from 10 through 18 years of age are invited to attend.

If sufficient interest is shown, a junior garden club will be organized, according to Mrs. Inga Geving, board member of the Minnesota Horticultural Society. Several projects which could occupy the free time of young people during the summer will be discussed at the meeting.

Mrs. Geving has been interested for some time in having flowers planted on all approaches to the city. Flower plots are now maintained each year on highways 32 and 59 on the south and east sides of the city. A junior garden club could do much to help in making the city more attractive, Mrs. Geving said.

Canadians Visit County to Study RAD Organization

Eight Visitors Meet With Committee and Hear Progress Reports

Eight interested persons from the province of Manitoba spent Monday and Tuesday in Thief River Falls to learn about the operations of the local Rural Areas Development organization, according to Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agricultural agent.

The group visited with lay people conducting the program at a meeting Monday. Jon Metusalem, reviewed the purpose and operation of the county organization and Mrs. Silas Hanson reviewed the various projects which RAD was considering. Silas Hanson explained the support given establishment of specialty crops through RAD and Robert Kloubec, SCS conservationist, described last year's Rural Life Sunday activities and the role ministers can play in the organization.

On Tuesday the group studied the initiating of RAD and the study phase of RAD in Pennington county with the county extension agents and Cy Carpenter, RAD president. This is the second group of Canadians which has examined the county program. The first Canadian delegation visited the county in January. A program similar to RAD is being established in Canada under the new ARDA Act.

At a meeting of the Pennington County RAD association April 10, Cy Carpenter was re-elected president and Mrs. Silas Hanson, secretary-treasurer. Elected as new vice-president was Rev. A. Dean Headley, replacing Jon Metusalem who declined the office.

Several requests for assistance with project development were received. A report from a major oil company representative regarding supplying of products for the truck stop was also heard at the Friday meeting.

ASC Chairman Explains New '64 Wheat Plan

Winton Knutson Offers Details of Voluntary Program

Wheat farmers now have a new voluntary wheat program available to help prevent the threatened drop in income from their 1964 crop, Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, said today. The program is provided by legislation enacted April 11, which amends the law under which the wheat program was to have been operated this year.

The new voluntary program offers wheat growers who participate: (1) diversion payments for shifting wheat acreage to conservation uses (similar to the feed grain program), (2) price-support loans averaging $1.30 a bushel nationally, and (3) marketing certificates—with a cash value of 70 cents per bushel for domestic and 25 cents for export—for a large part of the farm's 1964 wheat production.

Knutson explained that wheat producers who wish to take part in the new voluntary program will need to sign up at the ASCS county office—there will be no "automatic" participation. Only those wheat producers who sign up and carry out provisions of the program will be eligible for the program benefits. The signup now is underway, and will extend through May 15, 1964.

Winter wheat growers, as well as spring wheat growers, will be eligible to take part in the 1964 program, Mr. Knutson pointed out. This will be particularly easy for those growers who have planted within their 1964 allotments, since they have already met one of the conditions necessary for participation. Such growers will need to fulfill other conditions for qualifying as a "participant," however, such as devoting acreage diverted from wheat to conserving uses, keeping within other crop allotments, and maintaining their normal conserving base acres.

"Signing up is the first step to taking part in the 1964 wheat program," the chairman emphasized. "Because the season is so late, there will be no advance payments made this year, but the diversion payments will be made and the certificates issued as soon as possible after performance has been checked."

School Board Approves Summer Class Schedule

Bus Garage Also Given Approval On Monday Night

Approval of plans to offer a summer session of courses for credit and of final plans for a new school bus garage was given by the Thief River Falls board of education meeting Monday evening. Representatives of the architectural firm of Hammel & Green attended the session to present plans on the bus garage and remodeling of home economics and science departments.

With funds included in the sale of bonds for school construction and remodeling, the district will build a 24-stall bus garage on school property north of the football field. The present garage near Lincoln will be remodeled to provide space for the auto body and welding departments of the area vocational school to move them out of rental quarters.

With the filings now open for the board of education, the clerk was instructed to secure tellers and judges for the election to be held on Tuesday, May 19. Polls will be open that day from 4 to 9 p. m. Three-year terms of Morris Owen and Robert Bredeson expire this year and board members elected will take office on July 1.

As a result of board action on the summer program, students will be able to take several courses for credit toward graduation on the high school level. Classes on this level will be held from 8 a. m. to noon June 15 to July 31. Courses to be offered include: English, grades 10, 11 and 12; social studies, grade 12; American history; advanced algebra; English composition; and junior high English. Typing will be offered for one-half academic credit.

Offered without credit will be band, orchestra, chorus, personal typing and driver training. Classes will be tuition free for resident students and $40 for non-resident students. A $1 matriculation fee will be charged for all students. Courses which have insufficient registration will be canceled and tuition and fees refunded.

Chuck Bentson Speaks

66 Lettermen Are Feted at Banquet

Sixty-six lettermen at Lincoln high school were honored Monday evening at the annual athletic banquet held in St. Bernard's Catholic church basement. Chuck Bentson, head basketball coach at North Dakota State university, was the guest speaker.

Maynard Troland served as toastmaster for the event with the welcome given by Dr. O. D. Belch, president of the Lions club. The banquet is sponsored each year by the Jaycees, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Lions clubs. Ralph Skay, athletic director, introduced the coaches at all levels of organized sports and the head coaches introduced their letter winners.

Bentson told the athletes assembled at the banquet that there is no excuse for not attending college unless it is an absolute lack of mental ability. He emphasized the importance of earning a degree for later success in life.

Commenting on the headaches of college coaching, he said that recruiting is the major problem. Bentson said he attended a national junior college tournament which turned out to be a virtual "slave market" where players were bought by the highest bidder. If the American public knew what goes on in college recruiting, he said, the people would rise up and put a stop to it.

Letter winners for the 1963-1964 seasons at the school included the following (some receiving more than one letter) with letter winners for the spring sports of 1963 included in the list:

Sq. Dance Group Surveys City For '66 Conclave

The Thief River Falls Squares hosted five out-of-town guests from the Minnesota State Square Dance federation last weekend. The group came to look over the facilities which the city had to offer, with a view to having the state federation convention here in 1966.

John Roach of Glencoe, president of the state federation, headed the group, which also consisted of Walt and Marian Borchert and Gordon and Wilma Shevlien of Faribault.

On the convention committee for the 1964 convention to be held in Mankato on June 18-19-20 are Cletus and Delores Roufs, and on the '65 committee are Dale and Faye Kunza of Willmar.

Site of the '66 convention will be chosen at Mankato at the close of this year's convention, at which time the committee will put their recommendation before the federation. Other cities making bids for the convention are Virginia and Circle Pines.

Gene Durham, president of the Squares, and Randall Noper, past president Ed DeLap, local caller, and Marshall Hankerson, superintendent of schools, conducted the group on a tour of the facilities offered here. The Sunday morning tour terminated at the Fireside Room of Noper's Motel for a brunch hosted by the local dance club.

The committee expressed the view that the facilities might be considered adequate if housing accomodations for 1500-2000 persons could be arranged. Housing problems, according to Mr. Roach, are the greatest concern when arranging any convention outside of the Twin Cities area.

State Cleanup Week Scheduled May 3 to 9

May 3-9 is designated as Clean-up Week in Minnesota for 1964. An annual spring clean-up provides a chance to check for possible accident hazards and to take steps to eliminate them on a year-check of all homes should be carried our during Clean-Up Week. The week supports the annual sanitary inspection of Minnesota communities made each year in the month of May by local health officers.

Home accidents in Minnesota last year accounted for a total of 437 accidental deaths, according to provisional figures from the Minnesota Department of Health. Spring house cleaning should double as an annual check on environmental hazards around the home, yard, and neighborhood. Clean-up week is a good time to check storage cabinets for out-of-date medicnes. Other substances potentially dangerous to children should be put out of their reach—insecticides, weed killers, paint thinners, varnishes, furniture polishes, disinfectants, and cleaning fluids. Return them to their proper storage place after use. Flush discarding. Read the directions on and wash out the container before discarding. Read the directions on the label and follow them before using any medicine or potentialy harmful or combustible substance.

Accumulations of waste and rubble around the home are frequent causes of accidents. To reduce the danger of fire, oily rags and those used with cleaning solutions should be removed from home, including the attic, and yard. Examine stairways to see that theyaare in good repair, well lighted, and equipped with a handrail. Toys and other articles should be removed from stairways and major passageways throughout the house. Electric cords and outlets should be checked for fraying or overloading, and replaced if necessary.

Ladders for painting and changing screens should be maintained in safe condition. Leave them unpainted because paint covers up bad cracks and hides possible hazards. A non-skid base and strong, well-secured rungs are essential. Place the top and bottom of the ladder in a secure position at a safe angle before climbing up.

Before mowing the lawn, check it over for accumulated debris, sticks, and stones which could be thrown by the blade. Glass and sharp implements found in the yard should be picked up. Remove broken bottles, nail-studded boards, and tin cans from the yard, vacant lots, or from other areas where children are likely to play. elimination of community hazards such as open wells, ditches, excavations, abandoned mines, refrigerators, and chests or unprotected sand piles can help to reduce the occurrence of drownings, falls, and mechanical suffocation.

Yard 'n' Garden

Pruning Trees

The beauty and majesty of shade trees comes from their well developed branches and form. For this reason, training and pruning are part of their culture each spring. When you plant a shade tree, remove all narrow crotches but leave those most nearly perpendicular (90 degree angle) to the main trunk. When there are clusters of branches emerging from one point on the main trunk, remove all but one. This is the structural training of the tree.

Older trees that have not been properly trained often create problems. Weak crotches can be dangerous for any property during high winds. If you have this problem, you can do one of a number of things: (1) Remove the limb or branch back to the main trunk; (2) Remove part of the limb to reduce excessive weight or leverage on the weak crotch or: (3) Cable the branch to a stronger one which will hlep to support it. If you choose the latter alternative, you will probably need the services of a professional tree surgeon.

Almost all shade trees can be pruned during spring, early pruning of maple and birch may result in bleeding of the wounds, but this bleeding is seldom harmful to the tree. This is the same phenomenon that occurs in maple sugaring.

Oak should be pruned during winter—in January and February in areas where oak wilt is common.

Treat all wounds or cuts over 2 inches in diameter with orange shellac or a commercial emulsified asphalt-type preparation.

PUBLIC OPINION

Mr Marvin Lundin, Editor
Thief River Falls Times
Thief River Falls, Minnesota

Dear Mr Lundin,

This letter is in reference to your editorial article in the Thief River Falls Times April 15, 1964. I am not sure if this is your personal editorial or if it is something or someone else's thoughts. In any event, the responsibility is there for the article and in the article you first praised the Rural Electric Cooperatives for a job well done (which is not done by any means) and then you turn around in the next paragraph and criticize the Rural Electric Cooperatives' very existence.

Apparently you are carrying on the tradition of your paper and its editorial policy. Whether this is by choice or persuasion is beside the point. I fail to see where you can criticize a program that has done so much for the rural communities such as Thief River Falls and the surrounding area. I am wondering if you have stopped to think what the area would be without rural electrification, and especially Thief River Falls which is your community and is so dependent upon agriculture for its livelihood and progress.

Even the city of Thief River Falls has undoubtedly benefited from the rural electric program. Whether you are aware of it or not, your own cost of power in Thief River Falls has been reduced, or at least has not gone up, since the availability of power which is wheeled to Thief River Falls by means of the facilities of a Rural Electric Cooperative.

You state that your personal memory of electricity on the farm is of stringing of wires and the setting of poles and the enjoyment, comfort and convenience which it brought. This was done by Rural Electric Cooperatives such as ours. You probably do not know that the same arrangement of low cost financing and assistance was offered to the private power companies back in 1935. The private power companies however refused and turned it down as a questionable venture. Now, since it is a successful operation they would like to take it over and it is apparent from your article that you encourage this.

I am sure that you would find the cost to obtain electric service and the cost of the power itself to the consumer, both rural and city, would be much higher if it were left to the power companies.

I fail to see by any stretch of imagination as to why we as a Rural Electric Cooperative should not continue to serve the rural people and the rural area. As it is, we are restricted from serving any community over 1,500 population.

We in the Rural Electric Cooperative business feel we have made a success of our operation due to no assistance from the private power companies and we feel we are beholding to no one but our member consumers.

You state in your article that 60 per cent of the customers of Rural Electric Cooperatives are non-farm consumers. While this could be true of some areas, it definitely is not in ours. Besides this, the Rural Electrification program as it was originally enacted was not spelled out specifically for farms. It was designed and stipulated for rural areas, business and industry as well, who could not obtain central station service. In the same paragraph you state that it should be turned over to the private power companies who operate at top efficiency and contribute much to taxes. I get the impression here that you feel Rural Electric Cooperatives are not operating efficiently. This I take issue with since we feel our Cooperative, as you well know by the news release you printed a few weeks ago of our annual meeting, is operating successfully.

We certainly pay our fair share of taxes which I am sure you would find comparable to any business. I believe possibley you are referring to Income Tax. If this is the case, we would like to state that the cooperative is exempt from income or profit tax and this we feel is justified since we do not have a so-called profit. All margins, which are the excess of revenue over exprenses for the year, are allocated back to the consumer on a patronage basis. And the important thing to remember here is that this (income) or (refund) to the members as an allocation or as cash, is taken into the member's business and the consumer pays or reports this as income in his yearly report.

The Red Lake Cooperative is now paying Capital Credits to the consumers as earned in previous years and as they are paid to the consumer the consumer reports it as income. The tax is paid at the time the payment is received by the consumer. Many consumers have reported their allocation as income for the year and have taken it into their business at the time.

The cooperative wishes to thank you for the back-handed pat on the back for a job well done, but we can not see where it is done by any means.

It is my hope that you will print this letter in your public opinion column.

Yours very truly,
C M Kleven
Manager

P S For your further information we have a territorial agreement of long standing with the municipal and private power companies in our area which spells out that the Cooperative is to serve the rural areas and the municipal or private power companies are to serve the loads within the cities and towns. This has worked out well to the mutual satisfaction of all parties.

Driver Education Expansion Sought

Highway Dept. Will Seek Action in '65 Legislature

Minnesota needs to expand driver education and training in the schools, besides taking other safety measures, to improve safety on the state's roads and streets, says the Minnesota highway department.

The best method of instilling good driving skills and attitudes in the nation's youth is through driver education in the secondary schools, in the opinion of safety experts.

The highway department currently is studying a proposal for expanding driver education and plans to submit it to the 1965 legislature. A similar proposal was submitted to the 1963 legislature. The department hopes to win sufficient support to have the measure enacted into law next year.

The safety measure would make driver education available to all secondary school pupils in the state through the public school system. In addition to providing instruction only for public school students as at present, the current plan contemplates classroom and behind the wheel instruction, in public schools for parochial and private school students.

In the 1962-63 school year, only 36,430 of the 113,000 eligible students were enrolled in driver education courses.

At present, about 90 per cent of the public secondary schools in Minnesota offer classroom instruction in driving. They also offer practice driving courses for a nominal fee, usually during summer vacation periods.

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

A world-wide vote on the question of whether or not we should outlaw all wars would be approved by a substantial majority. But the approval would not be unanimous. Obviously before such a proposal could be given serious consideration a world police organization would have to be formed and also a world court that would have the authority and the power to decide controversial international questions. In the meantime we, as a nation, must maintain a strong military machine.

But our greatest immediate need, as I see it, is a friendlier relationship with those nations that we have been associated with in the past, and with which we should be associated if any future trouble develops that threatens world peace. It is obvious that since 1960 these relationships with our friends have deteriorated seriously.

It is becoming increasingly apparent that our former friends and allies no longer look upon us as the leading power of the free world, and a flight to the moon is not what is needed to restore the former confidence. Too many of those who speak for us are arrogant and understandably offensive. Too often, in recent years, our government has issued orders in discussing world problems with our friends and neighbors, when it would have been much more tactful to suggest that the problems be considered in a spirit of equality.

And Secretary of Defense McNamara is not impressive as he boasts continually of our military superiority and our ability to whip the world. McNamara no doubt is a man of great ability, but he has not demonstrated any greatness as a statesman.

Our neighbors and former friends are not impressed by our approach to the problem of maintaining a stable currency. The members of the European Common Market are now seriously concerned about the threat of world-wide inflation and are holding meetings to consider what steps should be taken to control the wage-price spiral. While our administration talks big about its interest in currency stability, if we judge by what is done rather than by what is promised we can come only to the one conclusion that under our present leadership we are headed for much more inflation and a printing-press currency that will have steadily diminishing buying power.

We are going to spend more, increase our debt and reduce our taxes. Those who champion such a program in Washington should spend a few weeks in Brazil the most recent example of the impossibility of spending ourselves rich.

Our friends in Europe have experienced the hardships of inflation so recently that the present generation remembers the consequenses and wants no more of it. Our leaders in Washington, and too many of them are citizens of Minnesota, are leading us down the path to financial ruin.

Most of our mature people, as the heads of families, the operators of farms, or the managers of a business, can look back to the time when personal economic survival required sacrifice. In order to pay bills and meet expenses there were times when some restraint was required, and the purchase of things they could not at the time afford, had to be postponed. And what was true for people was also true for governments, at all levels. They had to figure out somehow how they could live within their means.

The governments in Europe, and our neighbors up in Canada and down in Mexico, recognize these unpleasanat facts of life, and are trying to adjust themselves to them realistically. The adjustment to reality is never painless. History, in unmistakable terms, tells us that we must pay for past mistakes, not only our own personal mistakes but also the mistakes of those we have authorized to speak for us.

It will not be easy to remain strong in terms of national defense unless we also remain strong financially. The recovery of financial stability is going to require sacrifice and our promising politicians promise us only the best things in life as they lead us merrily down the path to ruin.

MAIN STREET, U.S.A.

BY BERT MILLS
Washington Editor of "National Publisher"

Fifty-six million American women will be eligible to vote in next November's national elections and if a substantial majority of them decide to support a particular Presidential candidate, that man's success is assured.

As an astute politician, President Lyndon B. Johnson is aware of the importance of the female vote. Many of the Johnson policies and practices are calculated to ingratiate him with women. Within a few weeks of taking office, the President named Mrs. Esther Peterson as his special assistant for consumer affairs, in general charge of female matters.

Later he announced, he intended to appoint 50 women to top federal jobs within 30 days. He did not succeed in meeting his time deadline but he has topped his own numerical quota. At last count he had named 98 ladies to high office, and the talent hunt is continuing.

More than a score of the distaff appointees are being paid at least $15,000 a year. Seven of them are in the $20,000-and-up bracket, including two ambassadors, one member each of the Atomic Energy commission and Interstate Commerce commission, a deputy assistant secretary of defense, an assistant secretary of agriculture, and an export-import bank executive.

If some of these posts look like unlikely spots for ladies, they would have been so considered in the past. But President Johnson has told his cabinet to put women in top jobs, or else! One leading bureaucrat, far out of earshot of the President, commented that "Uncle Sam is in danger of being henpecked."

A Lady on the Supreme Court?

If a supreme court vacancy opens up for an LBJ appointment, it will be no surpsie to find one of the last all-male sanctums invaded by a lady jurist. Johnson suggested the sex barrier be broken on the high court in a commencement speech he made as vice president in 1962.

Right now, there are nearly a score of federal judgeships vacant across the country. If some are not filled with ladies, it will be a big surprise. Remember, it was a lady judge who swore in Johnson as President.

While naturally most of the female job choices are deserving Democrats, there are exceptions. In the case of some agency posts, the law requires bipartisan membership. Right now, for example, G. O. P. ladies are being sought for vacancies due in June on the Federal Communications commission and the Tariff commission.

Some of the women are hard to lure to Washington. President Mary I. Bunting of Radcliffe college, for example, rejected several lesser offers until LBJ himself phoned to offer her a seat on AEC. That job proved too challenging for the educator to resist and she accepted. Philanthropist Mary Lasker has persisted in her refusal of a federal post, as has former assisant secretary of defense Anna Rosenberg.

Most of the jobs go to professional women, and most of them are married. Often they cannot pull up stakes and leave home for even the most attractive offer. In some cases, a solution is found by naming them partime consulants. In one instance, the lady consultant draws $100 a day when working for the U. S.

The widow of the late Sen. Estes Kefauver (D. Tenn.) is a talented artist. LBJ made her a consultant to the state department on the decoration of embassies, a $38 a day when working. Mrs. India tEdwards, who used to run women's activities for the Democratic National committee, is now a consultant to the Secreary of Labor on youth employment, at $70 a day.

Civil Servants Get Promoted

In addition to the female newcomers to government President Johnson has not neglected the career women already in government. The White House reports that there have been over 600 promotions to jobs paying $10,000 and up. A sure way for a bureaucrat to win favor with LBJ is to find an outstanding woman to promote.

Recently there was a White House party for "Lyndon's legion of ladies." The President greeted 150 of them as "my favorite kind of people." He told the new appointees and their spouses that "Providence has distributed brains and skills pretty evenly over our people. To conclude that women are unfitted to the risk of our historic society seems to me the equivalent of closing males eyes to female facts."

The President predicted that his example of hiring talented women will be widely followed: "My whole aim in promoting women and picking out more women to serve in this administration is to underline our profound belief that we can waste no talent, we can frustrate no creative power, we can neglect no skill in our search for an open and just and challenging society."

Republicans think perhaps Johnson is overdoing the wooing of the women's vote. They hope to persuade the nation the Democratic concentration on the ladies is cynical politicking but will handle the subject with care, for the G.O.P. needs the ladies at least as badly as its opponents.

U. S. Takes Own Photos

When Alaska was devastated by the Good Friday earthquake, it was obvious that new maps would be required of the altered coastline caused by the huge waves stemming from the quake. Commercial photogrammetry concerns sought the contract. Instead, the U. S. coast and geodetic survey of the department of commerce flew planeloads of its own people from Washington and New Orleans to do a job private industry could have handled.

Incidentally, there are five government agencies in the mapping field, and only one per cent of the photo work is contracted to private firms, which contend they can do the aerial mapping at a lower cost than any U. S. agency—and have a profit left to meet the tax bill.

Local printers have complained for years of subsidized competition from the post office department, which produces and sells envelopes containing printing at a price below wholesale cost of private concerns. A number of bills are pending in Congress to ban this cut-price competition and Postmaster General John A. Gronouski is studying the situation.

Retailers have protested strongly against sale of all manner of merchandise at post exchanges. Obviously in remote areas military families must be provided the opportunity to meet their needs but when there is a supermarket right outside the gate and a department store not far away, merchants see no excuse for competition from the government they help support with their taxes. The Pentagon has cracked down on post exchanges as a result of protests from private enterprise.

Government is an octopus which keeps spreading its tentacles unless it is halted. Buskeness representatives hope to strike a blow for free enterprise by applying the brakes.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Recommendation

The twelve high schools—Indus, Baudette, Williams, Warroad, Roseau, Hallock, Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls, East Grand Forks, Crookston, Bemidji, and Red Lake—in Region Eight that sponsor hockey as a major sport, had representatives at a meeting held in Grand Rapids on Monday. And 19 of the 21 schools having hockey in Region Seven also had representatives at this meeting.

The purpose of the meeting, and it was called under instructions from the State High School league, was to adopt a resolution or recommendation to be forwarded to the State High School League advising of the wishes of the member schools of Regions Seven and Eight with regard to a playoff proposal to determine the Region Three entry in the state high school hockey tournament.

For the past nineteen years, since the first state tourney was held in 1945, the two regions have been alternating in sending their regional tournament runner-up team to the state meet as the Region Three entry. This system will be abolished.

At Monday's meeting it was voted, after considerable discussion, and opposition from District 26 (the Duluth area district), that a playoff game between the runner-up teams in the Region Seven and Region Eight tournaments would be played, and that the winner of this game would be the Region Three entry.

The Duluth area protested and cast a near-unanimous vote against the proposal. It was the contention of this group that the Duluth area should be recognized as a bona-fide region, and that this area should be designated as Region Three. Arguments voiced against the Duluth proposal were to the effect that District 26 had only one hockey "power", and that being Duluth East.

Board Approval Expected

The resolution, calling for a playoff game, was adopted. This resolution will be taken under consideration by the State Board of Control at its meeting on Friday. There is every indication that the State Board will acknowledge the wishes of the majority of the high schools in Regions Seven and Eight.

The mechanics of the playoff, where it will be played, and the dates, and under which region's jurisdiction, will await the decision of the State Board. Something had to be done.

By the way, did you note in my listing of the twelve schools sponsoring hockey in Region Eight the name Red Lake? The Red Lake Agency high school will ice a team next season, and this club should make a colorful addition to Region Eight hockey competition.

Another idea that I have heard discussed, and which has merit, is that an invitation should be extended to Detroit Lakes to join the Region Eight hockey conference. The Lakers play such teams as Red Lake Falls, East Grand Forks, Bemidji, and others in this vicinity, but when they move into the state tourney playoffs the Lakers have to travel to the Twin Cities and engage in tournament play against such suburban teams as Bloomington and others. The Lakers would be a welcome addition to Region Eight hockey.

And then, too, there is merit in the suggestion that Region Eight, for purposes of sub-regional play, be divided into a north division and a south division. Last year, it will be recalled, the sub-regional tournament was held at Warroad, and such teams as East Grand Forks, Red Lake Falls and Crookston were forced to make the long jaunt to the border town. A pair of sub-regional tournaments, one in the north and one in the south, would be a convenience for the teams and the fans.

It's Officially Open

While the Prowlers vs. Fosston game scheduled for Fosston on Tuesday afternoon was postponed (it will be played on May 23), the Warren Ponies and Goodridge Huskies took advantage of the balmy weather of Monday afternoon to open the high school baseball season.

In a Polar conference game played at Warren, the Huskies, behind Bob Vigen's pitching, edged out coach Jim Oftedahl's Ponies, 4 to 3, in eight innings.

The Prowlers are slated to meet the Ponies at Warren this afternoon, Wednesday, but after yesterday's rain it's doubtful if the date will be filled. The Goodridge Huskies are to open the Prowlers' home season by meeting coach Ralph Skay's team on the fairgrounds diamond on Friday afternoon at 4 p. m.

But Warren and Goodridge, on Monday afternoon, officially opened the season.

Some Fine Bowling

The powerhouse bowlers from Grand Forks moved into the Family Bowl lanes here on Saturday, for participation in the singles and doubles handicap tournament that was concluded on Sunday. And when the cannonading was ended on Saturday, Tom Devine, with a 697-pin aggregate, had taken over first place in the singles event.

Devine, one of Grand Forks' high average bowlers, with a 190-plus average, rolled games of 214-194-258, for 666 actual. With his 31-pin handicap, Devine had a total of 697. He had only two open frames during the three-game series, getting a split in the fourth frame of his first game, and another split, in the second frame, in his second game.

In piling up his 258-pin game, Devine opened with a double, then had a spare, a strike, a spare, and a string of six strikes. During his three-game series, Devine racked up a total of twenty-two strikes.

The doubles lead, which had been held by Vern Ogaard and Laddie Haugild of Crookston with a 1258 on Saturday, was taken by Lyle Roue and Andy Holum with a 1262 on Sunday night. Roue, with a 50-pin handicap, had games of 222-170-177; and Holum, with a 63-pin handicap, scored games of 176-158-246. That 246 score being the highest mark that Holum had ever bowled, with his previous high having been a 236.

Discussion topics include emergency broadcast system, national warning system, how local governments are organized to act in an emergency, the community civil defense plan, state-wide training and education programs, state and federal resources for local governments, Minnesota fallout patterns, fallout shelter provisions and the importance of pre-disaster civil defense planning.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by visiting or writing the VA Contact Office at the Fargo VA Center, Fargo, North Dakota.

Q—Are widows of veterans eligible for GI home loans

A—Veterans' widows may be eligible for GI home loans if they meet these requirements: They must be unremarried widows of veterans of World War II or the Korean Conflict who died in service or after separation from service as the result of service-connected disabilities. Entitlement for World War II widows expires July 25, 1967, and for widows of Korean Conflict veterans January 31, 1975.

Q—Why is a so-called "C-number" necessary in connection with veterans benefits? Shouldn't the veteran's name and proof of service be sufficient?

A—There are many veterans (sometimes hundreds) with the same name and middle initial. Periods of service are often duplicated. A C-number (claim number) positively identifies the record of the individual veteran.

The happy combination of guaranteed return, liquidity, safety and direct contribution to American security, gives U. S. Savings Bonds a well-merited place in the investment portfolio of any household.

Sheriff's Office Reports Several Traffic Mishaps

Considerable Damage and Several Injuries Result From Recent Accidents

Four traffic accidents, with considerable damage resulting to cars involved, were reported this morning by the Pennington county sheriff's department. Several injuries of a minor nature were also sustained in the accidents.

About 7 p. m. Sunday a two-car accident at the junction of CAR 77 and CAR 64 about three-fourths mile north of the golf course bridge resulted in two cars being severely damaged. A car driven north on CAR 77 by Bruce Bugge, Thief River Falls, was struck from the rear by a car driven by Laverne Bakken, Thief River Falls, and overturned in the east ditch north of the intersection with CAR 64.

Passengers in the Bugge car were David Melin, rt. 3, Red Lake Falls, Vera Wankewick and Willie Stoesz of Steinbach, Man., Canada. Riding in the Bakken car were Milton Wiebe and William Hildebrand of Steinbach and Pauline Corbell, Thief River Falls. No injuries were reported.

At about 8 p. m. on Saturday, a car driven by Robert E. Johnson, Holt, missed a turn from highway 59 on to a township road about one mile north of the Pennington-Red Lake county line. The auto went across the township road, flipped into a deep ditch and struck a concrete culvert. About $700 damage was done to the car but Johnson escaped injury.

On April 13 a car driven east on SAR 3 about 12 miles west of St. Hilaire by Dorothy Sletten of Angus skidded on the icy road and overturned in the south ditch, coming to rest facing west. Alone in the car, the driver received glass cuts and was treated at the local hospital. The mishap occurred about 10 a. m. Considerable damage was done to the car which was owned by Elton Oberg of Angus.

On April 8 a car driven by James Richard Pribula, rt. 2, East Grand Forks, was traveling east on SAR 3 about one mile west of St. Hilaire when it was struck from the rear by a car driven by Charles T. Anderson, St. Hilaire. Damage was estimated at approximately $400 to each car and Anderson appeared in municipal court on a charge of careless driving. Anderson received a knee injury in the mishap while Pribula and Jane Brouse, a passenger in the Pribula car, complained of back and neck pains.

PUBLIC OPINION

Mr. Marvin Lundin, Editor, Times
Thief River Falls, Minn.
Dear Editor,

As a director of a Rural Electric Cooperative, I feel I am obligated to bring you up to date about the Rural Electric Cooperatives, and the Rural Electrification Administration.

The job of the Rural Electric Cooperatives is far from being completed as you stated in your editorial April 15. They must keep on building new lines to form loops to give greater service to the members, and they must heavy up many existing lines to carry the amount of current needed to meet the increased loads of the members, and some single phase lines must be changed to three phase to meet the demands of larger services, plus the installations of many voltage regulators to keep the current at the correct voltage on the long lines. As the use of electricity continues to increase these improvements will have to be made for many years to come, so it is very necessary that financing be available at a low interest rate. Therefore the need of REA is not finished as you indicated in your column.

The new non-farm customers that you referred to, request power from the rural electrics because they are in the rural electric area. It is not because rural electrics expanded in someone else's area, so they did not take a load away from anyone.

The last paragraph in the article indicates you have been reading some irresponsible articles and believing them.

When you say leave the expansion to the tax-paying power companies that make this nation great, it indicates that the Rural Electric Cooperative has not contributed to the cause, and even may hinder it. This is a deplorable statement.

When the rural electrification was formed, it did more for the rural people in the nation than anything else the government has done for them, and you should know by now that without the rural people, this nation wouldn't be very great. I think the Rural Electric Cooperatives have played a major part in making this a great nation, not only from creating a lot of business for manufacturers and laborers and businessmen, but from the taxes they pay, as well as the privately financed companies. The income tax you refer to as the tax-paying companies is collected from their customers in their rate structure, and is forwarded to the government by the company. The margins of a cooperative are set up in capital credits and returned to the customers and are included in their income, so they pay taxes on it. So it all boils down to the same thing. It is the customer who pays the taxes.

I have only touched on the highlights of your editorial, but I hope I have given you enough information, so you will be more up to date on the status of the REA and the Rural Electric Cooperatives.

Yours truly,
Raymond Parnow

Employment Tells of Jobholder Status

State Department Tells of Jobholder Status

The monthly report of labor market conditions released today by the Minnesota department of employment security revealed that the number of nonfarm jobholders in Minnesota rose to 974,200 in March, a gain of 2,700 over February, and an increase of 15,500 above the employment level in March last year.

Commissioner Frank T. Starkey said that the one-month change was only about half the usual increase between February and March, largely because February employment was bolstered by a longer-than-usual sugar beet processing season. A drop in government employment, which usually increases by six to nine hundred jobs during this period, also tempered the increase, Starkey said.

Total nonfarm employment traditionally begins an upswing during March and climbs to a September peak, Starkey said. It had been estimated that 1964 nonfarm employment would average about 20,000 higher than in 1963—when it was 998,700—but if present trends continue it may not increase as expected.

Starkey reported that total unemployment in Minnesota declined slightly between February and March 1963. The unemployment rate currently stands at 7.6 per cent of the labor force, the same as a year ago. The rate in February was 7.8 per cent.

Production workers in Minnesota's manufacturing industries earned an average of $106.64 per week in March by working 40.5 hours for $2.63 per hour. The corresponding figures for February were $105.47, 40.3, and $2.62; last March they were $104.61, 40.5, and $2.58.

Bank Debits Here in March Gain 15 Per Cent over '63

Bank debits in Thief River Falls were up 15 per cent from the same month a year ago, according to statistics released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. In dollars, bank debits volume here during March was $8,230,000. In the same month of 1963 the total figure was $7. months of 1964, bank bebits here amounted to 24,720,000, an increase of 11 per cent over 1963's $2,320,000.

Bank debits represent the dollar volume of checks drawn by depositors against their bank account. Since most of these checks go to pay for local goods and services, the debit figure is considered to be a fairly reliable indicator of general changes in business volume.

"Some have narrowed their minds, and so fettered them with the chains of antiquity that not only do they refuse to speak save as the ancients spake, but they refuse to think save as the ancients thought. How Long ?

We wonder how long it will be before the government of Brazil makes its official announcement as being a communist government. All too often we have seen the United States sanction new governments, grant aid and support and loudly proclaim their vitures, only to find that we have a tiger by the tail.

Cuba is a case in point. Fidel Castro was the savior of a nation suffering from the oppression of Batista's dictatorship. As a nation we hailed the overthrow of the Batista tyranny. When the proper time came, we got our knuckles rapped. The same thing has happed elsewhere. It will probably happen in Brazil. The question is, how soon?

Turnabout; Fair Play?

In 1948, when a number of legislators attempted to pass a so-called civil rights bill, one of the senators vigorously opposed such legislation. He stated the following:

> "This civil rights program is a farce and a sham—an effort to set up a police state in the guise of liberty. I am opposed to that program. I fought it in Congress. It is the province of the State to run its own elections. I am opposed to the anti-lynching bill because the federal government has no more business enacting a law against one form of murder than another. I am against FEPC because if a man can tell you whom to hire, he can tell you whom you cannot employ. I have met this head-on."

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas apparently meant what he said. The proposed law is just as dangerous now as it was then. The major difference in Johnson's attitude could result from his ascension to the Presidency, not only falling heir to an administration-sponsored program but also assuming a position of power which would be strengthened greatly by passage of the bill.

Confusion Reigns

In problems of conflicting interests, it is difficult to sort out the truth from the heresay, the facts from the distortions and the genuine concern from the seeking of sympathy. This is particularly true of the racial controversy in our nation and the groups organized to advocate one side or the other.

One thing is certain, and has been proved again and again. That is the fact that communism thrives where there is confusion and uncertainty. Whatever else the communist cause is, it is the best organized and most successfully implemented movement in the world today.

Not bound by any moral code or semblance of ethics, the communist party uses any number of schemes to create confusion, to raise doubts, to sow seeds of discontent, to incite violence and to cultivate resentment. Its goal of world domination lurks behind all of these efforts—and they are by no means confined to nations outside of the United States. In fact, considerable emphasis is being placed by the communists in this nation on centralization of government and creation of disorder and confusion.

One of the groups entered in the civil rights controversy is the "Defenders of the American Constitution, Inc." Its president is P. A. Del Valle, retired as a Lt. General from the U. S. Marine Corps. This group has gone so far as to issue warnings that the communists plan to use ". . .trained cadres of communist blacks...." for taking over the country. It claims that the 200 or more demonstrations in the past few years and the march on Washington in 1963 was a rehearsal for the actual attempt.

This group also circulated copies fo a sworn affidavit from Karl Prussion, a former FBI counterspy, who claims he attended five county committee meetings of the communist party in California from 1951 through 1958. He states that directives were issued at each of these meetings that, "All communists working within the framework of the NAACP are instructed to work for a change of the passive attitude of the NAACP toward a more militant, demonstrative, class struggle policy to be expressed by sit-ins, demonstrations, marches and protests, for the purpose of transforming the NAACP into an organization for the achievement of communist objectives."

We do not know the extent to which these directives may have been issued or carried out, but we can well believe that communists plan to make the most of our racial situation. It is doubtful that communist leaders will encourage full-scale violence, although that is not at all an impossibility. In turning countryman against countryman they would be creating a house divided against itself.

More likely, however, the communists are using the Negro as a wedge in our governmental structure. The communists have made civil rights one of their main areas of concern. "It must at all times receive our top attention," stated Gus Hall, secretary-general of the communist party in the U. S., in regard to the pending civil rights legislation.

At present there are enough do-good, vote-hungry senators to pass the bill if it comes to a vote. A minority, using debate powers provided for in the Senate to assure a minority voice, has succeeded in delaying the vote. We hope their statements will change enough opinions so that the civil rights bill is defeated. There are too many bad points in the legislation, points which would grant federal authorities many powers to which they have no right.

All Out Effort

While politicians are always mindful of elections, very little actual campaigning has been going on in Minnesota thus far in an election year. About the only effort expended by a candidate has been that put forth by Wheelock Whitney of Wayzata. In support of his effort to oppose Sen. Eugene McCarthy, he has visited all areas of the state and hurled challenges to the incumbent.

His latest move has been to challenge Sen. McCarthy to a debate "before the largest group possible at the nearest date possible." It would be an interesting exchange of opinions.

Sen. McCarthy, who spoke at a farm forum here a short time ago, has been criticized by Republicans for reversing his stand on several matters. Among these are aids for college students and the imports of beef which are said to have contributed to depressed cattle prices. We wonder if Minnesota's junior senator will rise to the occasion and accept the challenge.

REA Arises

As evidenced in the public opinion columns of today's Times, Rural Electrification Association cooperatives in this area have become aroused at editorial opinion expressed in this paper. The two letters from cooperatives headquartered in Warren and Red Lake Falls are among the best-written and objective letters we have received for some time.

This editor has a personal acquaintance with both Charlie Kleven of Red Lake Electric and Bob Graham of P. K. M. Electric. Both are extremely capable men in their managerial capacities and are candid in their expression of opinion. We thank them for their comments and urge our readers to read the letters mentioned.

Local cooperatives apparently felt that last week's editorial was an attack directly upon them, or they would not have responded as they did. Since they were included by association with REA and not specifically excluded by name, the assumptions were logical. Our editorial was not directed at our local cooperatives, however, but at the national picture affecting tax-payers.

We have expressed our opinion, and will continue to do so, that loaning of government funds (public tax funds, no matter how you look at it) at an interest rate below interest being paid by the government represents something more than a simple loan. This is not sound economy, whether it be for REA cooperatives, private business or municipal utilities.

We are aware that consideration is being given to raising the 2 per cent interest rate on REA loans. As for retaining 2 per cent loans for cooperatives "in need", we know of no instance presently where a lending agency adjusts its interest rates according to need of borrowers.

We also recognize that the municipal operation in Thief River Falls is a non-tax-paying utility. Its rates are high and its annual profits are used by the city in lieu of taxes, however. The proposed natural gas system for Thief River Falls is being considered on a franchise basis to a private company.

Constructive criticism is a good thing. We encourage readers who disagree with us, or even occasionally agree, to express their opinions in print.
